As pointed out a while ago, Dulce also looked into the Social Security Death Index, and was heavily attacked on this discussion board of DU, for doing this.

However, this index has something to say about the official passengers of Flight 11: There exists in the United States the Social Security Death Index. It contains death 75,163,608 Records

<http://ssdi.genealogy.rootsweb.com/cgi-bin/ssdi.cgi>

The SSDI does not include death records for everyone who has been issued a Social Security Number (card). Common reasons for exclusion include the following:

- The death was not reported to the Social Security Administration (SSA).
- The death occurred before the Death Master File was maintained in a computer database. About 98 percent of the deaths in this database occurred between 1962 and the present.
- The person did not participate in the Social Security program.
- Survivor death benefits were (are) being paid to dependents or spouse.
- A recent death may not be indexed yet.
- Human error. (Before you give up, read the section titled "Missing Entries in the SSDI.")

If you do not find a listing in the SSDI, it does not mean the person is still living, or that the Social Security Administration (SSA) has no records on the deceased. See "Contacting the SSA for Information" for instructions on requesting information on individuals not in the SSDI.

The list with these strange irregularities continued and can be seen in this discussion thread.

I can reveal that since we're also looking into the fact that Flight 11 officially departed from two different gates (26 and 32), we asked 9/11 family members, if they could confirm some of these oddities. After a while, one of the close correspondents of 6-9000 family members, told me that flight 11 family members had been scared to speak out and didn't want to receive further e-mails on that matter.
