Actually, what we talked about from the first day, namely - that the West not only received the formula, but successfully recreated the "Beginner", but carefully concealed it, - was confirmed. Well, the fact that they hid their designs - no surprise at all.

It is known that the Skripali for 4 hours turned off the GPS on their smartphones. This means that they held a meeting that was considered secret. The frank delusions of the official statements of the British authorities, their deliberate lies about many other strange deaths, including Litvinenko and Berezovsky, allow one to take seriously the version about their direct participation in the elimination of the Violins.

Information that, 3 days after the "attempt", Skripal's daughter visited her page "Vkontakte", completely destroys the version of official propaganda.
