
Schwaller de Lubicz and the Fourth Reich

Laura Knight-Jadczyk

Many readers have written to me asking about the work of Rene Schwaller de Lubicz, and why I have suggested that work based on his ideas is misleading. I have before me the lovely boxed set of his magnum opus, The Temple of Man, in which Schwaller makes all kinds of claims about the "pharaonic intelligence" and thought, which we must take as true simply because he says so. Oh, indeed, he does attempt to dazzle the ignorant and easy believer with his mathematical and "symbolique" feats of cerebral derring-do, but when his sentences are examined carefully for content, one makes the most distressing discovery that the word density of Schwaller is quite low. And he helpfully informs us at the beginning, in case we don't get it, that if we don't get it, it's going to be our fault because we aren't bright enough to get it.

Schwaller de Lubicz settled in Egypt in 1938 and for the next 15 years studied the symbolism of the temples, particularly Luxor, finding what he considered to be proof that the ancient Egyptians were the ultimate examples of Synarchy, because they were ruled by a group of elite initiates. He failed to point out that the Egyptian civilization was static and limited. What's more, it caved in on itself, and never managed to produce any significant work of benefit for humanity, as mathematician Otto Neugebauer showed. In fact, Neugebauer made it clear that the Egyptian civilization was a hindrance to the development of mankind. The Pharaonic lifestyle was that of a small group of the "elite," served and worshipped by everyone else - and that all others were, essentially, expendable.

But let's back up a bit and review some history.

Clement of Alexandria established the idea that the "true philosophy" was Hebrew, and that it was preserved most closely in the Egyptian "Mystery Schools." I would like for the reader who has not done so, to stop right now and read my series of articles entitled Who Wrote the Bible? for a better understanding of why this single point is so important.

The Ten Commandments declares from the start: "I am the Lord Your God." But that's only half the story. A reading of the full verse shows how belief in the God of Torah is predicated on the Exodus experience: "I am the Lord Your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt from the house of slavery."

The Jewish people have survived for thousands of years, against all odds, because, as they say, "we knew clearly the truth of Torah." When the Jews who lived during the times of the Crusades chose to be burned at the stake rather than convert, they were certain that they were not dying for a god and a religion that was based on lies. Many Jews nowadays, in reaction to "biblical revisionism," claim that to suggest otherwise is to insult the millions of Jews who have died for their beliefs. If Torah isn't true, what were they dying for? And if Torah wasn't true, on what is the "New Covenant of Christ based?"

What is more, to say that the Bible is composed from four different texts, and that we have an idea of how it was "invented" or from what other traditions the stories may have been borrowed with a greater or lesser degree of distortion, does not deal with the central issue. When we have taken the whole thing apart and have ascertained, as much as possible, the approximate legitimacy of each element, there still remains another question that actually constitutes the essence of the matter: What are the main trends of the whole? What are the lines of force running through the ideological field in which the details are placed?

Well, that started to bug me. I thought about the fact that the Jews are not the only ones who die for their beliefs, or who are dying right now for their beliefs, including many Palestinians. I would also like to point out that, because of the beliefs of the Jews, and the consequences of those beliefs, including the creation of Christianity, which was founded on the platform of Judaism, many multiplied millions of human beings have died. Out of the deaths that were the result of World War II, the deaths of Jews constitute only one tenth of the total. It could be then said that 55 million other human beings - most of them Christian - died for the sake of the beliefs of the Jews.

It struck me forcibly that something was wrong with this picture.

I then further considered the matter: as a result of Christianity, which evolved out of Judaism, we could begin to count the numbers of Native Americans, Hawaiians, Africans, South Americans, and a host of other peoples of a dozen or more other faiths that have given up their lives to the depredations of monotheism.

The saying of Jesus, when he was accused of casting out demons by the power of Satan kept sneaking back into my head and whispering: "By their fruits you shall know them." And it was pretty evident that this idea that any one group had the hotline to God was a tree that bore very bitter fruit. It then struck me as strange that, automatically, I was using a saying of Jesus as a yardstick of reality in which I was trying to determine the reality of Jesus and all that went before. I realized how deeply this system pervades the psyche of the Western mind, and how nearly impossible it is to even formulate a coherent thought without it. Nevertheless, as a yardstick, the "fruits agenda" seemed to be useful. It suggested an empirically observable way in which we might evaluate our reality. We know, for example, that very often a beautiful plant, with succulent appearing fruit, can be deadly poison. Contrariwise, some plants that are really ordinary in appearance, with unattractive fruit, are quite tasty and beneficial. So, I decided that the "fruits agenda" could safely be employed as an evaluation criterion.

I tried to imagine a situation in which monotheism - the idea of one, and only one, universal god with a "chosen group" of followers and priests - was not the arbiter of our reality. I tried to imagine a world where religion was not the reason people would consider themselves more special or "chosen" than other people, or more "right" or having a monopoly on the "real" Universal God, in the "right" context, and with the "right" rituals and modes of worship. I tried to imagine a world where "saving" others from their errors was not a priority, and I suddenly realized that such a world, where everyone accepted everyone else's view of god, or gods, or worship as being right for them, would be a far more pleasant world. And suddenly, I realized that Judaism is the trunk of the tree that bears bitter fruit, and monotheism is at the root of all the religions that dominate the Western world today.

During Passover and on Good Friday of this year (2001), the Los Angeles Times published an article entitled Doubting the Story of Exodus. A number of Jewish commentators wrote scathingly that the "the timing was typical of the insensitivity often shown in mainstream media to religious Jews and Christians." This insensitivity was compared to publishing an article on Martin Luther King's extramarital affairs on Martin Luther King Day.

I had to wonder when I read that remark if the writer was even conscious of the comparison he was drawing: that there are "dirty secrets" behind Yahweh's claim to be a liberator and a "good guy?" And what is so "insensitive" about TRUTH?

The main complaint of the Jews regarding the findings of the scholars (in this case, archaeologists in particular) that the Exodus never happened, is that their whole religion and claim to Palestine is based on Exodus. If the Exodus never happened, then there is nothing to Judaism. And, they have a point.

But that is what the evidence shows: that the story of Exodus, as told by the Bible, simply never happened. Every effort and attempt to juggle the times, or suggest real historical explanations that might fit, end in failure. And believe me, I have read a lot of them looking for the one that might really fit myself! I admit that I have been as desperate as anyone to discover the "truth" of the Bible.

One of my favorite arguments, for a rather long time, was to denigrate science as being full of anti-religious bias to begin with, and then I would point out all the accounts of scientific theories that have been proven wrong in order to support my argument. I would sneeringly remark that, since scientists can't make up their mind about anything, or since they often change their theories based on new data, that we ought not to believe any of them about anything until they finally give us the final and complete answer. Meanwhile, we are better off believing Yahweh and/or Jesus since they do claim to have the final answer!

I would then point out how the Big Bang proved that God created the universe, and that scientists didn't like this theory because of that very reason. The fact of the matter is that now I have studied the Big Bang theory in some detail, and I realize that a more materialistic theory of the origins of the universe has never been invented, and it is actually not a very good one. The Big Bang theory, despite the best efforts of many scientists to "cook the data" and make it work, is slowly being overturned as a useful theory. Does that prove that we ought to believe the Bible, and that we ought to stop looking for answers?

And yet again, I am reminded of a parable of Jesus! The story of the Pearl of Great price where the guy knew that there was a field with a treasure buried in it, and he sold all he owned to purchase the field.

Well, of course, that parable is used repeatedly to symbolize giving up everything you own to have salvation by faith. But what if that pearl is Knowledge and "giving up everything you own" means to expend all efforts in the pursuit of knowledge? What if it relates to the Parable of the Talents and "burying one's talent" is equivalent to not taking the risk and buying the field? What if not going after the pearl is the act of stopping thinking, to stop trying to learn and discover? What if it is equivalent to stop knocking and asking at the door? And if we stop, if we do not trade with our talents, and if we do not exert all our efforts to purchase that knowledge, if we sit down and bury our talent by settling on a belief and stopping thinking, will we possibly be cast into outer darkness?

In fact, Jesus said: "You will know the Truth, and the truth will set you free. The only problem is, different groups have their own version of the truth, and each group thinks that the version it has is the right "truth." Is it so that only one group gets to be right in the end? And if so, which one? And if not, then what is everybody dying for?

Regarding the general consensus that has been reached among scholars, after many years of hard work and painful attempts to prove Exodus, they simply had to be honest with themselves and admit that they couldn't find what they were looking for. Those who accuse them of "anti-religious" bias don't know much about archaeologists. Many of them enter the field because they want, more than anything, to prove the Bible to be true. But thankfully, most of them are honest, even if it hurts. And it certainly has to be painful to report discoveries when they know they will face vicious attacks from true believers. One Jewish commentator on the matter wrote:

According to the book of Exodus, the Israelites spent only 40 years in the desert over 3,000 years ago. What could possibly remain from a mere 40 years in a desert 3,000 years later? And since when does the alleged lack of physical proof mean something never happened or doesn't exist?

Apparently this writer failed to read the evidence carefully. Evidence was most definitely found of individuals in the desert. Some of this evidence was even older than the times of the supposed Exodus. Some evidence was from later times. The point was that there was NO evidence found in the time period in which the Exodus was supposed to have occurred, and certainly NO evidence of the vast hordes of Israelites that were supposed to have been members of the forty year wandering party. And the archaeologists involved even went to great extremes in allowing as wide a window of time as possible to cover any and all possible scenarios.

No Exodus; no Cigar.

The above writer would certainly demand some physical proof if he was charged with a crime in a court of law! And the point is that it seems that religion is, indeed, guilty of a crime. The fruits of the religions of man are horrible persecutions, multiplied millions upon millions of deaths, and we still persist in saying that we don't need some sort of evidence that our beliefs are appropriate? Maybe it's true; maybe we can never have any "proof" of the physical kind that they are true, but we certainly have circumstantial evidence, and it all points to monotheism as being guilty of a terrible crime perpetrated against humanity.

The arguments for the Exodus, as described in the Bible, descend rapidly to some of the most absurd comments I have ever read. One writer snidely remarked:

I have no doubt that many of the archaeologists who are so certain that the Jews never wandered out of Egypt are quite sure that there is intelligent life somewhere in the universe. But on what basis? Despite decades of highly sophisticated probing, we do not have a shred of evidence to support the belief that intelligent life exists anywhere else. They choose to believe it because logic suggests to them that intelligent life exists out there. Well, logic suggests to many of us that Jews were slaves in Egypt and that there was an exodus. For thousands of years Jews have been retelling this story. It is possible that it is all a 3,000-year-old fairy tale, but do logic and common sense suggest this? Why would a people make up such an ignoble history? Why would a people fabricate a myth of its origins in which it is depicted so negatively?

There is no parallel in human history to the Hebrew Bible's negative depiction of the Jews' national origins. The Torah's depiction of the Jews' exodus from Egypt to Canaan portrays the Jews as ingrates, rebels and chronic complainers, undeserving of the freedom G-d and Moses brought them. Moreover, aside from Moses, the heroes of the story are nearly all non-Jews. It is the daughter of Pharaoh who saves and rears Moses (later Jewish tradition actually holds her to be his mother); it is a Midianite priest, Jethro, who tells Moses how to govern the Jewish people; and the two midwives who refuse the pharaoh's order to kill all male Jewish babies are almost certainly Egyptians. As for Moses himself, he is depicted as being raised an Egyptian. That is one of the three reasons I am certain of the Jews' slavery and exodus. Any people that makes up a history for itself makes sure to depict itself as heroic and other peoples as villains. That the Torah's story does the very opposite is for me an unassailable argument on behalf of its honesty. [\[3\]](#)

Aside from the ridiculous comparison of probing outer space - to which we have no direct access - to the study of archaeology, which is definitely a hands-on activity with many tools at its disposal, the argument about the "ignoble" beginnings is actually specious. In fact, using a history of slavery and suffering to induce a people to unite into a certain mode of action is a rather common Machiavellian trick. In fact, it is precisely the argument Hitler used to rally the Germans to throw off the yoke of the Treaty of Versailles. What is more, such an argument is also a backward way of saying: "See how special we are? We were ingrates and stiff-necked, and we fought Yahweh all the way. But he chose us, so what can we do? We are the ones, the only ones, that he has chosen thus, and therefore it must be because there is something wonderful and special about us, and nobody else on the planet is as wonderful and special as we are!" And in fact, I have found that both arguments are used by Jews - either one will do when it is convenient. Allow me to point out that this is not a "Jewish" trait, it is a human trait. What is more, the Jews are not the only ones who claim an origin as slaves!

But, there is something more to Judaism than meets the eye. Another commentator pointed out that the Jews have preserved the Torah and observed all of its meticulous laws for thousands of years, under the most adverse circumstances, with minimal deviation, after being scattered all over the world.

The argument that this is proof of the validity of the Bible says that the various theories of the "Biblical scholars" as to when, where and by whom the Bible was allegedly composed do not explain how the "stubborn, stiff-necked" Jewish people (as described in the Bible) were tricked or coerced into accepting a purported monumental hoax. Nor do the experts have any rational explanation as to why the Jews have clung so tenaciously and meticulously to the commandments for so many centuries and through so much persecution!

They ask: If the Exodus never happened, how did it become so deeply ingrained in the collective Jewish psyche? How is it that no natural Jews, however secular they may be, can trace their ancestry back further than four generations without running into a solid line of believers in Torah? What would cause generation after generation to endure so much suffering for the sake of some phony hoax some Israelite ruler put over on the ignorant multitude? The experts have no answer as to how the entire Jewish people (including the so-called "Ultra Orthodox") all agreed to go along with a weird scheme and kept it up for century after century even when easier and more popular schemes came along.

Good points, yes? How in the world could so many people be fooled for so long by a purported hoax, when all of them are so obviously superior in mental and spiritual qualities?

Well, I think we can find the answer to this question, though the reader will need to bear with me here. First, let's take a look at a story told to P.D. Ouspensky by Georges Gurdjieff about an evil magician.

There is an Eastern tale which speaks about a very rich magician who had a great many sheep. But at the same time this magician was very mean. He did not want to hire shepherds, nor did he want to erect a fence about the pasture where his sheep were grazing. The sheep consequently often wandered into the forest, fell into ravines, and so on, and above all they ran away, for they knew that the magician wanted their flesh and skins and this they did not like.

At last the magician found a remedy. He hypnotized his sheep and suggested to them first of all that they were immortal and that no harm was being done to them when they were skinned, that, on the contrary, it would be very good for them and even pleasant; secondly he suggested that the magician was a good master who loved his flock so much that he was ready to do anything in the world for them; and in the third place he suggested to them that if anything at all were going to happen to them it was not going to happen just then, at any rate not that day, and therefore they had no need to think about it. Further the magician suggested to his sheep that they were not sheep at all; to some of them he suggested that they were lions, to others that they were eagles, to others that they were men, and to others that they were magicians.

And after this all his cares and worries about the sheep came to an end. They never ran away again but quietly awaited the time when the magician would require their flesh and skins."

In order to awaken, first of all one must realize that one is in a state of sleep. And, in order to realize that one is, indeed, in a state of sleep, one must recognize and fully understand the nature of the forces which operate to keep one in the state of sleep, or hypnosis. It is absurd to think that this can be done by seeking information from the very source which induces the hypnosis.

Theoretically, (a man can awaken),but practically it is almost impossible because as soon as a man awakens for a moment and opens his eyes, all the forces that caused him to fall asleep begin to act upon him with tenfold energy and he immediately falls asleep again, very often dreaming that the is awake or awakening.[5]

When I first read this story in 1985 or 86, I was so enraged at the suggestion that the god of my religion was an evil magician, that I actually threw the book across the room against the wall. I fumed and stewed and I'll bet that steam literally issued from my ears. I was hot! After awhile, when I had calmed down a bit, I examined the idea in my mind, and a still, small voice asked me: "what if it's true?"

I was so shocked at such a traitorous thought in my own mind that I literally clutched my head to drive out the demon! If ever there was evidence of how Satan works, that thought creeping into my brain was it! I resorted to a frenzy of prayer to blot such an idea out of my awareness.

But it wouldn't go away. At that point in my life I had spent years searching for the ways and means to justify and "prove" my religion, my faith; and here I was being presented with about the most controversial thought imaginable: what if it wasn't just wrong? What if it is a system that is deliberately contrived to keep people blind?

Well, heck, that's sick! Isn't it?

At about that point in time someone gave me a copy of the Gnostic texts of Nag Hammadi. I was pretty sure that I was going to read these very ancient writings - older than most of the copies of the original Bible we have - and that they were going to give me clues that would provide a path to inerrancy and faith. Here, surely, we would find the truth that had been distorted by millennia of translation and editing. These guys lived back then, they must have had a clue about what was going on. The Gnostic writings were going to give me the keys to reconcile my faith questions.

Guess what? The idea of the Evil Magician as god was right there at the center of gnosticism. What's more, their version has barely come down to us because the Catholic church saw to it that nearly all the copies of such heresy were destroyed and anybody who subscribed to it was burned at the stake. Right there, right then, I sat up and took note. Something was wrong with this picture. And I have spent the last sixteen years trying to come to some conclusion about which idea stands up as truth after it has been tested, tried, challenged, investigated, and essentially taken apart and put back together.

Yahweh didn't do too well up on the rack in the stress tests. Neither did Allah. Christianity did only slightly better, and then, only when I removed the obvious gloss of the Egyptian resurrection myth and left in the clearly Gnostic teachings about the "God of this world" being an "evil magician!" When the reader is fully informed about the variations on these two themes, it is almost pathetically easy to read the New Testament and see what might be original to "Jesus," and what was added by the "creators" of Christianity as we know it.

What was even more interesting was the fact that the only writings contemporary to the times of early Christianity, which mention it specifically, remark that it is a "vile superstition." Yet, what we have as Christianity today, is nothing more or less than the same religious practices of the peoples who branded it a "vile superstition." Obviously something very strange happened between the times of the early Christians, and the times in which Christianity became the established religion. And whatever it was that happened, changed Christianity from a "vile superstition" to an acceptable, all-inclusive, monotheistic device. In short, it seems evident that "true Christianity" has completely disappeared from the world stage and those individuals who call themselves Christian are not, in fact, Christians in the original sense of the word by any stretch of the imagination.

The question that comes to mind is: what would the peoples of that time have considered a "vile superstition," when one is aware of what they considered normal religious practice? The only thing that seemed to fit the bill, so to say, is the possibility that whoever was the figure around which the Jesus legend was wrapped, was teaching that the "God of this world" was an "evil magician." Not only that, but that he probably suggested that man is the manifestation of God, and all creation is the "body of God," and that there was no point in praying to an "external god" at all. Now that would have set just about everybody back then on fire! To suggest that sacrifice to the gods, that appeasing the gods, that honoring the gods, that praying to the gods, that expecting to be saved by or cleansed from sin by any of the gods, was a waste of time would have been absolute heresy to all of the many religions! For them, such an idea, and only such an idea, would have been most definitely a "vile superstition."

In fact, we have something of a parallel in some remarks about Pythagoras. He was accused of believing the "vile superstitions" of the barbarians, that a soul is born over and over again into different bodies. That is clearly NOT an Egyptian belief as we will soon see.

Getting back to Clement of Alexandria, the Jews who lived in Alexandria in the centuries after its foundation sought to show that, although they were ruled by the Greeks, Jewish writings and teachers had inspired much of Greek culture. They claimed that the mythical Greek singer Musaeus was really Moses. Aristobulus, an Alexandrian Jew of the second century B.C., wrote verses that he attributed to such famous Greek writers as Sophocles, showing them to believe in a single male God such as that of the Jews. He asserted that Pythagoras, Socrates, and Plato had studied the books of Moses and believed that the world was sustained by the God of the Hebrews. He claimed that "Plato followed our system of law, and clearly worked out every detail in it."

To explain how Plato was able to learn from these Hebrew writings, Aristobulus said he used a Greek translation of the Bible. Never mind that this was several centuries before the first known Greek translation existed!

Clement of Alexandria was writing at a time when the Christian church was engaged in a struggle with the predominantly Greek pagan culture. It was necessary for him to take a very hard line and write some serious propaganda. Clement claimed not merely that Greek culture was borrowed but that it was stolen. "They not only stole their religious doctrines from the barbarians, but they also imitated our [that is, Jewish] doctrines."

During these periods, Egyptians were eagerly telling visiting Greeks that the greatest Greek thinkers depended on Egyptian instruction. It might be seen as a way of asserting the importance of their culture, especially in a time when they had little or no political powers. The Greeks were willing to listen to what they were told because of their respect for the antiquity of Egyptian religion and civilization, and a desire somehow to be connected with it. However, there is no real reason to believe that Greeks derived their philosophy or learning from Egypt! At least, not Egypt as we know it today. For more details on this matter, please read the series [Jupiter, Nostradamus, Edgar Cayce, and the Return of the Mongols]

The story of how the myth of a Greek appropriation of Egyptian philosophy reached the twentieth century is quite instructive. Many modern researchers and authors of books on the many subjects surrounding the renewed interest in Egyptian religion and its possible relation to great secrets hidden somewhere on the planet, have made the mistaken assumption that, from early times, there was such a thing as an "Egyptian Mystery System," based in Egypt, as we now know Egypt, which is what is supposed to have led the Greeks to come to Egypt to study in the first place.

As it happens, there is no acceptable evidence for this idea. The works from which this idea derives are either works that are not philosophical or works of Greek philosophy written by Greeks who did not know their own history. They created a genre of literature which declared that their ideas were based on authentic Egyptian mysteries. This certainly may be true, but what is crucial to know is that it wasn't Egypt as we know it today.

During the Renaissance in Western Europe, such works were suddenly "discovered" and became the rage among "occultists" and "alchemists" and purveyors of all mystical wisdom who also did not know the true history of Egypt. They were taken to be literally true, and representative of Egyptian mysticism - from the Egypt that they knew - and it is from this confusion that the idea of "Egyptian Mystical Supremacy" was created. It didn't hurt that this "philosophy" was also connected to the pyramids and sphinx, never mind that the probable true architects of those monuments, and their civilization had absolutely nothing to do with Egypt as we know it from the archaeological record.

The myth of Egyptian mysticism took a serious blow in the nineteenth century following publication of the evidence of the spade and the translation of real Egyptian writings. [Note also that so-called Egyptian texts are dated much later than the pyramids or the sphinx and there is probably no connection at all between the builders of these monuments and the later occupants of the country and their writings.] However, the facts did not seem to make any impact on the masses of "true believers." The greatest promoter of this invented Egyptian mysticism were the Freemasons who adopted the fraud in the eighteenth century. Their version assumed not only the existence of an Egyptian Mystery System but one that was connected to a great system of "moral education." The source of these ideas was a fictional, three-volume novel called Sethos, based on "Unpublished Memoirs of Ancient Egypt," published in 1731 by a French priest, the Abbé Jean Terrasson.

Following the ancient convention, the author pretends to be translating an unknown manuscript written by an unknown Greek of the second century A.D. that is ostensibly describing the Egypt of the thirteenth century B.C. Terrasson portrays a world of advanced science, technology, art, law, and educational institutions such as would delight the imagination of an enlightened eighteenth-century European gentleman. Access to this ancient science requires the comprehension of a complex system of mysteries, that can only be penetrated by long preparation, including study, moral purification, and a mystical initiation ceremony. Well, that certainly may be true, but again let me mention that this undoubtedly had nothing to do with Egypt as we know it today.

Father Terrasson's novel became very popular and powerfully shaped the beliefs, practices, and rituals of the Masonic movement, whose reliance on a mythical, mystical, Egyptian tradition is perhaps most widely known in its depiction by Mozart in his Magic Flute. This picture of ancient Egypt was soon totally discredited by the discoveries of scientific Egyptology. But, it remains today as a "secret mystical tradition," that is "rejected" by mainstream science. This problem would, of course, be neatly solved by understanding that the true mystery of the "Egyptian Tradition" had nothing to do with Egypt as we now know Egypt.

At the present time there is a veritable frenzy of publishing books purporting to reveal the "Greatest Secrets" of all time. A number of these books have to do with alchemy and devote sections to the semi-legendary alchemist Fulcanelli, speculating at great length about what Fulcanelli did or did not mean, or who he may have really been. All of them seem to have a similar, general trend, which is to support a certain "derivation" of the mysteries in terms of Egyptian secrets, technology, and religion. This trend is the subject of the book by Lynn Pincknett and Clive Prince, The Stargate Conspiracy, which is a useful overview for the novice in terms of achieving a basic understanding of the fact that there is, indeed, something very mysterious going on all over the planet in terms of shaping the thinking of humanity via books, movies, and cultural themes.

Picknett and Prince suggest that the central theme of the conspiracy is the "manipulation of beliefs about the origins and history of human civilisation, in particular of beliefs about the existence of an advanced civilisation in the ancient past and its influence on the earliest known historical civilisations, primarily that of Egypt."^[1] What Picknett and Prince fail to note is that the beliefs about the origins and history of human civilization have been manipulated for millennia to keep humanity in the dark. Anyone who doubts that this is often done quite consciously and deliberately ought to have a look at a few remarks of Cornelius Tacitus about the Roman Raj in Britain:

The following winter was spent on schemes of the most salutary kind. To induce a people, hitherto scattered, uncivilized and therefore prone to fight, to grow pleurably inured to peace and ease, Agricola gave private encouragement-and official assistance to the building of temples, public squares and private mansions. He praised the keen and scolded the slack, and competition to gain honor from him was as effective as compulsion. Furthermore, he trained the sons of the chiefs in the liberal arts and expressed a preference for British natural ability over the trained skill of the Gauls. The result was that in place of distaste for the Latin language came a passion to command it. In the same way, our national dress came into favor and the toga was everywhere to be seen. And so the Britons were gradually led on to the amenities that make vice agreeable - arcades, baths and sumptuous banquets. They spoke of such novelties as 'civilization', when really they were only a feature of enslavement. [2]

If anyone cares to suggest that this sort of manipulation has not continued down to the present day, I suggest an in-depth examination of some of these periods of history wherein great "advances" manifested, including the personal writings of the individuals involved, as we will be doing further along in this volume. It is quite a revelation to discover that a great "idea" has been imposed upon us simply because the alternative view, which had more supporting evidence, was not believed by the "authority" due to religious prejudices.

What is taking place at our present moment in history is what is known in popular intelligence parlance as "damage control," a vast COINTELPRO operation against the revelation of Truth in its proper context. In place after place, in all fields of scientific study, discoveries are being made that contradict what we have been taught to believe about our world, our history and origins. And it seems that at the present, a very powerful and concerted effort is being made to divert these discoveries into a framework that will continue to serve the agenda of the Control System Matrix.

Picknett and Prince rightly notice that the "alternative history" that is being proposed by the current spate of books, gurus, New Age mass market workshops and symposia, utilizes ideas and concepts born in the "occult world." Unfortunately, they fail to distinguish the fact that what is "occulted" comes in two flavors: truth and just more and trickier lies.

In the past several few years we have indeed been deluged with a tidal wave of books about ancient mysteries that have enthralled the world. The most widely promulgated of these books are by authors such as Henry Lincoln, Graham Hancock, Robert Bauval, and John Anthony West, Robert Temple, Laurence Gardiner, and a supporting cast too numerous to mention. Picknett and Prince astutely note that such writers may not be conscious participants in the Damage Control system, but that they are most definitely being provided with the grist for mills of a massive cover-up operation - a shell-game of reality with moves so dexterous that unless the reader understands from the beginning that the hand is, indeed, quicker than the eye, they will be lulled by the obvious truths so that at the point the lie is introduced, they will swallow it at once without noticing that it is a lie. And make no mistake about it: these lies are intended to be a deadly poison, slow acting, but 100 percent lethal, as we will discover by the time we reach the end of this survey.

We would like to note here that Picknett and Prince, with their powerful reaction against anything that threatens the status quo belief system, may be similarly unconsciously manipulated. Whether or not that is the case remains to be seen, but Picknett and Prince do seem to have pushed far enough into the mystery to have revealed one of the chief pegs upon which the Cover-up is suspended: the work of Rene Schwaller de Lubicz.

Most of the current "Alternative Egyptology" is based on the works of RSL as discovered and promoted by John Anthony West. R.A. Schwaller de Lubicz (1887-1961), was an occult philosopher who, in the 1940s and 50s, wrote several books in French about the religion of ancient Egypt. RSL believed that the Sphinx was attributable to Atlanteans and that it predated the known ancient Egyptian civilization by many thousands of years. He made the observation that the erosion on the Sphinx's body and the walls of the enclosure appears to be the result of exposure to water, rather than wind-blown sand, and argued that it had been caused by a great flood – the flood that destroyed Atlantis - the mythical Flood of Noah.

There is much evidence that strongly suggests that the more ancient date of the Sphinx must be accepted, as well as the likelihood of an ancient advanced civilization, for example, the work of geologist, Robert Schoch. However, Picknett and Prince recoil in horror at such an idea, proclaiming that Schoch's work, and his conclusions are still very controversial and the subject of debate. At this point, Picknett and Prince begin to swallow gnats and strain at camels in their efforts to dislodge this one single issue of the redating of the sphinx and the possibility of an ancient civilization on Earth.

Why? Because, indeed, they have found evidence of something malicious and sticky moving like a hungry beast, smacking its drooling lips behind the scenes of these presentations.

Picknett and Prince then take great pains to viciously attack Edgar Cayce and other psychic sources because, of course, if he is saying that there were ancient civilizations - some of the same things that those who are promoting this political agenda are saying - then he must be part of the conspiracy, too!

But, in the way of all Damage Control and Disinformation, this is a typical ploy. If someone has discovered something of truth about the Matrix, the agents are sent in to associate with that person, to try to subvert or co-opt their work, and then to twist it into something that supports a negative agenda. Then, they deliberately set up a situation where the conspiracy is exposed as negative, and the original speaker of truth, by association, is discredited.

Picknett and Prince are right about the fact that there is a lot of so-called occult, psychic, New Age channeled material that is purely evil - part of this conspiracy to cover up the failures in the old belief systems. But they are wrong to believe that the system that is in place, the beliefs that have been promulgated on humanity for millennia are the benevolent results of natural human evolution, or a benign and omniscient God who has our best interests at heart. In fact, Picknett and Prince do not even seem to notice the fact that the present Matrix of beliefs is crumbling, and this is what has necessitated this co-opting and perversion of truth. If there was no failure of the old system, there would be no need for a new one. P & P recoil in horror at the Conspiracy they have uncovered, but they do not realize that the old system is exactly the same and that they have fallen for the oldest of Machiavellian tactics: create an enemy by demonizing your opponent, and then step in as a savior to do exactly what you have accused the opponent of planning. P & P do not seem to be fully cognizant of the subtle nature of disinformation tactics and how cleverly it has been used throughout the millennia to deliver lies wrapped in truth. As a result of this, again and again they toss out the baby with the bathwater.

P & P go to some considerable trouble to outline the history of the occult Synarchist movement without even coming to the realization that this is precisely the system that is in charge of our world and has been for a very long time. Essentially, Synarchy advocates government by secret society, a group of "enlightened initiates" who rule from behind the scenes. It's pretty evident that political history and a broad overview of the forest is not P & P's strong suit. As Gary Allen put it in None Dare Call It Conspiracy, it doesn't matter which political party gets elected, those who pull the strings of government - all governments - remain unknown to the masses.

P & P tell us that Synarchists identified three key pillars of society that, once under the control of his elite, would allow them to rule without the population even being aware of their existence. These were the political and social institutions, the economic institutions and the religious institutions. Surprise, surprise! P & P need to wake up and smell the coffee! Those three pillars of society have been under the control of a hidden group for a very, very long time, and there is plenty of evidence to support that fact. As FDR said, "Nothing in politics happens by accident. If it happens, you can bet it was planned that way."

Nevertheless, the Synarchy philosophy of Joseph Alexander Saint-Yves d'Alveydre (1824-1909), the culprit identified by P & P, developed in the early 1870s, was formed around certain mystical and occult ideas. St-Yves believed in the existence of spiritually superior beings that could be contacted telepathically and that the ruling elite ought to be made up of people who were in communication with them. He himself claimed that he was in touch with these beings, and that they actually gave him the principles of Synarchy.

Okay. Let's stop right here and look at this. It seems from a rather mountainous pile of evidence to be a fact that "spiritually superior" beings do exist. But "superior" in what sense? Superior in power? Knowledge? Insight? Abilities? All of these things ought to be taken into account when one is considering the idea of "spiritually superior beings." As I have discussed elsewhere, it does seem to be evident that "ethereal" or "para-physical" beings do exist, but whether or not they have mankind's best interests at heart is something that has to be very carefully determined. For too long we have labored under the implanted delusion that just because a being is not "like us," in certain terms, it is "better" or "good" or "angelic." Dr. John Dee made this error when communicating with what were clearly negative beings who he mistakenly called "angels." And many others have made similar errors because of the cunningly implanted lie that "spiritual" is necessarily positive.

So, we have no argument with communicating with "spiritual beings." We merely wish to point out that one must be careful to analyze the ideas - determine the lines of force - presented by these beings in order to determine what their unstated agenda might be. In the case of Synarchy, we should like to point out that any beings who suggest the creation of an elite, hierarchical gang of rulers who must be served and worshipped can't be the "good guys." But then, this has been the case throughout history as evidenced in our standard religious systems.

Saint-Yves' ideas were taken up by Helena Blavatsky (1831-1891), followed by Alice A. Bailey (1880-1949), and promulgated in any number of "secret societies." But again, in all of these cases, we have to note that lies will not be swallowed unless they are wrapped in heavy sugar coatings of truth. And in these cases, there is much of truth and value to be derived that can never happen, of course, when one tosses the baby out with the bathwater.

But P & P do this with gusto. And because they have a pre-formed opinion about the evil nature of any and all such groups, when they begin to examine other sources that may not be connected to this operation at all, they look for clues of conspiracy that simply are not there, believing that they find it in situations or words that have a completely different meaning when taken in the proper context. For example, P & P write:

Significantly, the third member of the trio, James Allen McCarty, who joined L/L Research in 1980, had already worked closely with a group in Oregon who had claimed to channel the same entity as Edgar Cayce. [Source cited: The Ra Material, by Elkins, Rueckert and McCarty, p. 47)

As I understand it, Cayce never channeled any entities. He claimed to read the "akashic records" which is quite different from channeling an "entity." But there is more. What is actually said in the Ra Material cited above by P & P is "In the fall of 1980, he (Jim) traveled from Kentucky to Oregon to work with this group which was supposedly channeling the same source that Edgar Cayce had channeled in deep trance. ...After only two months in Oregon [Jim returned.]"

Not to put too fine a point on it but changing the word from "source" to "entity" smacks of prestidigitation. Not only that, but two months sort of doesn't fit "had already worked closely with a group..." as the sentence is constructed by P & P. How many other "well researched" items in this book have been similarly twisted so subtly? And that, of course, makes one ask the question: what is THEIR agenda? "Meet the new boss, same as the old boss."

Giving them the benefit of the doubt, we do understand the position of P & P. It's one thing to pursue conspiracy theories and to find them and track them and think that there are some very naughty folks here on the Big Blue Marble. It's an altogether different thing, after one has tracked enough of these theories, to come to the realization that they are all just different parts of the same elephant, and that the critter is really thousands of years old. When that fact smacks you in the face, either you run screaming in denial, or you begin to step back from the truly BIG picture, the global-millennial picture, and you see that there is a very stinky rat somewhere. Having arrived at that point, you realize that such a conspiracy could not be created or sustained by human beings - at least not alone. And then you have to face the most difficult task of all: asking yourself who or what could be behind it?

Having asked that question, you realize that you simply cannot answer it unless you open your mind to a whole constellation of possibilities that you would formerly never, ever, in your wildest dreams have considered. Then, if you work very, very hard, you may discover the "truth" that they want you to believe.

If you work very, very hard and are very, very lucky, you will realize that you need help, and you will seek this help based on the knowledge you have acquired that such help can and does exist - only we generally do not have access to it because we are too easily duped and manipulated - then you might begin to learn the rules of communicating with higher levels of consciousness than our own. Having learned the rules by doing your homework, you just might be able to ensure that your "source" is not just another "evil magician." At such a point, following such an approach, there is some hope of sorting out the mess. But it isn't easy, and it can't be easy. If it was easy, it would have been done hundreds or thousands of years ago and the world would not be in the state it is in today.

Getting back to the Synarchists and Occult secret societies, P & P have most definitely tripped over the elephant's trunk and have followed it to its end, even if they have ignored the body it is attached to in the other direction. It is becoming increasingly evident that the secret societies that are already running our planet have an agenda that is clearly not to our benefit, and indeed, they are manipulating economics, religion and politics to serve that agenda. What seems to be the case about the so-called New Age is that the emergent ideas of contact with "higher beings" has been regularly co-opted for nefarious purposes.

Saint-Yves's Synarchy ideas became very influential in the occult circles of Europe. P & P remark that "Some of the greatest figures in subsequent occult history were devotees of Saint-Yves, which is not surprising because occultists, with their love of hierarchy, tend to be naturally totalitarian and unegalitarian."

It is most definitely true that occultists of the negative variety are big on hierarchy and totalitarianism. But that is most certainly not the case with the positive variety that P & P have included in their chop job. In fact, the presence of a hierarchy is chief means of identifying the lines of force of negative groups, and is the modus operandi of nearly every formalized religion on the planet, which ought to give P & P pause. It is also very evident from our own experiences that either a great many individuals in control of society are involved in these occult secret societies, or that the societies themselves are being set up as decoys to distract attention away from the real "gang" who runs the show.

P & P connect Papus (real name Gérard Encausse, 1865-1916) to Saint-Yves. Papus was an enormously influential figure in the world of esoteric secret societies in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. They also connect the Martinists to Saint-Yves, and through them, the modern day Templar and Rosicrucian societies and the New Kid on the Block, the Priory of Sion. Lest the reader ask the question, indeed, P & P have connected them all up with the Freemasons! Toss in the OTO, the Golden Dawn and assorted Satanists, and you have a nice row of decoy ducks who are busily working for their masters, none of them realizing the Machiavellian nature of the drama, and that the "agents" of a coup are always the first to be destroyed. After all, if they betray their own kind, they will betray the new master.

P & P tell us that such groups are behind the coming "New World Order," in specific the "United States of Europe." P & P point out that Synarchy favors undemocratic and totalitarian regimes, and then they rightly connect this movement to the development of Fascism and the suggestion that Synarchists were behind the Nazi ideology. All of these groups are implicated in social, religious, political and economic conspiracies, and most curious of all, they ALL seem to be looking for something.

What are they looking for? Well, call it the Holy Grail or the Ark of the Covenant, or the Head of Baphomet, or the treasure of the Templars, Cathars, the body of Christ, or whatever - all of these seem to be the cover stories that have been created to engage the populace at large in both the concept, and the activity itself. It took me a long time to realize this, but once I did, it all made perfect sense. These groups are missing a big piece of their set of dominoes. They try to pretend that they have it, or that they know where it is, or that it is this or that, when it is actually something else. All the while, they are promoting "global treasure hunts" and informal "think tanks" among the populace in hopes that somebody will figure it out and make the discovery that they haven't been able to make for 2000 years or longer.

Does the reader remember the movie "Raiders of the Lost Ark?" Well, it wasn't just a movie. It was the promulgation of a concept, a challenge, to amateurs to engage in the quest, in hopes that one of them might discover the key. How many readers are familiar with the excitement surrounding a purported "secret" of Rennes-le-Chateau and the Priory of Sion? Well, that's just a variation on the movie "Raiders of the Lost Ark." It is a real live stage set, created to induce interest and research, in hopes that some amateur will be able to do what these secret societies have not been able to do for these many thousands of years. Researchers come along, dig and dig and track ideas and things all over the planet. They make amazing discoveries because something has, indeed, been set up for them to discover. And then they write the great new book that has "solved the mystery." They crow and pat themselves on the back that they, of all the researchers working on the problem, have discovered the answer. And how do they know that? Well, because their path was "aided." They experienced so many "synchronicities" and amazing connections along the way that surely that is proof that they found the right clues!

That would be very nice to believe if it weren't for the fact that we seem to be dealing with a hyperdimensional system that is capable of producing such effects for the express purpose of leading researchers astray and it happens to all of them.

Again, I repeat, they are looking for something that they believe to exist, and they have an idea that finding it will give them ultimate and total power over the forces of life and nature. And they are using the public to do their leg work, constantly monitoring them for any fruitful directions to follow.

Does such an object exist? Perhaps. Perhaps not. Perhaps it exists, but it is not at all what they think it is. And perhaps, like the sword in the stone, it can only be found and wielded by the "right person." So, perhaps they are looking for that person, also?

Returning now to the disinformation campaign incepted by the Occult secret societies with their ostensible motive as we have just described, even if it is true that Synarchic goals are negative to humanity, the likelihood is that those negative goals are wrapped in layers of truth about humanity and human history - for a reason. And P & P missed that one. The fact is, if many of the ideas and teachings of such groups about human history prove to be correct, how easy it will be for them to claim that since they are right about those things, they are also right about their political, social, and economic aims? And that is how the most effective disinformation works.

By the same token, if P & P are proven wrong about their claims against the alternative history aspects of the conspirators, then their related claims that there is a conspiracy will likewise be ignored. And that would be a terrible mistake.

Synarchist groups have been implicated in terrorism in the pre-WW II years. In the years leading up to the Nazi takeover of Germany, a Frenchman named Viven Postel du Mas wrote a notorious document called the Synarchist Pact, which became their manifesto. In 1932, a society called the Synarchist Empire Movement was founded in France, which was described as 'a secret society with very specific and limited membership, following a definite politico-economic programme'. P & P discovered that this group was behind right-wing terrorist gangs such as the CSAR (Secret Committee for Revolutionary Action), and that most of the CSAR membership were also part of the Synarchist Empire Movement. In 1941, a police report in Vichy France exposed a plot by Synarchists to take over the government, noting a close relationship between the Synarchist movement and the Martinist Orders.

It seems that after WW II, the Synarchists went even deeper underground in order to work on Plan B, since Plan A (Hitler's agenda) didn't pan out. In recent years Synarchist groups have come out into the open both in Europe and in Britain, and this leads us to P & P's major research find: the connection between R. A. Schwaller de Lubicz and the Synarchist movement. Picknett and Prince write:

Given the nature of Synarchy one would probably never know the names of even the most powerful. But we do know quite a lot about one of them: R.A. Schwaller de Lubicz. It is curious that Schwaller de Lubicz has become the 'godfather' of Alternative Egyptology even though few have read his works first-hand. His ideas mostly come to us through the books of Graham Hancock, Robert Bauval and, of course, John Anthony West, all of whom have expressed their admiration for this scholar. They refer to him as a philosopher, or as a mathematician. What is interesting to us, however, is that, although Schwaller de Lubicz was those things, they never call him an occultist – which he was. And the never call him a Synarchist – which he was. [...]

he broke away to form his own occult organisation, which he called Les Veilleurs – the Watchers – specifically in order to carry his esoteric ideas into the political arena. Perhaps it will come as no surprise to discover that he has been described as a ‘proto fascist’. He even claims to have designed the uniform for Hitler’s SA (‘Brownshirts’). Although it is not certain that his claim is true, Schwaller de Lubicz clearly had no problem with people thinking that it was. One of Schwaller de Lubicz’s ‘Watchers’ was Vivien Postel du Mas, the man who wrote the Synarchist Pact of the 1930s. Through du Mas, Schwaller de Lubicz had a particular influence on Hitler’s Deputy, the tormented and complex Rudolf Hess. Schwaller de Lubicz was anti-Semitic and racist – and, like the Nazis, thought that women were inferior to men. For example, he taught that women were intellectually incapable of understanding the Hermetica. All this is important, because it is impossible to separate Schwaller de Lubicz’s political, Synarchist beliefs from his work as an Egyptologist, the work that certain authors so admire. [3]

We find it fascinating that these aspects of Schwaller de Lubicz’s life are seldom - if ever - mentioned. Schwaller de Lubicz was born in Alsace-Lorraine in 1887, which puts him in the age group to have been involved in the Parisian occult scene in the early 1900's, at the exact time that the alchemist Fulcanelli was becoming a legend. Schwaller de Lubicz also claimed to be an alchemist, and it seems that the idea that he, himself, was Fulcanelli has been bruited at several points. The writing styles and focus demonstrate that this is not the case. And here we come to the item that interests us: the disinformation diversion of R.A. Schwaller de Lubicz directed against the work of Fulcanelli.

You see, Schwaller de Lubicz claimed that Fulcanelli’s book, Mystery of the Cathedrals, was based on his own idea that the Gothic cathedrals encoded alchemical symbolism. He further claims (there is no evidence to support these claims and much evidence to suggest they are false) that he often met with Fulcanelli to discuss the transmutation of matter. He even tells a story about Fulcanelli that sets up his claim that Fulcanelli stole his work. Schwaller says that one day, Fulcanelli told him about a manuscript he (Fulcanelli) had stolen from a Paris bookshop. While cataloguing an ancient book for a bookseller, Fulcanelli discovered a strange piece of writing: a six-page manuscript in fading ink, describing, Fulcanelli claimed, the importance of color in the alchemical process. But, said Schwaller, when it came to alchemy, Fulcanelli was a materialist, and so he didn't grasp the true nature of color. Schwaller, of course, enlightened him, and then enlightens us that he enlightened Fulcanelli.

A. Schwaller de Lubicz, occultist and Synarchist has just told us that Fulcanelli is a thief and didn't have a clue. How do we know this is true? Well, because Schwaller de Lubicz says so! Schwaller de Lubicz, the guy who has no problem with being thought to have designed Nazi uniforms, and who taught that women were incapable of comprehending hermetica.

Schwaller gives us more exciting "insights" into the work and life of Fulcanelli. Certain of the attention of his breathless audience, he next tells us that he moved to Grasse, in the south of France, where he invited Fulcanelli to join him in an alchemical retreat, and Fulcanelli, of course, made haste to join "the master." How do we know? Well, because Schwaller tells us so! Again, there is no evidence except the claims of Schwaller himself. There, so Schwaller says, after much work, they performed a successful opus, involving the secrets of "alchemical stained glass." But it is claimed that there was tension between the two. How do we know? Because Schwaller said so.

Supposedly, at this point, Fulcanelli returned to Paris and against Schwaller's advice, tried to perform their work again. He wasn't successful. This was, Schwaller claimed, because Fulcanelli left out essential ingredients known only to him (Schwaller). Ignoring Schwaller's warnings, Fulcanelli persisted in performing the work in Paris. But his strange death from gangrene, a day before he was to reveal the secret to his students, brought an end to his opus. Or so Schwaller has claimed. Schwaller is directly quoted by author Andre Vandenbroeck:

He was too materialistic to appreciate the laboratory events, but that never got in the way of our collaboration. He was able to devise a procedure for any operation one could propose, and that was his importance, as a manipulator. His practice was fabulous, and I had it in my service. He did all the manipulations. But the ideas that moved those hands, the ideas always came from me. Remember, when I say 'Fulcanelli', I mean that whole group of literati and puffers: Canseliet, Dujols, Champagne, Boucher, Sauvage; they all contributed to give shape to Fulcanelli's production, once he had spread my ideas among them. He used my cathedral work as a vehicle, and a lot of talk about operations he has had contact with, thanks to me, but whose function, whose form, whose nomenclature he doesn't understand. And then the glitter all around it, the fantastic erudition, much of which can be traced to Dujols and some to Canseliet; add the artwork of Champagne, and you have a very salable book. They made a career out of it, but in the process, they missed the moment, they missed the Word...

They did me a favor, though; they saved me from identifying my work with cathedral symbolism, which kept me available for Egypt, for Al-Kemi instead of alchemy. It is the same work of course, only in the language of our time, whereas Fulcanelli speaks in the language of the great medieval alchemical renaissance. But what we must be involved with now is not a renaissance, it is a resurrection. The Great Work is a work of resurrection...

I was saying that Fulcanelli took it upon himself to publish what he had advised me not to bring out, as well as what he had sworn to keep to himself. You see, one good thing about observing a vow of secrecy is that you will not talk about what you do not understand. In Fulcanelli's case what came out in print is hopelessly garbled, full of unnecessary obscurity and certainly of no use to any seriously practicing adept although it gives much ammunition to puffers with its nice-sounding phrases. [4]

Having had direct experience with a COINTELPRO operative who insinuated himself into our lives, and who tried to steal the corpus of our work, including the notes for the very words you are reading, who was exposed and ejected from our association, who then began to write defamatory diatribes about us and our work, we are familiar with the TASTE of this activity. We recognize it immediately in the words quoted above from Schwaller de Lubicz. It is quite easy to see his objective. It is to trash the work of someone who actually did it, and to promote the agenda of Fascist Synarchy under the guise of Alternative Egyptology. In fact, the similarities of tone, style and semantic content are so identical to other COINTELPRO operations, that it makes one wonder if they don't have a computer program that composes this disinformation?

...Hi, my name is Rene Schwaller de Lubicz. I've always been fascinated with alchemy, though for some reason (unknown even to myself), I've always indulged in this passion under strict secrecy, though now that I am a master, I don't have to keep secrets anymore, and since the other principle party is dead, I'll tell you all his secrets and my secrets.... Some years back, I wrote a little book entitled "The Mystery of the Cathedrals " but Fulcanelli stole it from me. As a scientist, I came up with a small idea, which I called the "theory of relativity". Well, It wasn't much of a theory, but Albert Einstein stole it from me and took credit for it...

It should be noted that Andre Vandenbroeck and his wife Goldian, are, according to them, both "elite members of an emerging category of authority appropriately understood as planetary tribal elders. Both studied directly with R. A.

Schwaller de Lubicz, unarguably one of the greatest Hermetic adepts of our age."

Remember him? R.A. Schwaller de Lubicz, the guy who designed uniforms for Nazis and taught that women couldn't grasp hermetica? The guy who hung out with Synarchists and occultists who promote the rule of the masses by secret societies in cahoots with "higher beings" who are very likely the Evil Magician described by Gurdjieff. And now we have an "emerging category of authority" called a "planetary tribal elder?" Excuse me? Where was I when the tribe cast the ballot for that one?

The Vandebroek's are busily promoting the idea that Fulcanelli's highly acclaimed work, The Mystery of the Cathedrals, was stolen outright from Schwaller. They support this claim by saying that "Such an allegation appears highly credible considering Schwaller's later work on the architectural symbolism of the Egyptian temple at Luxor." They then go on to promote Schwaller's magnum opus, The Temple of Man, as "the result of 15 years of on-site study at the Luxor Temple that exposes Egypt's deepest esoteric wisdom. The release of Schwaller's masterpiece has been hailed as the publishing event of the decade. It is a dense and demanding study of number, harmony and geometry that serve the supporting metaphysical foundations of ancient temple design."

And it is pure unadulterated disinformation intended to lead the reader away from the work of a real master alchemist, Fulcanelli. Anybody with two neurons in contact with one another can read Fulcanelli and then read Schwaller and see the difference. But Schwaller's work is further designed to support the Stargate Conspiracy as identified by Picknett and Prince. His ideas are the current "scientific peg" upon which all of that nonsense about "Egyptian mysteries" are suspended.

These allusions are sinister because the Third Reich was an early attempt at a "New World Order," and the Anglo American business elite was involved with that up to its ears. Are these fascist allusions coincidental? Or, is the elite coming out of the closet?

Schwaller was an occult Darwinist. He believed that the substance of the Universe was mindless, that consciousness only comes about via evolution of matter - that man "creates" god only after he has sufficiently evolved to examine the broad "principles," or "neters" of nature and to use those principles to "accelerate" his "spiritualization" of his flesh, so to say.

One thought of the transcendent power compels one substance of the universal substance - passive, awaiting any seed - to become a specific product, an inheritor, a world that follows upon a world. One sole power in one sole substance works through all the transitory finalities toward the foreseen finality: man.

And at the end of humanity comes man without body, substance within power. [...]

The finality for each phase of genesis is the innate consciousness of that which precedes it. For humanity, the finality of genesis is man; for wisdom, it is Cosmic Man liberated from the genesis of his element: total, innate consciousness.

Thus the Universe is incarnate in man and is nothing but potential Man, Anthropocosmos. And man is the blueprint, the cosmographical map on which wisdom reads the Universe, the genesis, the functions. [...]

The causal energy becomes mineral, mineral becomes plant, plant becomes animal, animal becomes man, and man becomes Cosmic Man, the saint, Buddha, Jesus. The mineral has suffered scission from the cause, the plant has suffered the mineral, the animal has suffered the plant, man has suffered the animal, and Cosmic Man will have suffered humanity. Vital suffering is consciousness undergoing the process of surpassing itself. [...]

Man is the transition, the realized mean term that dissolves back into the Idea.

And man will have eaten, that is, returned to its source, all that the Universe knows, from mineral to animal. [...]

The Anthropocosmos is a reality, an indisputable foundation. The Universe is neither an "imagination" nor a "will," but a "projection" of human consciousness. [...]

In short, Schwaller was promoting a program that would result in increased "mechanization" of humanity, the material projection of the Predator's mind.

The ultimate consciousness is the consciousness of negation. [...]

The West is ignorant of that serenity of which all of Ancient Egypt bears the imprint. The tombs of the leaders of this people are consecrated to their profession of faith in the survival of the soul. [...]

And Schwaller has already told us that the "soul" is merely the "evolutionary by-product of evolution." We are told by

Schwaller that we are to admire this civilization and emulate it because the abysmally primitive Egyptian art showing endless head-smiting and the worshipping of men as gods is the "imprint" of a "profession of faith in the survival of the soul."

The open-minded thinker ought to really consider the purported mysteries of Egypt in terms of the fact that they were so ignorant that they devoted a huge amount of energy to their "cult of the dead." The whole Egyptian schtick is focused around preserving dead flesh for future or otherworldly reanimation. The very fact that there are so many of these dead bodies for Egyptologists to dig up is the clearest evidence that the Egyptian beliefs were nonsense. Schwaller tells us that this was evidence of "profession of faith in the survival of the soul." Horse hockey. There were other cultures that taught reincarnation and because they clearly understood that it was a "soul matter," cremated their dead, or buried them in symbolic "womb shaped" jars, because they knew that the soul would not use the same body over again.

But, in Egypt, the focus was on the dead flesh - the ignorant belief that it would be reanimated - the attachment to the material body - and the desire to get it back again at some great "resurrection" in the future; an idea we find strongly present in fundamental Christianity, modeled on the ignorant Egyptian conceptions of the cosmos.

And this brings us to another strange idea of Schwaller:

In the principle of purusa, or Anthropocosmos, .. man is not the component part but the final product. He is not part of the Whole but the living expression of this Whole... [...]

Each human being is a whole, each is in himself an assemblage of defined qualities. May the breath of the herald bestow the coat of arms that will be the emblem, the star one must follow, and the motto that dictates the conduct to which one must conform.

Totemism has been greatly misunderstood [...] In the West, we have a heraldry that in its original "esoteric" sense is a form of totemism. There is an esoteric science of heraldry, a pure symbolism of the particular qualities of an individuality. [...]

The human embryo passes through all the phases of animal genesis, and one more than any other of these phases influences the man's animal type. All nature is in man, and a kinship between a man and a particular aspect of Nature marks him, that is, "specifies" him as an individuality among men. [...]

The individuality of a human being is only the human "finality" of this particularly marked type, of this branch on the universal trunk of cosmic genesis. The animal does not have to become conscious of this moment of universal consciousness; it is itself the animal aspect of this moment. This turning back upon itself of consciousness, a repetition of creation's "self before itself," is the characteristic of man. [...]

Not only is the totemic and heraldic particularity not an obstacle to this return, but its recognition, on the contrary, is an exceptional means of hastening this return. [...]

It is not sufficient then merely to recognize the symbol of one's lineage; more than that, one's life must be adapted to it, and above all, one must seek to live all its aspects throughout all of Nature.

Let us set aside the word God, so misunderstood, and set aside even the God that we call the Eternal, and call it the Unique instead, in whom the neters, the powers of functions of Nature are merged and annihilated. The Unique is, but It ceases for us when we look upon the stages of consciousness in their perceptible aspects, that is Nature. [...]

It is with the reversal of consciousness, with the consciousness of consciousness, the superior human state, that a break in the natural cycle may intervene in the form of Art, through the power of negation that marks this turning back of consciousness. To deny appearances, to deny polarity, to deny faith in sensorial reality, to descend voluntarily into the hells of destruction, in order to rise on the third day - all has been told to ears that hear not. [...]

We must learn to join that which is opposed in such a way that the elements thus joined cease to exist separately within the new Unity. [...]

We must therefore turn toward the known and present, final cosmic fruit - the human being - to know the forces of the environment from which he arises. [...]

All pharaonic Egypt, from beginning to end and in all its achievements, is but a ritual gesture.

Thus the pharaonic empire presents itself. And this explains the reaction of the Greeks in Egypt, who, believing that they were confronted with a tradition of knowledge "emptied of the reasons" for its formulations, sought to find reasonable causes, a fact that gave birth to the dialectic philosophy that the West has found so seductive - as if intellectual arguments could substitute for knowledge of the cause of life. [Schwaller, The Temple of Man]

We see from this selection of remarks a most curious phenomenon in action: all the time he is decrying Western Science and Greek rationalism, Schwaller de Lubicz has based his Cosmology on the foundation of evolution and uniformitarianism turned backward! In short, focus on and effective worship of, the physical universe is being presented as the "way back."

Indeed, following Blavatsky and others of that ilk, Schwaller has created a system in which the ascent of man is merely a mechanical process, and man himself, is the terminus point of biological evolution as the mode of "genesis" for "Cosmic Man," or "spiritualizing" matter. And the way to do this is to "activate" the "neters" within the self.

What this means is that man must turn in on himself - consciousness viewing its own history - and "merge" these elements. The way he proposes to do this is to learn to re-vivify the animal characteristics of "emotion." Schwaller tells us that "The animal does not have to become conscious of this moment of universal consciousness; it is itself the animal aspect of this moment." And selection and activation of a "totem" is important to this process. Schwaller writes:

There is in man a cerebral intelligence and also an innate intelligence called intelligence-of-the-heart. [Read: Predator's Mind] The latter comes into being through a fusion of the cosmic Cause which is contained in its materialization with the same Cause which is in us. This is possible because the nature of both Causes is identical. [...]

In other words, "cosmic cause" and material existence are identical. Matter creates consciousness, not vice versa.

Our common origin is by no means remote. It does not take us back into the primeval darkness: It is present and constant in that man feeds directly or indirectly on all the kingdoms, and thus enters into constant exchange with their particular natures, and, finally, by way of the mineral origin, with the cosmic energy from which everything arises. [...]

Cerebral intelligence, which we see developed in the higher animal aspect of man, is strictly limited by the boundaries imposed on the senses. Intelligence-of-the-heart belongs to the great complex called life. [...]

Each organic being (and even each cell of the organs of an organized being) has its part in the general life which is its personal specification. Man's heart is not alone in beating rhythmically like a motor: there are aquatic beings that are entirely a heart of this kind and represent the awakening of the consciousness which will become "heart." Another consciousness will become liver, another will become lung, and thus each function has its organ. [...] Such an organ is the incarnation of a consciousness, of a cosmic function which has received corporeal life. [...]

Each animal, each species of plant, each mineral group, is a stage in the process of "becoming aware" of the cosmic cause, culminating in the complete organism of human man, the microcosm - man in His image.

In short, the development of consciousness is a by-product of evolution, and once it has been developed, man ought to use it to turn right around and go backward and fully develop in himself the life principles in nature - as read in its physical manifestation.

The whole, thus formed into a complete living being, is a language that speaks. It expresses itself ceaselessly in its living function, and represents the basis of intelligence-of-the heart, which is the fact that remains related to all of Nature and consequently knows Nature. [...]

Obviously, therefore, we must be able to transcribe what is in us into our mental and objective consciousness, by establishing a relationship between the life in us and observation of that life in Nature. This we find supremely well expressed by the ancient Egyptians. It is a knowledge of magic, pure and sane, which can lead rapidly toward the spiritual goal of our lives, owing to the fact that we can evoke, by means of the sympathy of analogues in our surroundings, the consciousness of the heart latent in us.

Intelligence-of-the-heart, which establishes the relationship between innate consciousness and observation of fact, is identification.

Identification means to live with and to live in the observed fact, to be that fact oneself, to suffer it, to act in it, rejoice with it. It is sympathetic consciousness. [...] Innate consciousness is inscribed in the nature of the organism, meaning that the motive power of its function is the impulse of its necessity, the Idea, or principle of harmony. In man, as already in the higher animal, this creates emotivity.

In short, one is to identify with the observed world completely, to live in it, to be it, and so on. And that leads to "emotivity," or the feeding of the Predator's mind. Note that his "innate consciousness" is directly related to the "animal part" of humanity.

The greater the sensitivity of the emotional faculty, the better innate consciousness can express itself. [...] The inscription of innate or sympathetic consciousness is vital of functional, if life as such and function as such are considered the very principle of living Nature. This principle is a reality beyond corporeal matter, but it assumes a body; it incarnates by means of the harmony of the ambient elements. [...]

The incarnation in man of all the necessities of functional orders of world harmony is the temple, where the original creative energy connects the intelligence-of-the-heart's innate consciousness with the universe. [...]

Evolution is also real, starting from the original energetic impulse, but it obeys a "law of universal genesis" and not fortuitous conditions.

Surely the function does not create the organ. How could it act before existing? [...]

And here Schwaller clearly denies creative consciousness that lies behind the material world. Just as all the Darwinists, the proponents of ideas such as those presented by Richard Dawkins and others, Schwaller just blithely ignores the necessity for consciousness to exist PRIOR to the material world.

The experience of life inscribed in matter is called innate consciousness, the specific character of each thing, the quality that is pure spirit in Nature.

In other words, spirit is a byproduct of matter. Experiences of random molecules jostling in the primordial soup create patterns that are "inscribed in matter," and this is "consciousness."

When one beholds the emotional reactions of the animal - envy, hate, fidelity, love, joy, sadness, devotion to his master to the point of self-denial - one says that an animal sometimes seems human. This is a mistake: it is man who is still an animal. [...]

Reason is the intelligence-of-the-heart which allows us, in love, to be the thing, to be inside the thing, to grow with the plant, to fly with the bird, to glide with the serpent, to be that "way of a man with a maid" which the Proverb says cannot be known; to become cubic space with the cube. [...]

At the level of the human animal, all possibilities of the evolution of material consciousness are exhausted. It then becomes a question either of a physical continuity (the legend of the Wandering Jew) or of a new baptism of spirit, allowing the original radiance to reliberate itself from matter, all experiences exhausted, meaning no further selection is to be made in the materialization of this radiance: it is received into its universality. [...]

In short, Schwaller is denying levels of being above man. Man is the ultimate product of biological evolution, and the only option is to liberate the mindless creative energy from matter. It's the end of the line. Now the only right thing for a man to do is to become a "food processor" for "universality."

Awakening is the awakening of intelligence-of-the-heart. Reason is born with us. If we give it preponderance over cerebral intelligence, over the mental, it will tell us everything, for it is the intelligence of the universe. [..]

And now Schwaller has introduced a big twist, and this is the point on which so much New Age disinformation is hung. He equates "reason" with "intelligence-of-the-heart" that he has already told us is to be "identified" with the material world. And of course, he tells us that everything in the material world IS the intelligence of the Universe. He is completely unable to grasp the point that the material universe we experience is only the shadow on the wall of a cave, and he is teaching, in the most devious ways, that we should see those shadows as real, and should never, ever, seek to discover the source of the shadows in truly ethereal terms of higher consciousness and the realms of pure thought. He is telling us that the only "higher consciousness" that exists is that which manifests in the world of nature, of prey and predators, of the Self Serving, consuming, material world. And for God's sake, don't use the intellect to reach into higher realms of thought where a world that is not presently evident - a world where there is symbiosis and sharing - can be conceived and created!

The stages of this liberation are therefore stages of fusion. The inscription is no longer seminal; it is only a degree of detachment. Mastery of the body and all its members, mastery of thought, mastery of the passions, are only stages of a liberation which allows this soul, as in natural sleep, to live in full consciousness, without the material instrument, outside the definitive sleep of our present body.

To succeed in "sleeping" thus in a waking state is the true clairvoyance of intelligence-of-the-heart. [...]

In short, stop thinking, fuse with the Predator's mind of Nature, put the soul to sleep because then you will be able to live in full Consciousness - the consciousness of the Predator - the mechanical consciousness of the material world. And in the following, he fully develops his theme, his Darwinian Esotericism that promotes the "eating of consciousness," and the assimilation of light to make it available to the Crypto-geographic beings of 4th density STS.

Intelligence-of-the-heart is what enables man to make his way toward liberation. It is to intelligence-of-the-heart that the scripture or oral tradition of an esoteric teaching is addressed, and phrased in a manner most comfortable to that faculty, even at the risk of seeming irrational.

If we are able to prevent the intervention of reasoning - that faculty distinguishing us from the animal properly so-called, and which we constantly abuse - then simple cerebral intelligence does no more than translate innate consciousness, as in the case of animal instinct. [...]

To know innate consciousness, we must hearken to it, make use of the spiritual sense which is Hearing. [...] In every life situation, we experience an emotion. This emotion must be heard; we have to center the hearing on the emotion in order to be conscious of our instinctive attitude. [...]

Thus the purpose of initiatory texts is far less a logical one than it is to provoke shocks, emotional reactions, or to grate against the cerebral need for sequential logic. Paradox, improbably images, the juxtaposition of unconnected phrases are freely employed. The texts appeal to sensation, to a feeling of emotive sensitivity. [...]

Indeed. To persuade people to stop thinking, to confuse, to break the mind into disconnected, chaotic "packets," and to produce emotional reactions upon which the Dark Hierarchy feeds. Over and over again in our study of psychopathy, we came across the fact that one of the observable symptoms was "disharmony between the content of patient's words and his emotional expression." And here we see Schwaller actively promoting this primary symptom of psychopathy and schizophrenia. Why? Well, Topper provided the answer:

Such beings are associated with darkness because the light- knowledge is drawn into the cavernous

"black hole" of their congenital emptiness. [...] All the massive, cosmic project they are engaged in in full consciousness and on the grand scale, is ultimately a means of "cornering the market on energy", monopolizing all the known fields of light or light potential. The expanding order they attempt to impose, the totalitarian control over increasingly large numbers they attempt to exert, is the fantastical and internally self-contradictory project of coercing everything in creation to work for them, to cultivate and keep the fields of their energy-reserves and to furnish self-replenishing "herds" of emotional source-nutrient which can be converted into useful energy or light-capital. Since the negative beings can't generate an important light-energy source themselves, they they use the reserves of the beings effectually harnessed in thrall to them. [...] [Topper]

And this is the agenda of Schwaller de Lubicz. We gather some interesting clues from his further remarks, suggestions that he was promoting black magic and sexual activity as the means of attaining higher consciousness. And, considering his promotion of identification with the "natural world," one can only guess what kind of sexual activity he might advocate.

The asexual character of the Christian myth has colored its entire teaching with a sort of sexual inhibition which places the Christian cabala apart from the contingencies of life here below. Further, its purely moral character smothers the basis of gnosis, which is as complete here as elsewhere.

This is in striking contrast to the Atlantean black cabala, based entirely on sex, that is to say, on the sexualization or dualization of the causal Cause, God.. It is tempting, especially in the Christian world, to label this theology black magic, the magic of evil, which is as inane as condemning our parents to hell for having conceived us in sin. If the first Christians had followed Saint Paul's counsels of chastity, no one would have remained to propagate the new faith. [...]

He seems to be entirely ignorant of the evidence that this was precisely what the Cathars taught. In this next remark, Schwaller reveals the agenda again: fusions, assimilation, control and domination. To have an idea of what the Egyptians were really up to, have a look at some of the "art" that is generally NOT made available to the public:

The badly damaged Turin Erotic Papyrus is 8.5 feet long and reads from right to left. On the first third of the papyrus, animals are shown engaging in various human activities. The rest of the papyrus are vignettes of extremely graphic erotic scenes showing a brutish man using a woman sexually in a variety of postures, some of which suggest force, and all of which definitely suggest lust without love - animal sex. We are certainly reminded of Ira Einhorn's journal entry:

Sadism - sounds nice - run it over your tongue - contemplate with joy the pains of others as you expire with an excruciating satisfaction. Project outward the vision of inward darkness. Let no cesspool of inner meaning be concealed. Reveal the filth that you are. Know the animal is always there... Beauty and innocence must be violated for they can't be possessed. The sacred mystery of another must be preserved - only death can do that.

We so carefully hide the blackness of our soul from all those around us (even ourselves) we forget so easily the impulses of power which unconsciously control so many of our actions! A book like Venus in Furs reminds us of what we are - blackness and light. To beat a woman - what joy - to bite her breasts and ass - how delightful - to have her return the favor in our sensitive areas. How is life to be lived? That is what the book asks unknowingly. Should we subjugate or be subjugated. Realize our darkness or at least become aware of it. Can I love Rita as she is or must I break her spirit. Does she provide me with what I want. Often I think not. Investigate - plunge deeply - leave no stone unturned. You are one of the rare free spirits do not be saddled by one who isn't. Life to be lived at its full must be lived freely. Let nothing stand in your way to getting what you can - not even the illusion of love which you know to be so transitory. [quoted by Levy, emphasis, mine]

Schwaller: Esoterism is not a particular meaning hidden in a text, but a state of fusion between the vital state of the reader and the vital state of the author.. Thus esoteric teaching is strictly evocation, and can be nothing other than that. Initiation does not reside in any text whatsoever, but in the cultivation of intelligence-of-the heart. Then there is no longer anything occult or secret, because the intention of the enlightened, the prophets, and the "messengers from above" is never to conceal - quite the contrary. [...]
[Schwaller, Esoterism and Symbol, emphases, mine]

There is an immediate psychic bond produced by belief in rituals or lies of any kind. This "state of fusion" that Schwaller describes is precisely the result of "bidding" as described in Adventures Chapter 36, as experienced by Whitley Strieber. There is an instantaneous linkage and interpenetration with the individual who has chosen to believe a lie. The higher-dimensional beings have subtle, vertical filamental axes fixed on human beings. Those subtle nerve-networks process radiant-energy values, drawn in through the etheric "chakras" of the higher-dimensional systems, represented by the pineal/pituitary glands.

The "contributions of consciousness" consist effectively of the energy a soul would otherwise utilize to encompass objective knowledge with reason. Each time they choose a lie over the effort required to dig down to the truth, or the effort required to adjust their own psyche to adapt to Truth, that "love" energy is effectively transferred to the individual who is producing the lie in which they are believing, without effort on their part to ascertain its truth for themselves.

The subordinates of the negative hierarchy are all connected like tiers of an immense structure, functioning as regimented extensions and mind/body "parts" - organs and processes as exactly described by Schwaller, serving the negative agenda from their respective levels - feeding the Overarching Apex, the "Eye of the Pyramid." The beings at the different tiers do not perceive the object of the Ultimate Objective because it is a characteristic of the Negative hierarchy to deliberately mask and distort that which is higher and more comprehensive from that which is lower and more "specialized." And this is why they seek to "break up thought" into tiny packets, to shock the senses, to generate emotional reactions that put the soul to sleep.

The Negative hierarchy is oriented toward the consuming of radiant light energy in a one way flow. The progressive power that devolves from the "capture" and incorporation of radiant-light sources serves to feed and enhance an exclusive subjectivity of consciousness - the "identification" described by Schwaller - since the effort is toward the subordination of all things to the magnified narcissism belonging to devout ego consciousness as represented by the much touted "Neters."

Those of you who have read the material in these pages, especially the discussions of the nature of emotions, emotional programming, addiction to emotion and brain chemicals, will immediately recognize the sometimes not so subtle "twists" in the above quoted passages. Schwaller is, effectively, proposing that one should discover their "animal totem," or "Neter," and activate it in all its primitive emotional glory. In other words, rather than utilizing the mind that man is born with that separates him from the animal kingdom to reach for ever higher Cosmic Emotion via the use of reason and reflection, one is supposed, instead, to turn back on the example of Nature, and align oneself with the "Cryptogeographic" beings of the animal kingdom, the the 4th density STS hierarchy. In short, Schwaller is actively promoting the negative agenda.

In contrast to what Schwaller has said about the "assimilating" and expressing of animal natures as the "intelligence of the heart" nonsense, the C's have suggested that one ought to understand that it is by use of knowledge that we grow the vessel for the higher emotions to manifest. We are, indeed, at a crucial transition, but not one where we ought to believe ourselves to be the acme of some sort of Darwinian development of consciousness as a byproduct of evolution, but rather that we are consciousness FIRST, which then manifests form in order to gain experience and learn lessons.

The whole issue of the excitement over Egyptian civilization is the belief that they had some power to control the forces of life because they built the pyramids and we can't. And has it never occurred to anybody that the existence of the pyramids in conjunction with the worship of an elite group of human beings, while everybody else was wearing loincloths and sweating in the hot sun, might suggest a relationship between the two? The fact is, the Egyptian civilization seems to have been the chief example of a vast chasm between the haves and the have nots, and they managed to do it longer than anybody else. Indeed, it seems that these secret societies want to promote that idea that so they can do it again. It's that simple. And they are working like crazy to prepare the minds of the public to accept this as a GOOD thing!

It would be a labor of Hercules to clean out the Augean stable of this man's work, and there are minds who are attracted to these concepts of elitism and hierarchy, just like an entire town was convinced to agree that the Emperor was fully clothed. R.A. Schwaller de Lubicz was a small-minded, intellectual raider and poseur. He was prejudiced and fanatical. He was a racist and a chauvinist. And this is the man revered by most of the researchers in Alternative Egyptology.

But here, again, we find the Tar Baby that will trap us. Schwaller de Lubicz and others who say that the Sphinx was built by people from Atlantis and is much older than mainstream Egyptologists think, may be close to being right. Schwaller de Lubicz and John Anthony West believe that the erosion of the Sphinx was caused by a flood, or series of floods, whereas Schoch found that it was caused by centuries of exposure to rain. West and Hancock argue that the Sphinx was built by a lost civilization, not by the ancient Egyptians. It seems more likely that they were built by the remnants of a Lost Civilization which was the beginning of the Egyptian civilization which is far older than current Egyptological experts will admit. P & P then make the biggest mistake of all. They say:

We may think that we can accept [Saint-Yves] and Schwaller de Lubicz's historical ideas and reject the politics, but they simply can't be disentangled. It was never intended that they should be. If you accept one, you are tacitly swallowing the other. [5]

And that is the double barbed hook of disinformation. It is set up so that the historical information will prove out to a marvelous extent, so that the political ideas will be piggy-backed on that proof. By the same token, P & P's frenzied warning that it is a conspiracy will be discarded because they are inextricably intertwined with the system that is presently being deconstructed.

Since we have suggested that Schwaller de Lubicz is part of a vast COINTELPRO operation with millennial objectives, we need to consider here the fact that the very things he criticizes about Fulcanelli may be those to which we ought to pay the most attention, assuming that the reader is not reading this book to discover the means of obtaining control over the forces of life, but is rather seeking the Truth that will set man Free.

Schwaller offers brutal criticism of Fulcanelli's cabalistic exegesis in The Mystery of The Cathedrals. He denounces Fulcanelli's clues that connect the French language to ancient Pelasgian Greek which is vitally important as I have explicated in Jupiter, Nostradamus, Edgar Cayce, and the Return of the Mongols. He ridicules Fulcanelli's ideas of cabalistic expression, the so-called "language of the birds." Schwaller then promotes the very ideas of Fulcanelli as his own, having effectively removed the mode of achieving them. He suggests that what is required for cabalistic interpretation, for intensified perception, celestial grace is what he calls the intelligence of the heart which can only be achieved by embracing one's "animal nature." He promotes this view while criticizing Fulcanelli's academic expositions, claiming that they are hopelessly over-etymologized, missing the point that it is in these very studies that the cerebral connections are established that enable amplified consciousness, and thus lay the circuitry for the receiving of "celestial grace." Fulcanelli writes in The Dwellings of The Philosophers expressions, the books remain the efficient and genuine cause of the gross mistake that we indicate. For, in spite of the warnings... students persisted in reading them according to the meanings that they hold in ordinary language. They do not know that these texts are reserved for initiates, and that it is essential, in order to understand them, to be in possession of their secret key. One must first work at discovering this key.^[6]

With their confused texts, sprinkled with cabalistic

And the key is in the language, in the variations of the myths, in the archetypal expressions of the myths, and the words that connect one myth to another in layers and semantic content.

Schwaller de Lubicz and the Fourth Reich Part II

Laura Knight-Jadczyk

In examining the work of Schwaller, we have one of the better examples of the subtle way the occult societies attack those who come to bring light, by association and co-opting. The tactic is to find a means of subtly allying their message with that of the truly Positive so as to generate confusion in untrained minds which would tend on surface evidence to accept these actually contrary messages as similar, at least in intent.

The occultists who are promoting the new Control System borrow all their components from what is of truth, and proceed by the method of imitation. They literally will ape the expression of positive teachings, and all the more carefully when they wish to be mistaken altogether for purveyors of truth, so as to subvert the messages.

Their usual strategy is to begin by adhering so closely to the truth as to be virtually indistinguishable to all but heightened, thinking awareness. They install their ideas through the rhythmic lull of entrainment so as to catch the "congregation" totally off guard when they finally diverge slightly or greatly from the truth and so pull the listener along with them. The voice of deception is, of course, all the more ingratiatingly imitative of "goodness" where it is addressing a listener who is truly desirous of seeking truth; those who are lazy to begin with don't need such careful wording to deceive them as they are already willing to be deceived.

The most difficult problem we face is that of the vast hyperdimensional Cosmic COINTELPRO operation that has been underway for millennia. We have been blinded emotionally by social programming, and kept in the dark by academic limitations. To compound the emotional and analytical challenges we must overcome, there is the present glut of unsubstantiated information, theories, disinformation and purported "evidence" being promulgated through the Internet. Lies and confusion everywhere. And so few people seem to grasp that this is an ingredient, or principle that is part and parcel of the process of social engineering. In order for any of us to be able to arrive at any kind of accurate information and to gain greater insight about the problems we may be facing, we must be prepared to rid ourselves of all past thought patterns and preconceptions, and in a childlike manner ask very simple questions, and keep asking until we penetrate to new, novel and unexpected revelations. There is no other way; we must become Perceval and "ask the question" with no beliefs at all.

One does not need to even believe in a conspiracy, but it is essential to understand that there are many who do believe, who do understand the principles, and who do participate in these conspiracies. In this respect, it is necessary to investigate a full range of information in order to avoid making decisions based on blind emotional faith, peer pressure, imagination or outright manipulation.

It seems clear that it is only at the very deepest level that some of the human "players" are even aware of their status as "game pieces." And most certainly, they are assured that their cooperation will be rewarded by their hyperdimensional Masters. It is fascinating to notice that, even though they employ Machiavellian tactics and Game Theory, they are curiously blind to one of the rules of such play: those who can be co-opted for use against their own kind are the first to be destroyed when the New "Prince" takes over. Since their ambition leads them to betrayal at one level, it is assumed that it will also lead them to attempt betrayal at the next level above them, and thus they are used until they are no longer useful, and then they are destroyed.

Many people have the erroneous idea that our national leaders and lawmakers are this "economic elite." That is evidently not the case. They are merely gofers who serve a hidden group of elitists who have seceded from the human race and have joined forces with the ultimate controllers: the hyperdimensional Controllers of the Matrix. This group is the one that holds humanity in bondage while it amasses wealth for the purpose of gathering the reins of control in order to be able to implement its Dark Agenda of total control, body, mind and spirit.

Teddy Roosevelt was quoted as saying:

"Behind the ostensible government sits enthroned an invisible government owing no allegiance and acknowledging no responsibility to the people. To destroy this invisible government, to befoul the unholy alliance between corrupt business and corrupt politics is the first task of the statesmanship of today."

The Third Reich was an early attempt at creating a "New World Order." Evidence shows that the Anglo American economic elite was involved with that up to its ears. Economist Robert Brady defined the Nazi state as "a dictatorship of monopoly capitalism. Its 'fascism' is that of business enterprise organized on a monopoly basis, and in full command of all the military, police, legal and propaganda power of the state." (Richard Sasuly, "I.G. Farben," 1947, p. 128)

Nazi Germany was, in effect, a Game Theory based capitalist paradise. There was a 60-hour workweek, low wages and no unions. Nazi expansionist policies actually represented the global ambitions of German cartels that had begun to prepare for war long before they backed Hitler with big bucks. As countries fell to the Nazis, businesses were absorbed at fire sale prices. "For German big business, World War II was a chance to plunder on a scale without precedent in history," writes Sasuly (p.114).

The key to understanding the elite, and the direction of current world events, based on the model of Fascism, is to understand the psychology of the economic cartel. Cartels are, by definition, a conspiracy. Their purpose - utilizing Game Theory - is to defraud the public by keeping prices high. They do this by controlling competition, markets, raw materials and new technology. They are by definition megalomaniacal, anti-national, and psychopathic.

One of the earliest cartels was J. D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil, which eliminated the competition by secretly fixing transportation costs with the railroads. While he professed Christianity, Rockefeller is famous for saying the "only sin is competition."

The largest German cartel was the chemical, film and pharmaceutical giant I.G. Farben. Farben produced 85% of Germany's explosives in World War Two. In 1926, Farben and Standard Oil entered into a cartel agreement in which Farben stayed out of synthetic oil in return for Standard representing Farben in the US. The upshot of this agreement was that Standard Oil supplied the Nazis with petroleum in spite of shortages in the US. It supplied a rare lead additive without which the Luftwaffe could not fly. It suppressed the production of synthetic rubber in the US, which almost cost the Allies the war.

In turn, Rockefeller, the man who financed the scientific think tank at Princeton, MIT, and other places, got a cut of Farben's other business, which included the many factories that employed slave labor from concentration camps like Auschwitz. (Farben-Rockefeller paid the SS for this labor at bargain rates.) Profits also derived from the poison gas that killed the laborers after their usefulness was expended. This is the real reason the rail lines to Auschwitz were not bombed. Allied bombers hit within 14 miles of Auschwitz but the factories and death camp were off limits. In fact, German industry moved there for this reason. After the war, the CIA established its German headquarters in the undamaged Farben skyscraper in Frankfurt.

The holocaust was very good business. Throughout the 1930's Wall Street investment banks participated in "aryanization" which meant getting Jewish owned breweries, banks, factories, department stores etc. for 30 cents on the dollar. The gold from the teeth of holocaust victims ended up in their vaults. It is not an exaggeration to say that the Nazi war effort was financed by the Bank of England (which, for example, transferred the Czech gold reserves to the Nazis), Wall Street (Prescott Bush, Dubya's grandfather, was one of the leading Nazi financiers) and Jewish plunder. It was finessed by lawyer John Foster Dulles, a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, who later became US Secretary of State. Nazi businessmen remained in positions of power, war criminals were transported to South America, or went to work for the CIA.

In contrast, during the war, the allies deliberately prevented Jews from escaping from Europe. In short, they not only set the house on fire, they blocked the exit.

On the first day of World War Two, His Majesty's ship "Lorna" fired on the limping overcrowded "Tiger Hill" as she approached Palestine with 1417 Jewish refugees. The first people killed by the British in WWII were not Germans but Jewish escapees from Germany. Other refugee ships (e.g. the "St. Louis") were sent back to Germany by the US or blown up with all souls on board by British MI-6 (the "Struma"). For the whole story, read The Holocaust Conspiracy (1989) by William R. Perl, a Lt. Colonel with the US Army Intelligence Service.

The list of US corporations that had the equivalent of $8 billion invested in Nazi Germany include Standard Oil, General Motors, IBM, Ford, the Chase and National City Banks, ITT and many others. As a result, Allied soldiers didn't know that ITT built the airplanes that dropped bombs on them. They didn't know that Ford and General Motors built the Nazi's trucks and tanks. They didn't know that ball bearings crucial to the Nazi war effort were manufactured in Philadelphia, yet were in short supply in the USA. This was all done with the knowledge and permission of the US government. For details, see Charles Higham's Trading with the Enemy(1983), and Christopher Simpson's (1993), and Blowback (1988).

Most people assume that cartels owe an allegiance to their native country. But this is not the case. They live in a financial virtual reality. Their fellow men are important only insofar as they cannot fodder for the advancement of their Economic interests.

The question must be asked: if the Economic elite backed the Nazis, why didn't the Nazis win? They did. It was all about shifting the Control System to another geographic location under cover of war. The objective was to use war and genocide to degrade and demoralize humanity - specifically those with ideas of Freedom - so that they will ultimately accept serfdom under the guidance of Uncle Sam and Big Brother. The purpose of this "globalization" was to institutionalize the political power of the Economic cartels. This was the hidden agenda behind the creation of the scientific "think tank" at Princeton, the luring of the great scientific minds to the service of the Economic cartels, the development of Game Theory, and it is all being implemented in the current "war on terrorism."

At the levels of which we are aware: heads of state, diplomats, government officials, economic theorists, heads of industry and the military; it is highly unlikely that they have any full awareness of the hyperdimensional nature of the game at all. They operate fully as "automatons," or "psychopathic alien reaction machines," in a state of total susceptibility to manipulation with no awareness that they are being manipulated.

As Carlos Castaneda pointed out, the Predator "gave us their mind."

Q: [...] (L) Okay, this anthropologist, Michael Harner, was doing some field work, and it says here that Harner went to the Peruvian Amazon to study the culture of the Conibo Indians. After a year or so he had made little headway in understanding their religious system, when the Conibo told him

'if he really wanted to learn, he had to drink ahayahuasca. Harner accepted, not without fear because the people had warned him that the experience was terrifying. The following evening, under the strict supervision of his indigenous friends, he drank the equivalent of a third of a bottle. After several minutes he found himself flying into a world of true hallucinations. After arriving in a celestial cavern where a supernatural carnival of demons was in full swing, he saw two strange boats floating through the air that combined to form a huge dragon headed prow not unlike that of a Viking ship. On the deck he could make out large numbers of people with the heads of bluejays and the bodies of humans, not unlike the bird-headed gods of ancient Egyptian tomb paintings. Then he saw that his visions emanated from giant reptilian creatures that resided at the lowest depths of his brain. These creatures began projecting scenes in front of his eyes while informing him that this information was reserved for the dying and the dead.

'First, they showed me the planet Earth as it was aeons ago before there was any life on it. I saw an ocean, barren land, and a bright blue sky. Then black specks dropped from the sky by the hundreds and landed in front of me on the barren landscape. I could see that the specks were actually large, shiny black creatures with stubby pterodactyl-like wings and huge whale-like bodies. They explained to me in a kind of thought language, that they were fleeing from something from out in space. They had come to the planet earth to escape their enemy. The creatures then showed me how they had created life on the planet in order to hide within the multitudinous forms, and thus disguise their presence. Before me, the magnificence of plant and animal creation and speciation and hundreds of millions of years of activity, took place on a scale and with a vividness impossible to describe. I learned that dragon-like creatures were thus inside all forms of life, including man.'

At this point in his account, Harner writes in a footnote at the bottom of the page: 'in retrospect, one could say that they were almost like DNA, although at that time, in 1961, I knew nothing of DNA.' [...] (C) In these chemically induced trances, why is there the common experience of seeing these bird-headed or serpent-like creatures?

A: While you have physicality, some part of you will maintain the connection to its roots.

Q: (L) Are you saying that all these people who say that human beings have reptilian genetics, are telling the truth? Do we have reptilian genetics?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) Do we also have bird genetics?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) And that is our physical connection or basis?

A: Yes, as third density bioengineered beings, you lead the smorgasbord parade of that which surrounds you in the physical realm.

Q: (A) So, we are 3rd density bioengineered beings. (L) That leads to another question: there is a lot of talk about the Merovingian bloodlines, or the 'Nordic Covenant' bloodlines, or whatever label is put on it, being a 'fresher' version of the reptilian genetic strain.

This is represented in the myths of the god Oannes of Sumerian fame, or the Quinotaur who impregnated the mother of Merovee while she was bathing in the sea, and even the wife of the founder of the Angevins, Melusine, variously described as an aquatic fairy or a mermaid. So, there is this claim that there is a stronger and more virile reptilian strain in these bloodlines. Is that correct?

A: It may be.

Q: (L) Well, is that significant in any way?

A: For those obsessed with materialism.

Q: (L) [...] this business about these dragon-like creatures fleeing from something. This story gets repeated a lot. Is that an accurate part of the tale? Were they fleeing from something?

A: Maybe, but so what?

Q: (L) What were they fleeing? I'm curious!

A: Fleeing? All life just fills the voids that exist. It is a natural process; existentialism.

Q: I have this book, this Marcia Schafer thing: "Confessions of an Intergalactic Anthropologist," and it's a bunch of channelled stuff; one thing she says: "the snake is associated with the sign of wisdom and higher learning, and is often regarded quite highly in mystical circles." She had an interaction with a rattlesnake, for which she felt sympathy, and she also has sympathetic interactions with Lizzies. I would like to have a comment on the idea of the snake as a "sign of wisdom and higher learning." Does this, in fact, represent what the snake symbolizes?

A: Snake is/was reported in context of the viewpoint of the observer.

Q: Are you saying that when the observer's viewpoint is that the snake is a symbol of higher learning, maybe...

A: Maybe the observer was just "blown away" by the experience.

Q: Clarify, please.

A: If you were living in the desert, or jungle, about 7,000 years ago, as you measure time, would you not be impressed if these Reptoid "dudes" came down from the heavens in silvery objects and demonstrated techno-wonders from thousands of years in the future, and taught you calculus, geometry and astrophysics to boot?!?

Q: Is that, in fact, what happened?

A: Yup.

08-09-97

A: {...]. Here is something for you to digest: Why is it that your scientists have overlooked the obvious when they insist that alien beings cannot travel to earth from a distant system???

Q: And what is this obvious thing?

A: Even if speed of light travel, or "faster," were not possible, and it is, of course, there is no reason why an alien race could not construct a space "ark," living for many generations on it. They could travel great distances through time and space, looking for a suitable world for conquest. Upon finding such, they could then install this ark in a distant orbit, build bases upon various solid planes in that solar system, and proceed to patiently manipulate the chosen civilizations to develop a suitable technological infrastructure. And then, after the instituting of a long, slow, and grand mind programming project, simply step in and take it over once the situation was suitable.

Q: Is this, in fact, what has happened, or is happening?

A: It could well be, and maybe now it is the time for you to learn about the details.

Q: Well, would such a race be 3rd or 4th density in orientation?

A: Why not elements of both?

Q: What is the most likely place that such a race would have originated from?

A: Oh, maybe Orion, for example?

Q: Okay. If such a race did, in fact, travel to this location in space/time, how many generations have come and gone on their space ark during this period of travel, assuming, of course, that such a thing has happened?

A: Maybe 12.

Q: Okay, that implies that they have rather extended life spans...

A: Yes...

Q: Assuming this to be the case, what are their lifespans?

A: 2,000 of your years. When in space, that is...

Q: And what is the span when on terra firma?

A: 800 years.

Q: Well, has it not occurred to them that staying in space might not be better?

A: No. Planets are much more "comfortable."

Q: Okay... imagining that such a group has traveled here...

A: We told you of upcoming conflicts...

Maybe we meant the same as your Bible, and other references. Speak of... The "final" battle between "good and evil..." Sounds a bit cosmic, when you think of it, does it not?

Q: Does this mean that there is more than one group that has traveled here in their space arks?

A: Could well be another approaching, as well as "reinforcements" for either/ or, as well as non-involved, but interested observers of various types who appreciate history from the sidelines.

Q: Well, SWELL! There goes my peaceful life!

A: You never had one!

Q: Well, I was planning on one! Is this one of those items we should NOT put on the net, or are you addressing it because you want it on the net?

A: We will leave that until a bit later.

Q: Any other comment?

A: You chose to be incarnated now, with some foreknowledge of what was to come. Reference your dreams of space attack.

Q: Okay, what racial types are we talking about relating to these hypothetical aliens?

A: Three basic constructs. Nordic, Reptilian, and Greys. Many variations of type 3, and 3 variations of type 1 and 2.

Q: Well, what racial types are the 'good guys?'

A: Nordics, in affiliation with 6th density "guides."

Q: And that's the only good guys?

A: That's all you need.

Q: Wonderful! So, if it is a Grey or Lizzie, you know they aren't the nice guys. But, if it is tall and blond, you need to ask questions!

A: All is subjective when it comes to nice and not nice. Some on 2nd density would think of you as "not nice," to say the least!!!

Q: That's for sure!

Especially the roaches!

Maybe we ought to get in touch with some of these good guys...

A: When the "time" is right.

A: Invasion happens when programming is complete...

Q: What programming?

A: See Bible, "Lucid" book, Matrix Material, "Bringers of the Dawn," and many other sources, then cross reference...

Q: Well, if something is fairly imminent, we are not gonna have time to do all the things you have suggested that we do!

A: Yes you will, most likely.

Q: Well, we are supposed to build a pool, a maze, a psychomantium, to build a database, get a Nobel Prize... a LOT of things in the works here.... This just sort of takes the heart right out of me!

A: Not so!

Q: Well, are we going to have time to do all these things?

A: All these things were suggested for this reason, among others.

Q: So, all the things you have suggested are to get us ready for this event?

A: Yes.

Q: Well, we better get moving! We don't have time to mess around!

A: You will proceed as needed, you cannot force these events or alter the Grand Destiny.

Q: I do NOT like the sound of that! I want to go home!

A: The alternative is less appetising.

Q: Sure! I don't want to be lunch!

A: Reincarnation on a 3rd density earth as a "cave person" amidst rubble and a glowing red sky, as the perpetual cold wind whistles...

Q: Why is the sky glowing red?

A: Contemplate.

Q: Of course! Comet dust! Sure, everybody knows

THAT! Wonderful!!!

Anything further?

A: Stay tuned for all pertinent information.

11-06-94

Q: (L) I have drawn a sort of conclusion about some of the activities of the Lizzies and their abductions through the Grays and so forth, and it seems to me that these excessive numbers of exams, gynecological, reproductive or whatever exams, might possibly be a screen for a process that is used to extract life force or energy from the human being, through the basal chakra, the sexual chakra, as I understand where the life force enters in. Is this idea correct or on track?

A: Close.

Q: (L) It does seem that the Grays and Lizzies are abnormally interested in sexual activities of human beings, is that correct?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) Do they have tremendous sex drives even though they are in fourth density?

A: No.

Q: (L) Are they interested in sexual energy simply because it is life force?

A: Partly and also desperately to stave off change in order to retain control.

Q: (L) What changes are they desperate to stave off?

A: To 4th level.

Q: (L) They are trying to stave off the 4th level change. Can they do that?

A: No. Also hoping to retain control even if change occurs.

Q: (L) Are these supposed memories people have from their abductions of these exams just screens of procedures used to take life force from them?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) When they sample an abductee's tissue and take the little scoops or chunks out of them, what do they take these chunks of flesh for?

A: Cloning.

Q: (L) If they clone, why do they need such a large chunks?

A: You don't know all details of cloning process yet.

Q: (L) Do they take twins, or one of a pair of twins, and raise one artificially?

A: Have done so.

Q: (L) Is this done frequently?

A: No.

Q: (L) What is the purpose of taking one of a pair of twins?

A: Study to determine which is best soul receptacle: one of twins or clone. [This raises the question as to why the choice has to be either. Is there some connection between clones and the original body and one twin and another that is vital to the purpose of the Lizzies?]

Q: (L) Do these twins they raise, do they raise them on their ships or in their enclave wherever they are?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) And do they treat them well?

A: Open.

Q: (L) Do they teach them a great deal?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) Do they do this to test the brain capacity of the human being?

A: And other reasons.

Q: (L) For what purpose are they trying to decide which is the best receptacle, the clone or the twin? Receptacle for what?

A: Future project. [to] Switch physical realities.

Q: (L) And who is going to switch physical realities? Are they going to enter into bodies they have prepared for themselves so that they can switch their reality?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) So, they are preparing a bunch of soulless bodies into which they can enter in themselves?

A: Will try.

04-15-00

Q: (L) So, in effect, we ARE the new Neanderthals on the eve of extinction. You have said that those who transition into 4th density in the body will go through some kind of rejuvenation process or body regeneration or something. Does that mean that these present "Neanderthal" type bodies that we presently occupy will morph into something more in line with the new model? Is it genetically encoded into some of them to do so?

A: Something like that.

Q: (L) So, that's why they have been following certain bloodlines for generation after generation; they are tinkering with the DNA and arming genetic time-bombs that are waiting to go off. (A) What is interesting is how do those who are trying to get these people, to abduct them, how do they spot them? How do they get the information? By following the bloodline, or by some kind of monitor you can detect from a long distance - and they can note that "here is somebody of interest" or "here is somebody dangerous" or "let's abduct this one" or whatever. How do they select? Do they search the genealogies or is it some kind of remote sensing?

A: Now this is interesting Arkadiusz, as it involves the atomic "signature" of the cellular structure of the individual. In concert with this is the etheric body reading and the frequency resonance vibration. All these are interconnected, and can be read from a distance using remote viewing technology/methodology.

Q: (L) Can it be done in a pure mechanical way without using psychic means?

A: At another level of understanding, the two are blended into one.

Q: (T) Computerized psychic remote viewing, maybe. Like artificial intelligence. Maybe a mind connected to a computer?

A: That is close, yes.

07-22-00

A: The concept of a "master race" put forward by the Nazis was merely a 4th density STS effort to create a physical vehicle with the correct frequency resonance vibration for 4th density STS souls to occupy in 3rd density. It was also a "trial run" for planned events in what you perceive to be your future.

Q: (L) You mean with a strong STS frequency so they can have a "vehicle" in 3rd density, so to speak?

A: Correct. Frequency resonance vibration! Very important.

Q: (L) So, that is why they are programming and experimenting? And all these folks running around who some think are "programmed," could be individuals who are raising their nastiness levels high enough to accommodate the truly negative STS 4th density - sort of like walk-ins or something, only not nice ones?

A: You do not have very many of those present yet, but that was, and still is, the plan of some of the 4th density STS types.

Q: Okay, last session you brought up the subject of Frequency Resonance Vibration. You suggested that there are certain STS forces who are developing or creating or managing physical bodies that they are trying to increase the frequency in so that they will have bodies that are wired so that they can manifest directly into 3rd density, since that seems to be the real barrier that prevents an all-out invasion, the fact that we are in 3rd density and they are in 4th. Now, I assume that the same function could be true for STO individuals. It seems that many individuals who have come into this time period from the future, coming back into the past via the incarnational cycle so as not to violate free will, have carefully selected bodies with particular DNA, which they are, little by little, activating so that there 4th density selves, or higher, can manifest in this reality. Is it possible for those energies to manifest into such bodies which have been awakened or tuned in 3rd density?

A: STO tends to do the process within the natural flow of things. STS seeks to alter creation processes to fit their ends.

Q: This Top Secret document and the Anna

Hayes material to some extent, both talk about many abductions being "ourselves from the future" who have come back to the past, or what is for us, the present, to abduct their own bodies to make genetic adjustments so that they can advance and not make the mistakes they made in another timeline. Is that, in fact, part of the scenario?

A: Very close to the truth!

Q: Can you abduct yourself in an STO manner and help yourself in this way? Can that be STO?

A: It is not, because that is not STO.

Q: So, when that is happening, and if it is happening, it is occurring in the STS parameter?

A: Yes.

Q: How do the STO manage?

A: They do not concern themselves with such things.

Q: Well, if the STS guys are genetically tweaking themselves to have some kind of different outcome for some reason that we do not perceive, don't you think there should be a balancing action on the STO side of some sort?

A: You are thinking in STS terms. But that is natural, since human 3rd density is STS.

Q: You say they don't concern themselves with that. What do STO individuals coming back from the future into the past concern themselves with?

A: Answering calls for assistance with knowledge.

Q: What do these STS individuals coming back into the past hope to do by genetically tweaking their ancestors? What happened that they want to have happen differently?

A: Infinite number of possible answers to that question.

Q: So, they are coming from all different timelines with all different kinds of agendas - all designed to serve themselves.

11-26-94

Q: (L) You have told us through this source, that there is a cluster of comets connected in some interactive way with our solar system, and that this cluster of comets comes into the plane of the ecliptic every 3600 years. Is this correct?

A: Yes. But, this time it is riding realm border wave to 4th level, where all realities are different.

Q: (L) Okay, so the cluster of comets is riding the realm border wave. Does this mean that when it comes into the solar system, that its effect on the solar system, or the planets within the solar system... (J) Or us. (L)... may or may not be mitigated by the fact of this transition? Is this a mitigating factor?

A: Will be mitigated.

Q: (L) Does any of this mean that the earth changes that have been predicted, may not, in fact, occur in physical reality as we understand it?

A: You betcha.

Q: (L) Does this mean that all of this running around and hopping and jumping to go here and go there and do this and do that is...

A: That is strictly 3rd level thinking.

Q: (L) Now, if that is 3rd level thinking, and if a lot of these things are symbolic, I am assuming they are symbolic of movement or changes in energy.

A: Yes.

Q: (L) And, if these changes in energy occur does this mean that the population of the planet are, perhaps, in groups or special masses of groups, are they defined as the energies that are changing in these descriptions of events and happenings of great cataclysm. Is it like a cataclysm of the soul on an individual and or collective basis?

A: Close.

Q: (L) When the energy changes to 4th density, and you have already told us that people who are moving to 4th density when the transition occurs, that they will move into 4th density, go through some kind of rejuvenation process, grow new teeth, or whatever, what happens to those people who are not moving to 4th density, and who are totally unaware of it? Are they taken along on the wave by, in other words, piggy-backed by the ones who are aware and already changing in frequency, or are they going to be somewhere else doing something else?

A: Step by step.

Q: (T) In other words, we are looking at the fact that what's coming this time is a wave that's going to allow the human race to move to 4th density?

A: And the planet and your entire sector of space/ time.

Q: (T) Is that what this whole plan is about, then, if I may be so bold as to include all of us here in this. We, of the beings of light who have come here into human form, to anchor the frequency, is this what we are anchoring it for, for this wave, so that when it comes enough of us will be ready, the frequency will be set, so that the change in the planet can take place as it has been planned?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) When this happens, will we piggy-back all those who are still unaware?

A: Open.

Q: (T) Okay, when the people are talking about the earth changes, when they talk in literal terms about the survivors, and those who are not going to survive, and the destruction and so forth and so on, in 3rd, 4th, 5th level reality we are not talking about the destruction of the planet on 3rd level physical terms, or the loss of 90 per cent of the population on the 3rd level because they died, but because they are going to move to 4th level?

A: Whoa! You are getting "warm."

Q: (T) Okay. So, when they talk about 90 per cent of the population not surviving, it is not that they are going to die, but that they are going to transform. We are going to go up a level. This is what the whole light thing is all about?

A: Or another possibility is that the physical cataclysms will occur only for those "left behind" on the remaining 3rd level density earth.

Q: (L) What I am trying to get here, once again, old practical Laura, is trying to get a handle on practical terms here. Does this mean that a 4th density earth and a 3rd density earth will coexist side by side...

A: Not side by side, totally different realms.

Q: (L) Do these realms interpenetrate one another but in different dimensions...

A: Close.

Q: (L) So, in other words, a being from say, 6th density, could look at this planet we call the earth and see it spinning through space and see several dimensions of earth, and yet the point of space/time occupation is the same, in other words, simultaneous. (J) They can look down but we can't look up.

A: Yes.

Q: (L) So, in other words, while all of this cataclysmic activity is happening on the 3rd dimensional earth, we will be just on our 4th dimensional earth and this sort of thing won't be there, and we won't see the 3rd dimensional people and they won't see us because we will be in different densities which are not "en rapport", so to speak?

A: You understand concept, now you must decide if it is factual.

Here on the Cassiopaea Website, we echo the above sentiment. We do not seek to force any idea down anyone's throat, or even declare that the C's ideas are right, or the only right views. What we have done is use these ideas as a jumping off point for thinking, creating a hypothesis, testing this hypothesis, and even experimenting with it.

If it is true that humans are being bred and raised like cattle in a global stockyard and fed upon both psychically and sometimes even physically, we have a truly serious situation going on here, to put it mildly. As I have explained before, I have NEVER seen a Drachomonoid being except in dreamlike states or almost hypnopompic semi-sleep states. So, when the Cassiopaeans began to talk about them, it was truly "Twilight Zone" time, in my opinion!

I have also stated that, whenever the Cassiopaeans have told us anything, I work very hard to discover if there is any form of what I call vertical or lateral corroboration. Vertical data is that which is located in history at any point different from the present. Lateral data consists of collecting reports, witness information, and other data that amounts to circumstantial evidence from the present time. It is always better if the two types of data "cross" or intersect. But it is still not the same as having a "smoking gun." But, when you are dealing with hyperdimensional realities, "smoking guns" are not very likely to be found.

In the case of the idea of man being "food" for hyperdimensional beings, there is an enormous amount of both vertical and lateral corroboration of ALL kinds. So much so that, in fact, it is almost impossible to understand why it is not generally known. Clearly, there have been deliberate efforts to "hide this fact." And, the fact that it is hidden may itself tell us something.

The point is, when Don Juan and Gurdjieff and the Cassiopaeans (and others) tell us that our religions, our social structure, our values, our beliefs about our spiritual nature and condition have been deliberately created to perpetuate the illusion that we are free; that we are (or can be) "special and adored children of a loving God;" that we are or can be "co-creators" with God, that we can DO anything at all of a positive and powerful nature, we need to carefully examine this issue!

But it is WORK to examine it objectively. It is HARD WORK because it consists of long and difficult self-examination in order to be able to overcome the emotions that prevent us from discovering what illusions we are hanging onto, what illusions are preventing us from seeing and acting in such a way as to BECOME FREE.

For me, the idea of connecting the dots has always consisted of using everything available to me in terms of peeling that blasted onion right down to the center. If I have to spend weeks buried in books about genetics to verify or disprove something the Cassiopaeans have said, I will do it. Not only that, I will write to known experts in the field using my husband's cachet in the scientific world to "get in the door" and get the latest, most up-to-date INSIDE information so that I can be sure that what I am sharing is as accurate and balanced as I can make it.

When we sit in our comfortable homes and look at our reality, including that which is outside our windows, we see a "stable" front. Cars pass on the street taking people to and from their homes in their varied daily activities. The sun shines, children pass by talking and laughing. Everyone is involved in their life in an immediate and identified way, believing that this life they are involved in is what IS.

But, once in a while, something bizarre happens to someone and they struggle to deal with this anomaly in the space/time continuum. Usually, it is sufficiently minor that they can "damp it" and forget about it; which they MUST because it is too aberrant in the normal accepted course of events. It must be shoved under the rug and hidden.

Once in awhile, bigger things happen in the reality - evidence of the hyperdimensional control system intrudes, or the "screen" breaks down in some way - and it becomes news and gets reported. Charles Fort spent many years collecting these types of things from the newspapers and magazines all over the world.

When this happens, the "accepted belief system" hurries to "damp down" the item so that everyone can go along in their respective and collective illusions. And, since the events are localized, it is easy to cover it up. And, in the past, this was a LOT easier than it is today.

When you read the collected information of Charles Fort, you see that the "alien reality" that is so widely reported today was just as active then as it is now. In fact, you see that it may even be somewhat "cyclical." Just as we have cycles of food production, planting, growing and harvesting, so may hyperdimensional beings harvest us according to some "seasonal" rule.

But, in any event, in the past it was a lot easier to keep the lid on the matter. But then, people began to become literate. Books and papers and magazines were published and distributed. Travel became easier and information from around the world about these "odd intrusions" into our reality could be collected giving an overall pattern that something was not right.

Before Charles Fort, there were some few people who already "smelled a rat." But, Mr. Fort kindly shoved it right under our noses and the reaction has been quite interesting. The "cover up" machine went into FULL operation through the most effective vectors of mainstream science and religion.

But, the rat had been smelled and some people couldn't just shove it back under the rug. The stench kept wafting in the window that had been opened.

And so, certain people began to start searching for the source of this stinky rat. They began to gather knowledge and information.

At that point, the Control System had to use other options. It is obvious that, on the one hand, the creation of a technological infrastructure was desirable for a future takeover, but on the other hand, it was necessary to rigidly control it. We can even note HOW the "cover-up" machine began to do this "damage control." When you study the history of social and religious movement and change, you can see the "control mechanism" morphing with every discovery or realization made by human beings. As they outgrew the old religions, the simplistic explanations, new "religions" were put in place. At exactly the right time - the period of scientific expansion and growing knowledge of the nature of reality which brought the old religious views into serious question - the whole spiritualist movement began, leading to channeled information that was designed to patch up the holes in the control net. Newer and more elaborate explanations of the "higher realms" came into our reality. And, with each new question, the control system had a new answer to help everybody calm down, relax, and stop asking questions!

At the present time, this is even more amazingly evident. A few years ago, when we first began sharing the Cassiopaeian information, many of the issues we dealt with were not even addressed by these other "sources." But, with everything we release, the "other side" brings some new candidate forward with new explanations to "patch the holes" we are tearing in the fabric of reality. And, of course, some of these new sources are becoming more educated and articulate as if to counterbalance and damp down what we are presenting here.

To many of you, it may seem that the Cassiopaeans offer nothing but repeated statements that we are "damned no matter what we do," but, that is not entirely the case. Yes, it is true that, up to this point I have presented mostly the information that relates to these matters, attempting to penetrate and tear the veils of illusion under which mankind has been hidden from his higher nature or potential, but this has only been done with the intention of having a relatively clear view of what possibilities of DOing we may actually have. And, I have been trying to accomplish something else, something deep and essential: for those who are asking, I have been trying to help you find your Free Will by describing the the situations in which we are deprived of our free will by the manipulations of others.

And this brings us to that all-important remark made by a member of our group, Terry Rodemerk:

What we have been told on that is that this universe was created as a Free Will Universe. It was created specifically to allow all souls to do whatever they wish to do; they have complete choice about what they wish to do. The Grays, the Lizards, whoever they are who abduct and put implants in people, have the right to do that because it's their free will to come here and do that to us. And, they have the right to tell us whatever they want to tell us to rationalize their behavior. Our right is to NOT believe what abducting entities tell us. We have free will to believe or not believe them. If they tell us in one lifetime that they have the right to do this to us, and we choose to believe them then, and then, in this lifetime, they try the same tricks and we choose NOT to believe them, in each case, we are exercising our free will and so are they. This is a Free Will universe. We can change our mind. They are trying to convince us that we have no choice in that; whether we believe them or not is OUR choice.

Can we accelerate the awakening?

The Cassiopaeans have indicated that, yes it is possible:

Q: (L) Is there a tool that enhances free will?

A: No tool is needed because all there is is lessons. The learning cycle is variable, and progress along it is determined by events and circumstances as they unfold.

Q: (L) So, when a person is being hypnotized and controlled from outside, because that is the matter of concern we were discussing earlier, they are hypnotized and controlled until they learn to stop it?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) So, using the analogy of the pig sty, they just have to wallow in it and suffer until they have had enough?

A: Using your analogy of the bicycle: Is there a tool which makes it unnecessary for the child to learn how to ride the bicycle in order to know how to ride it?!?

Q: (MM) Don't you get more free will by assimilating knowledge?

A: Yes!! Yes!!

Q: (L) So, in other words, knowledge and awareness makes you aware that you have free will, and also makes you aware of what actions actually ARE acts of free will, and therefore, when you know or suspect the difference between the lies and deception and truth, then you are in a position to be in control of your life?

A: Yes. Remember, you learn on an exponential curve, once you have become "tuned in." This means that you become increasingly able to access the universal consciousness. Please learn to trust your increasing awareness. All who are present here are at one point or another on that cycle of progression, some further along than others. If you properly network without prejudice, you may all wind up at the same point on this cycle.

So, learning, networking with others who are further along on the cycle of progression, and doing this without prejudice CAN make a difference, it seems.

And it is this process that the Control

System most desperately wishes to halt. As long as we were just chatting with the C's in the comfort of our home, as long as we were just sharing it with a few people on a private basis, or not too much of it, we were getting along fine. But the minute the website went up, that was when the concentration of attack against the sharing of this information began. The instant we began to set up a serious website, investing time and money and energy into it in a dedicated way, Mr. Maynerd Most was activated to infiltrate, co-opt, steal, bastardize, and/or destroy.

We have learned in Adventures Chapter 36, the objective in The Secret Games of the Gods: it is nothing less than the total capture of our planet, and the use of human beings as servants and "food" in ways that are not even comprehensible to us. Considering the "payoff" that is being sought by these forces, we can be certain that the deceptions will be deep and wide, and far reaching. As we have seen, the beginnings of this global manipulation began millennia ago, and it is in the present day that it is intended to be brought to fruition. Unfortunately, after so long a time of being subjected to lies and disinformation, the likelihood of humanity being able to overcome the social and cultural programming is remote. And that is where people like Maynerd Most AKA "Dr. Evil," and other psychopaths come in: they are masters of triggering emotional programs that put people back to sleep. As a student on the subject, Robert Canup, has said, 99% of all of the problems confronting mankind can be traced to a single cause: the problem of the plausible lie. And the plausible lie is what psychopaths are masters at promulgating. Even though he was writing in strictly material and cultural terms, his ideas are presented almost intact with only the context and objects changed. Thus adapting Canup's reasoning to our present problem - that of psychopaths - let's look at how psychopaths are the ideal "agents of the Matrix."

Plausible lies are monstrous things constructed by the Matrix Control System, propagated by evil people for the express purpose of deceiving good people into doing the will of the Dark Forces. It's that simple. The most powerful of these lies are so plausible that nobody even dreams about questioning their validity.

If there is such a thing as a plausible lie, is it not also possible that there might be such a thing as an implausible truth?

Adapting Canup's example: Suppose that tomorrow when you walk out of your house, an alien spacecraft lands in front of you. Aliens get out and assault you, leaving physical traces. Next, imagine that this is not a hallucination, it is not dream; it really happens. You are now in possession of an implausible truth. What chance is there of you being able to convince anyone else of what happened to you? You know it is the truth, but no one will believe you. And the root of the problem is the fact that truth generally has a feeling of reality to it. However, that feeling of reality which makes truth generally plausible is NOT the same thing as the truth itself. Others who have not experienced aliens landing and assaulting them do not have the same feeling of reality about what you are telling them. If everyone else had experienced a similar event, with the attendant feeling of reality, the truth of that event would be accepted immediately.

In short, people believe what is "familiar," or what is part of a careful, long term program of familiarization of lies that become plausible simply because they are familiar.

When science first discovered that solid matter was mostly empty space, many people reacted to this truth - this unfamiliar fact of our reality - with outrage. Debates over the "solidity" of matter and "kicking rocks" raged for years. It took a very long time, and a lot of work to gradually make others aware of this truth in order to make this "implausible" fact part of our awareness.

Much of what we are reporting on this Website is implausible to many people. It is unfamiliar, for the most part, even though there is a lot of evidence presented to support it. We understand that and realize that any new concepts will have a feeling of implausibility to it until it becomes familiar enough to be accepted (assuming it is also checked and tested). Were a new conception of reality to be instantly familiar it would be of very limited value; it would have covered very little new ground. We have, however, presented a great deal of evidence that the material we are publishing has been available for a very long time to very small, very secret esoteric groups, and we are only now making it practically available to humanity at large.

Thousands of years ago the idea of civilization was promulgated by forces who claimed to be setting up a system so that people would "get what they deserved." Now, just think about that for a moment. Imagine that you are an evil being. You would realize that if you really set up a system where people got what they really deserved, you, yourself, would be instantly rejected - out the door in an instant. But if you are not just evil, but cunning also, you will do everything in your power to insure that you and your kind are in charge of setting up that system, and that you remain in charge of it. You would make certain that evil was blended into the social and cultural concepts so seamlessly that nobody would ever notice.

This is exactly what happened. The forces of the Matrix Control System were deeply involved in the formation of our cultural and social norms, including our legal system.

In the earliest days of this "legal system," there was a form of "justice" called trial by ordeal. An example of trial by ordeal was holding a red hot iron to a defendant's tongue. The plausible lie used to justify this behavior was: if the defendant was telling a lie they would have a dry mouth and would be burned by the iron - while a truthful person would have a moist mouth and would be protected. The implausible, unbelievable truth is that the people who thought that up simply enjoyed holding red hot pokers on peoples tongues! Our current legal system is descended from such minds - it is much more clever and simply not as obviously evil as that one was.

Suppose that you are on a team that is engaged in a game and you discover that:

- * The other team gets to make up the rules.
- * The referee plays for the other team.
- * One of the rules is that you are not allowed to score - the other team is at no risk - only you can be scored against. [Canup]

That is precisely how our social, cultural, and legal systems operate. The conditions of our world are designed to create the maximum chance that evil will prevail and the good people will be punished by being good and telling the truth.

Punishing good people involves more than just creating a social system that acts against them. The system is designed to insure that these good people are subjected to as much pain as possible for the simple fact of being good and honest. An obvious example of punishing the innocent may be found in the way the victim in a rape case is treated; their reputations are dragged through the dirt - all in the name of justice of course. A specific example of this is the action of Maynerd Most and Frank Scott regarding that extremely painful episode in my own past described elsewhere on the site here, using the threat of "exposure," and dragging my reputation through the dirt to force me to remove the Foundation Report about Most from the web. I refused to be blackmailed, I refused to be intimidated. And Lord! they have been determined to see us suffer! For weeks after that blackmail attempt, Most tried daily - sometimes 3, 4 or 5 times a day - to post horrible accusations on our public message board suggesting that I was somehow guilty of a crime because I did not go back to see if my attacker - the man who had nearly killed me - was "okay." And because we regularly deleted or blocked these posts, he claims that we do not tolerate "dissent" and are therefore a "cult." Never have I seen a more typical series of "plausible lies" put together by a psychopath who clearly had no conception of the emotion, the fear and terror and condition of being in extremis that any normal woman would experience under such circumstances. There was never a clearer example of the fact that the psychopath has no emotions, and therefore cannot imagine the emotions of those who do have them. He was, effectively, blaming me for resisting being raped and strangled. And millions of other women are treated similarly by the legal and social system in control of our world.

The system that controls our thinking is set up like the legal system. People are taught to assume that, in any conflict, one side is lying one way, and the other is lying the other, and people can just form opinions about which side is telling the truth. They are taught that the truth will lie somewhere between two extremes.

That is a wonderfully plausible lie.

Canup suggests that, to see the evil behind that plausible lie, we must make a different assumption: let us assume that in such cases, one side is innocent, honest, and tells the truth. It is obvious that lying does an innocent defendant no good; what lie can he tell? If he is innocent, the only lie he can tell is to falsely confess "I did it."

But lying is nothing but good for the liar. He can declare that "I didn't do it," and accuse another of doing it, all the while the innocent person is saying "I didn't do it," and is telling the truth.

The truth - when twisted by good liars, can always make an innocent person look bad - especially if he is honest and admits that he has faults. If someone is telling the simple truth, and the other side is lying through their teeth, the basic assumption that the truth lies between the testimony of the two sides always shifts the advantage to the lying side and away from the side telling the truth. Under most circumstances, this shift put together with the fact that the truth is going to also be twisted in such a way as to bring detriment to the innocent person, results in the advantage always resting in the hands of evil.

Canup points out that, even the simple act of giving testimony under oath is useless. If a person is a liar, swearing an oath means nothing to that person. However, swearing an oath acts strongly on a serious, truthful witness. Again, the advantage is placed on the side of the Dark Forces.

Proof is a familiar concept to those used to conventional logical thinking. However what passes for proof in cultural, social, and even legal terms often bears only a superficial resemblance to what would be considered proof by those who really use their minds to think.

For example: in formal mathematics, proof rules are established - postulates are set out and a structure is built based on the postulates and the theorem. Mathematical proof is pretty much inarguable: once a proof is accepted as true it is added to the pool of known truths.

In legal proof there is a set of rules and a theory which the prosecution presents, and attempts to prove by clever argument. Truth is not the objective. Getting other people to believe the theory IS the objective. However, the prosecution's theory is whatever the prosecutor believes that he can get away with based on what is known about the case, or what he can PREVENT from being known. What legal 'proof' does is serve as a structure for convincing a group of people of the guilt of a person, about whom they know nothing. What is more, there is a another significant difference: Mathematical proofs are judged by experts in the particular case who are free to study any and all information about the case. Legal 'proof' is judged by people who are guaranteed to be ignorant of the case, who are only allowed to study the information presented during the formal trial, and who are not even allowed to consult the texts for what the rules say. cf. [Canup]

Our culture is so permeated with this "legal argument" system, that it extends into our daily experience: the one who is the slickest at using the structure for convincing a group of people of something, is the one who is believed. Very few people take the time to obtain hard facts by carefully studying any and all information about a situation.

Once again we see something here that is set up to deceive people by presenting a familiar structure which, upon examination, is a sham. And again, the advantages fall to the hands of the Matrix Control System.

As Canup points out, in a courtroom, juries are prohibited by law from knowing anyone involved in the trial. If the defendant is a good person who is being set up and framed, people who know him well and who have had much opportunity to interact with him and observe him, would have much more trouble accepting lies told about him. If the jurors knew the prosecutor, and knew him to be a bullying liar, they might have trouble believing the lies he was telling. If the jurors knew the defendant, and know him to be a trouble making villain they might be more likely to convict him.

But, none of those conditions prevail in a courtroom. And these "rules" have permeated our society so that it is confidently proclaimed that we ought to listen to "both sides of the story," even if we know in advance that the presenter of one of those sides is a certified liar. Not only a liar, but a fraud who has repeatedly savaged other people's lives with his lies and fraud.

We do have the advantage that people who have known us for years have written statements on our behalf. They are certainly far more likely to know the "truth" about us than Maynerd Most who has met us exactly twice. What is more, there is also the fact that a journalist spent five years with us, interviewing our friends, family, clients, and examining personal materials, diaries, and so forth. Maynerd Most tries to tell a "plausible lie," by implying that, as a result of information that he, Maynerd Most, has conveyed to Tom, telling Tom that we are megalomaniacs trying to run a cult here, that Tom now has a "different opinion" of us. But, as it happens, what Tom really told him when Most called him to harangue him with lies and slander, was basically, if he wants Tom's opinion of us, read the article. He wrote what he thought there, and it hasn't changed. Tom wasn't born yesterday.

The very fact that Maynerd Most would call Tom and attempt to slander us says a lot about his agenda, by the way.

Nevertheless, by assiduously promoting the idea - common currency in our society - that his "side of the story" has merit, in the face of the testimony of people who have known us for years, Mr. Most is playing on the fact that people form opinions based on who is the slickest liar, and that people will be inclined to think that the truth is "somewhere in between." Those who aren't aware that Maynerd Most has a long, long history of lying (to give just one example: he lied to us that he had a registered publishing company, and he tried to trick us into signing a contract with a company that did not exist as stated in the contract; for evidence check Alvin Wiley's account of his interactions with Maynerd Most), are impressed with his clever rhetoric and smooth emotion laden words. He slyly promotes misunderstanding, and misunderstanding is almost always a plus for evil. Having to look the accused in the eye would make it more difficult to convict an innocent person, and easier to convict a guilty one. And that gives an added advantage to the Dark Forces on the Internet.

But, as Canups notes, the most difficult thing about our cultural, social, and legal system is the most carefully concealed part of it. Most people know someone who really needs to be incarcerated for life. They have caused so much pain and grief and trouble for other people that society would be much better off if they were simply locked away where they can never hurt anyone again. Maynerd Most is such a person, by all accounts. But, unless they break certain laws, or unless a person has a lot of money to pay slick lawyers, it is impossible to remove such people from destroying more people and more lives and causing more pain and more suffering. Here then we see the worst feature of the law: it is designed to make the world safe for evil people. In effect the law serves to take the horns away from the bulls, while leaving the lions their teeth and claws. Massive, overwhelming, advantage is placed in the hands of the Dark Forces. Indeed, without the legal system insuring their safety, the world would be a much more difficult place for evil people.

Some readers - such as Maynerd Most and his cult following will say "So what? If Most can get away with what he does, if people are stupid enough to believe him, they're just getting what they deserve." If this is your reaction, you have just identified yourself as evil. You see, one of the definitions of an evil person is: A person who is indifferent to truth and justice.

Maynerd Most and his gang bandy about that catchall phrase so cherished in academia: "I disagree, and I am entitled to disagree." They are, indeed, entitled to disagree. But generally we find that when they do so, it is not a matter of disagreement, it is a personal attack consisting of lies. Mr. Most "disagreements" generally amount to sophistry; argument for argument's sake, and represents nothing but a massive waste of time. In such cases, "I disagree" is a classic example of a plausible lie. It would occur to almost no one that a person using this phrase is attempting to present the appearance of wisdom when in fact none exists. It is a way for people to experience the illusion of power created by stopping someone else from doing something good. This illusion of power is the same one experienced by vandals who throw paint on an existing masterpiece: "See I'm a painter too".

For example: Mr. Most wrote recently regarding Frank Scott:

I am just glad that I am not the one who spent six years with her on a joint project only to be discredited and maligned after she had finished using me.

He completely ignores the evidence that Frank Scott left the group because he could not turn it into a moneymaking enterprise with himself as the beneficiary; because he could no longer manipulate and control me. He completely ignores the evidence that never was a single negative word written about Frank Scott and all the hassle that the entire group endured dealing with him for that same six years UNTIL he decided to aid and abet Mr. Michael Most in his blackmail attempt to force us to remove the Foundation report. And then, the two of them conspired to pirate the transcripts from a stolen CD - which Maynerd Most obtained from us by fraud and misrepresentation. Most ignores the fact - which he well knew - that we had left the door open for Frank to get over his attitude and return to the group right up to his acts of libel, defamation, and betrayal of trust. He completely ignores the testimony of people who have known us for years, who were present throughout the whole time, who say quite clearly that it was Frank Scott who was using me, it was Frank Scott who saw my work and effort and dedication as his ticket to wealth and glory, the same way he saw his former employer as someone to be used, deceived, and embezzled. Maynerd Most and others, who do not know us, continue to make these libelous and defamatory statements and claims against all the evidence and testimony. Again we see how they apply the rules:

* The other team gets to make up the rules.

* The referee plays for the other team.

* One of the rules is that you are not allowed to score - the other team is at no risk - only you can be scored against. [cf. Canup]

But what is even more amazing is the following remark by Maynerd Most:

I will say to you again, the transcripts would not exist without the other person on the planchette. Note that there are no credible transcripts since the other person's departure and there won't be.....ever.

Especially when you juxtapose it against his remarks just a week ago:

Keep in mind that 95% of the raw material in the transcripts is simply garbage, newage maundering and wish-fulfilment of the worst kind,

So, which is it? You can't have it both ways: Is Mr. Scott the great channel? Or is 95% of the material garbage? What's all the fuss over if Most and Frank Scott are convinced that 95% of the material is garbage? Why do they want to steal it? Why would Frank Scott even want to be associated with it? Where is the "credible material" produce by Frank Scott solo? Why aren't they just channeling like crazy and building a Website with all this wonderful new material that Frank Scott is supposedly capable of producing on his own?

There isn't any and there won't be any.
And they know it.

But Mr. Most was not done when he wrote that the C's material was 95 percent garbage. He then had to link it to:

For some time now I have had reservations about even defending myself against the deranged ranting of someone so obviously mentally ill. Laura is simply pathetic, and deserving of sympathy and even pity. [...] And so, as an anniversary present on the 32nd anniversary of Laura's unfortunate incarceration, I hereby declare the conflict over.

And we see the real viciousness of the man. But, that is how a plausible liar operates. And the fact is, he is a liar. And he is certainly desperate to discredit the material that will soon be published in the narrative of events being written in the Adventures Series because that is what so clearly exposes him for the liar and fraud he is. And the fact is, the C's were right again. They provided all the hints that Frank Scott was not what he claimed, and that Maynerd Most was not what he claimed to be. And when all was said and done, the C's information proved to be correct yet again. It's all in black and white. When we checked out his credentials, his bio, his educational claims and background, it was ALL a LIE! When he was tempted and baited to join in the attack against us, Frank Scott showed his true colors as well.

Can a liar stop lying? I don't know. I've never known it to be so.

Everyone knows, somewhere deep inside, that there is something not right about our world. In fact, at the present moment, it could hardly be worse. But most people spend their lives avoiding that fact at all cost. The brutal truth is that the our social, cultural, and legal systems are all about making people helpless then hammering without mercy - all the while involving everyone in the illusion that "right prevails." And the system programs us to believe that we ought not to defend ourselves. A plausible liar might claim that this is evidence that the one who does fight back is "good," but it is really to insure that the innocent person is not able to take any action. After all - he might object to what is being done to him and fight back.

And so it is that I hope that the readers will spend some considerable time examining the issues and that they will realize that all we are doing here is presenting the results of our combined life's work. And Maynerd Most and Frank Scott and others are clearly and definitely trying to destroy that, and us along with it. And they are liars - all of them - from the beginning; but plausible liars, agents of the Control System, the massive, global, multi-millennial deception that has been set up like a row of dominoes, to fall into place at the present period of history: the creation of the Fourth Reich by George Bush and the Warmongers aided and abetted by COINTELPRO both cosmic and third density as in the activities of most of the New Age Circus and via such agents as Maynerd Most et al.

Schwaller de Lubicz and the Fourth Reich part 3

The Cassiopaeans have emphasized the importance of Frequency Resonance Vibration. They have also indicated that the Self Serving Negative Hierarchy meddles with it by way of rituals, by way of "beliefs," by way of tampering with DNA via "abduction" processes, and so forth. They have indicated that the Service to Others alignment acts in accordance with the natural order of things.

Fulcanelli tells us over and over again that Plato was an initiate, and he drops clues everywhere that the "Egyptian" version - as it is promulgated - is not the true source of higher positive knowledge. The clues are given to us in Plato's writings that the Atlanteans were an "evil empire" that attempted to conquer the world, and were defeated by the "Athenians," giving rise to the archetypal legend of Perseus and Andromeda.

But, there is certainly a mysterious "gap" here that begs explanation. Let's have a look at what the C's have said about it:

08-22-98

Q: (L) In a previous session you said that the pyramid was built 10,643 years ago. That would be 8,649 BC. Is that a correct figure, or was there any corruption?

A: Yes. Correct.

Q: Then you talked about the pyramid as a focuser of energy to do 'all things' or many things. Later we asked about Stonehenge and you said that Stonehenge was built 6,000 BC by Druids, an early Aryan group, as an energy director to do 'all things.' This seems to be that both structures had similar design functions. Is that correct?

A: No. Stonehenge is a vector of energy derived from Solar and Cosmic rays. Pyramids focus electromagnetic energy from the atmosphere ambiently. Stonehenge was built 8,000 BC, by the way.

Q: If it was built in 8,000 BC, and the Pyramids were built 8,649 BC, which is 10,643 years ago, more or less, that means that they were built at almost the same time, or at least within 600 years of each other. If they were built at almost the same time, were they built by the same, or similar groups of people?

A: Atlantean descendants.

Q: Obviously the Great Pyramid is a marvel of engineering - and Stonehenge is as well - yet the two structures are so dissimilar. The Pyramid presents such a finished and sharp and elegant appearance, and Stonehenge might give a person - of course that is based on how it appears today - a more primitive presentation.

A: Was not originally.

Q: Did they work in conjunction with one another and were the two groups that built them in communication with one another?

A: No and yes.

Q: Was it two different groups? One with the Stonehenge business and one with the Pyramid business?

A: Offshoots of same group.

A: Were they antagonistic toward one another or were they friendly toward one another?

A: No, yes.

Q: If the flood of Noah, as you have said before, occurred 10,662 BC, that means that the Pyramid and Stonehenge were built more than 2,000 years after this event.

A: Yes.

Q: Did it take 2,000 years for them to develop or create the technology?

A: No.

Q: What were they doing in those 2,000 years?

A: Reassembling.

Q: In that 2,000 years of reassembling, do you mean reassembling as a group through reincarnative processes...

A: All.

Now, we face a dilemma here. There were obviously two approaches to reality being taken by these two groups. It is stated that they did not work in conjunction with one another, yet, we also see that they were not antagonistic toward one another, and they were in communication with one another. Further, the remark is made that they were "offshoots" of the same group: i. e. "Atlantean Descendants."

Regarding the idea of Atlantis, the C's have made a few most interesting remarks that can be clearly understood by observing our own civilization today:

Q: (L) Was the story of Noah's flood the story of the breaking up of Atlantis?

A: Yes. But symbolic.

Q: (L) How many people were on the planet at that time?

A: 6 billion.

Q: (L) Out of this six billion people, how many survived?

A: 119 million. (or 19 million)

[I am not sure of this figure.

The early tapes were destroyed, and the notes have the number both ways with a couple of cross-outs.]

10-09-94

Q: (L) Can you tell us more about the six billion people on the planet at the time of Noah's flood. Where were most of these beings living?

A: Atlantis.

Q: Okay. I would like to know what the geographic coordinates, according to our current grid system, that would frame Atlantis. I don't need the exact shape, just a general box shape... the perimeter...

A: Like asking: "What are the geographic coordinates of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization?"

Q: Okay, let me get more specific: the Atlantean land that was supposed to have existed in the Atlantic Ocean... what was the farthest north of any any part of Atlantis that was in the ocean, that no longer exists?

A: It is "time for you" to know that Atlantis was not a nation, land, Island, or continent, but rather, a civilization!

Q: All I wanted was to have an idea of a land mass in the Atlantic ocean that people talk about - where did it sit?

A: Where do you think?

Q: Well, I sort of think that the Azores and the Canary Islands are sort of...

A: Yes, but many other places too. Remember, the sea level was several hundred feet lower then...

Q: Why was the sea level several hundred feet lower? Because there was ice somewhere or because there was not as much water on the earth at that time?

A: Ice.

Q: Was the ice piled up at the poles? The ice sheet of the ice age?

A: Yes.

Q: So, Atlantis existed during the ice age?

A: Largely, yes. And the world's climate was scarcely any colder away from the ice sheets than it is today.

Q: Well, how could that be? What caused these glaciers?

A: Global warming.

Q: How does global warming cause glaciers?

A: Increases precipitation dramatically. Then moves the belt of great precipitation much farther north. This causes rapid buildup of ice sheets, followed by increasingly rapid and intense glacial rebound.

As an aside, regarding "glacial rebound," the C's have also commented:

A: [...] One change to occur in 21st Century is sudden glacial rebound, over Eurasia first, then North America. Ice ages develop much, much, much faster than thought.

But, getting back to Atlantis, the global civilization that must have been similar in many ways to our own. Notice that the C's made a specific comparison to NATO, or a "World Government" sort of thing. The deeper implications of this remark suggest that a certain "group" conceives of such an organization, and "sells" it to other countries, and then it is used as a platform to institute global economic control. And that is exactly what is happening today, and it began with NATO and, as we showed in our analysis of Game Theory, it is the platform upon which the New World Order, based on Egyptian Synarchy and the work of Schwaller de Lubicz is intended to be based.

In other words, the North and South American continents could very well be the "island of Atlantis." And all of the evidence we have collected about the prior destruction of North America, including the evidence of nuclear fission in the Great Lakes region, the vast copper mines of Isle Royale, evidence that Tiahuanaco used to be a seaport and the astronomical evidence that the ancient cities of South America were built at least 15,000 years ago, point to the America's being Atlantis itself.

Q: What group mined the copper in northern Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan, like in Isle Royale?

A: Aryans.

Q: What did they want the copper for?

A: Weapons.

Q: Wouldn't iron make better weapons?

A: Not in 4th density.

Q: I'm getting the feeling that there have been bleed-in, bleed-out situations with 4th density on this planet a lot more often than we suspect.

A: Yes.

Q: Are these situations sometimes manufactured by those who know how?

A: Close.

Q: Do they just happen to know where those window points are?

A: Yes.

Q: Is it significant that Rock Lake is on the same longitude line as Tikal?

A: Yes.

In all the Celtic folklore when they talk about 'fairies,' which are obviously other density beings very similar to our modern 'Gray alien,' these fairy/aliens insist that no iron come near them in any way. It was also said that bringing iron into contact with someone thought to be a 'changeling' would prove whether or not they were because if they were, they would disappear instantly. Also, the instructions for the building of the Temple of Solomon included restrictions on the use of iron in either the preparation of the materials or the putting together of the building itself, even down to the rejection of the use of iron nails in any part.

J.M. Allen in his new book "Atlantis: The Andes solution" attempts to show that the Altiplano area in Bolivia is really part of the continent that held the city of Atlantis. He makes another connection by pointing out that ATL is the Nahuatl word for water and ANTIS is the Quechua word for copper. And so, by his reasoning, ATL-ANTIS must be a word from South America meaning Copper-Water.

This issue of needing "4th density weapons" made of copper, combined with Allen's idea above leads to another interesting comment made by the C's:

10-20-94

Q: Who built the city of Mohenjo-Daro?

A: Lizards directly.

Coatzimundi legend ties in to this directly. Look at illustrations on stones now.

Q: Who is Coatzimundi?

A: Other deity of the Lizards worshipped by the Atlanteans and their descendants because of the direct contact with humans for 1000 years.

10-22-94

Q: (L) Did any aliens at all, and specifically the Lizzies, ever live among mankind and receive worship?

A: They did not live among mankind, but they did interact directly with human beings, at various points in the past. It was at those points when human beings were ready, willing and able to accept deities appearing directly from outside sources and then worship them. Such things would not have occurred in the recent past. But, beware, it may very well occur very soon. [...]

Q: (L) Who built the city of Angkor Wat?

A: That was built by the Lizard Beings themselves. Built approximately 3108 years ago.

Q: (L) Who built the city of Mohenjo Daro?

A: That also was built by the Lizard Beings directly.

Q: (L) Did they live in these cities?

A: No, as stated before, they did not live there, they visited or occupied on a temporary basis, but did not live there.

Q: (L) Who did they build the cities for?

A: They built the cities for themselves and their worshippers amongst humans.

08-22-98

Q: We watched this television show the other night which talked about the city of Angkor Wat and its orientation to Draco 10,500 BC. You said that Angkor Wat was built 3108 years ago by the Lizzies themselves, and that the city of Mohenjo Daro was also built by the Lizzies 3065 years ago, which is within 30 or 40 years of the same time period. Do you still confirm that the Lizzies themselves built these cities?

A: Reptilian Beings.

Q: And they did this themselves?

A: Yes.

Q: What happened to the inhabitants of these cities?

A: Taken to another planet.

Q: Why was this city built in orientation to the constellation Draco?

A: Was not, was a record: see the texts of Kaballah for details after linkage is established.

Q: After what linkage is established?

A: Between the astronomical data and the sites.

11-16-94

Q: (L) You said that the Lizzies lived among humans for a thousand years. When, in our illusion of time, did this occur?

A: During peak of Atlantis.

Q: (L) And how long was the Atlantean civilization in existence?

A: 70,000 years

08-29-98

Q: It also says here that on this pyramid, at the time of the Spring and Autumn equinoxes, combined patterns of light and dark combine to create the illusion of a giant serpent undulating on the northern staircase. On each occasion the illusion lasts for 3 hours and 22 minutes exactly. What was this optical illusion created to convey?

A: Worship of serpentine deity.

Q: Was it created to convey or produce any other effect other than worship?

A: The key is in the reading of the geometric cycle.

Q: On page 80, the book talks about these statues at Tiahuanaco on Lake Titicaca. It says:

'Carved in red sandstone, worn and ancient beyond reckoning, the statue stands about 6 feet high and portrays a humanoid, androgynous being with massive eyes and lips. In it's right hand it clutches something resembling a knife with a wavy blade like an Indonesian kris. In it's left hand is an object like a hinged and case-bound book. From the top of this book, however, protruded a device which had been inserted into it as though into a sheath. From the waist down, the figure seemed to be clad in a garment of fish scales.'

Okay, there is another statue with an object in it's left hand that is like a case bound book, but from it protruded a forked handle. The right hand object was roughly cylindrical, narrow in the center and bigger at each end. It appeared to have several different parts. I would like to know what these objects, or devices, carved into these ancient statues represented?

A: Conductor.

Q: What did these conductors conduct? Were these the sound machines that you have described previously?

A: No.

Q: What did they conduct?

A: Quartzine energy from atmospheric source.

Q: What was this energy used for?

A: All.

Q: Well you have described a lot of things that did all kinds of things... the pyramid, Stonehenge...

A: When one harnesses free energy, no limitations need apply.

Q: Why were these beings depicted with these fish-like garments?

A: Reptoids have that genetic profile to varying degrees.

Q: According to the Sumerian traditions, this was like the god Oannes. In the night time, he would plunge back into the sea, but in the daytime he would converse with men, giving them insight into letters and sciences and every kind of art. But, it was noted that he was never observed to eat. It says that he taught men how to construct houses, temples, to compile laws, and explained to them the principles of geometric knowledge. He made them distinguish the seeds of the earth and made them gather fruits. In short, he instructed them in everything that would tend to soften manners and humanize mankind. From that time, so universal were his instructions, that nothing has been added materially in the way of improvement. The surviving images of Oannes on Babylonian and Assyrian reliefs clearly portray him as a fish man. Is this another similar profile?

A: "El legato."

Q: Was this Oannes fish man similar to the Quinotaur that was supposedly the half-father of the Merovingian royal line?

A: Only if one considers losses in the translative quarry.

08-28-99

Q: I have this book, this

Marcia Schafer thing:

"Confessions of an Intergalactic Anthropologist," and its a bunch of channelled stuff; one thing she says: "the snake is associated with the sign of wisdom and higher learning, and is often regarded quite highly in mystical circles." She had an interaction with a rattlesnake, for which she felt sympathy, and she also has sympathetic interactions with Lizzies. I would like to have a comment on the idea of the snake as a "sign of wisdom and higher learning." Does this, in fact, represent what the snake symbolizes?

A: Snake is/was reported in context of the viewpoint of the observer.

Q: Are you saying that when the observer's viewpoint is that the snake is a symbol of higher learning, maybe...

A: Maybe the observer was just "blown away" by the experience.

Q: Clarify, please.

A: If you were living in the desert, or jungle, about 7,000 years ago, as you measure time, would you not be impressed if these Reptoid "dudes" came down from the heavens in silvery objects and demonstrated techno-wonders from thousands of years in the future, and taught you calculus, geometry and astrophysics to boot?!?

Q: Is that, in fact, what happened?

A: Yup.

Q: (L) Who created the Lizzies?

A: Ormethion.

Q: (L) And who is this individual?

A: Thought center.

Q: (L) Located where?

A: Everywhere.

Q: (L) Can you give us a little more of a clue?

A: Another sector of reality.

Q: (L) Is this a sentient, self-aware being that created the Lizzies?

A: Yes and no.[...]

Q: (L) And who created this Ormethion?

A: Not being; thought center.

Q: Is Ormethion who the Lizzies worship?

A: Close.

Q: Who do they worship?
What do they call their god?

A: Physical universe.

Q: The physical universe is their god?

A: Yes.

11-07-94

Q: (L) What are the implications of the fact that the Lizzies worship the physical universe?

A: Self service.

Q: (L) What do they see in the physical universe that they feel is superior to the spiritual universe?

A: All who serve self yearn for physicality.

Q: (L) These bodies they are creating for themselves, are they creating some kind of super physical beings they can then move into and occupy which will have very advanced abilities that would enable them to serve self better, longer or more completely?

A: Yes.

The link between South America, Mohenjo Daro in the Indus Valley, and Egypt and Judaism/Kaballah will be more important further along, so keep it in mind.

Plato makes a somewhat confusing remark about Atlantis:

"At the centre of the island, near the sea, was a plain, said to be the most beautiful and fertile of all plains, and near the middle of this plain about fifty stades inland a hill of no great size," (Critias. 113b)

This description basically says that the city of Atlantis was both in the middle of the island, as well as being near the sea. But, this problem disappears when we think that Plato was an initiate and was speaking in code about a literal, global civilization. The ancients often referred to a nation by its "chief city." In the upcoming excerpt, the C's make the comment that "Atlantis was merely a home base of an advanced civilisation of 3 races of humans occupying different sections of a huge Island empire, which, in itself, underwent 3 incarnations over a 100,000 year period as you would measure it. [...] [The Celts] took over the Northern section. "

Now, "different sections" of a "huge island empire," put together with the idea that this "empire" was global, leaves the possibility open for all of the America's to be part of this empire, and for North America to be the "northern section" that was almost utterly destroyed in a cataclysm. When we consider such things as the badlands, the grand canyon, the Carolina bays, the nuclear evidence of the Great Lakes region, we come to the idea that something truly dreadful happened to North America and that it may have been a combination of war and cometary bombardment. There is also evidence that there was a massive shift of the earth crust raising the western coast of South America, and a similar raising of the Western part of North America could have been involved in that scenario. In short, much of what is Western America could have formerly been under the Pacific. And the raising of this Western portion most definitely could have sunk the Eastern seaboard of North America as the evidence of the Bimini wall, and other remains suggest.

In short, such a scenario would fit Plato's description of the destruction of Atlantis in a "single day and night."

What is more interesting, however, is the hyperdimensional manipulations that occur during such cataclysmic upheavals. We can even think of this as the moving of the "playing pieces" in the Secret Games of the Gods.

Q: (L) When the Aryans were brought here, were they brought to Atlantis?

A: No. The Aryans were different from the Atlanteans.

Q: (L) Who constructed the great serpent mound in Adams County, Ohio?

A: Armonan sect.

Q: (T) Who are the Armonans?

A: Atlantean descendants.

Q: (T) So, this was a long time ago? (L) Is there anything about them we would be advised to know or learn?

A: "Puzzle pieces."

Q: (L) What period of time did they live in this area, from when to when?

A: See answers to Sumerian question.

Q: (L) Well, my opinion to this whole thing is that the Sumerians and the Armonans were Atlanteans who set up shop in their respective places when Atlantis went under.

A: Good, now go with that.

Q: (L) I would say that the same answer holds for the White Horse at Uffington, in England?

A: Yup.

05-31-97

Q: In the information I now have on the Canaries, I found that a strange icon appeared on the island long before the conquest, long before any missionaries or Europeans arrived. The natives were the big, blond types. They said that they knew this icon was divine because following its appearance, there were processions of angels, or divine beings, up and down the beach where it appeared, lights, smells, chanting and singing and so forth. How did the statue of the Virgin of Candelaria arrive on the beach at Tenerife?

A: Teleportation.

Q: Who teleported it there?

A: The "Celts."

Q: Celts in the sense of the Druids?

A: Or in the sense of Atlanteans.

Q: Now, you said before that Atlanteans were not Celts, is that correct?

A: No.

Q: The Atlanteans were Celts?

A: "Celts, Druids," etc... are merely latter day designations.

Q: Let's back up here. You said that the Celts came from Kantek. They were transported by the Lizzies... brought here, correct?

[Kantek: the fifth planet of the solar system that was destroyed and is now the asteroid belt.]

A: Yes.

Q: When the Lizzies did this, how many Celts were physically brought here?

A: Hundreds of millions.

Q: How long, in our terms, did it take to bring these Celts to this planet? Or, is this ongoing?

A: Well, in the sense that you measure it, let us say about a week.

Q: Did they transport them in ships, that is some sort of structure. That is, did they load them up, move them into 4th density, reemerge here in 3rd density, or something like that?

A: Close.

Q: And they unloaded them in the area of the Caucasus, is that correct?

A: And regions surrounding.

Q: And, that was what, 79 to 80 thousand years ago?

A: Over 80,000.

Q: As I understand it, Atlantis was already quite a developed civilization at that time, is that correct?

A: Yes, but regions change with waves of immigration, or conquest... witness your own lands.

Q: You also said once that there was a nuclear war in India and that this was what was being discussed in the Vedas when it talks about the 'blue-skinned' people who weren't really blue because they were Celts, and they were flying in aircraft, and they were engaged in this war, etc. Who were the Celts at war with?

A: The Paranthas.

Q: Now, wait a minute! Who are the Paranthas?! Do we have a new player here?

A: Not new.

Q: Do we know them by another name?

A: Choose.

Q: The Atlanteans? Were the Celts of India at war with the Atlanteans in the Atlantic?

A: Atlantis was merely a home base of an advanced civilisation of 3 races of humans occupying different sections of a huge Island empire, which, in itself, underwent 3 incarnations over a 100,000 year period as you would measure it.

Q: The 3 races were the Celts... and who were the second and third?

A: Or Kantekkians.

Q: Are the Kantekkians different from the Celts?

A: Only in the sense of long term racial and genetic blending.

Q: So, Atlantis had the Kantekkians and who else?

A: Race you would call "Native Americans," and a third, no longer existing race, somewhat resembling Australian or Guinean aborigines, only lighter in complexion.

Q: Was this third group destroyed by the other two?

A: One of the 3 cataclysms.

Q: So, the Paranthas were the antecedents of the Abos of Australia?

A: Yes, and compare to now existing peoples of India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Australia, and New Guinea for similarities, bearing in mind genetic mixing and dilution.

Q: Were the Vedas written by the Paranthas or written by the Celts?

A: Descendants of Parantha, as per "Divine guidance."

Q: [...] We have taken care of a couple of points; we have 3 races on Atlantis, Celts all over the place... did the Celts conquer the Atlanteans?

A: No.

Q: Did they just move in and hang out?

A: They took over the Northern section.

Q: At the same time, there were Celts in the Caucasus, along the Baltic, in Ireland, England and Europe...

A: Ireland, England, etc. was later.

Q: But there were in the Norse lands, as Sweden, Norway and Denmark, they were along the Baltic, and they were in the Caucasus?

A: Some above mentioned areas were ice covered.

Tracing human beings, their cultures and trying to figure out who is really on first, is difficult at best. This is especially true when trying to correlate the legends and myths to the archeological facts. When different cultures mix so do their genes. Mitochondrial DNA is inherited only from your mother. The "Eve Hypothesis" that has been widely promulgated is somewhat misleading because very few popular discussions of this idea reveal that the results of the DNA investigations showed two "origins" for humanity, Asia and Africa. In other words, a more or less North/South division. One method of assessing relationships between cultures is their blood group, but it may not be very accurate because blood type is not determined by Mitochondrial DNA, but by nuclear DNA. The conquering of a tribe by another, the killing of all the males and the subsequent mating with all the females, can very quickly produce a dominant "type" that may not accurately reflect the actual cultural tracks.

The AB group is almost non-existent in apes, and O is minimal! Chimpanzees are mainly group A (never B), and Gorillas are mainly group B (never A). Similarly, the early Europeans had a high % of group A, whilst the Asiatic races had a high % of B. So the idea has been proposed that chimpanzees developed into Cro-Magnon man then Europeans, whilst Gorillas developed into the larger brained Neanderthals then into the Asians. To account for group O there must have been a third group of proto-humans who were O. Type O occurs only as a recessive gene. Both parents must have at least one copy of the gene to produce a child who is type O.

Most blood groupings are generally split evenly. However, there are some pure groupings. For group O the Bororo, Mayans and Incas are all virtually 100% group O. Further north, the Navajos are 73% group O. Still further north, the Blackfoot indians are 82% group A. Group AB, which is rare, includes the Peking Chinese, Korean, Japanese at about 10-18%. Poles, Czechs and Hungarian Gypsies are run at about 9-10% of the AB group. Interestingly, Tartars and Hindus show also strong AB.

It has been noted that some disease causing organisms have the same proteins on their surface as some of the blood types leading to the idea that some blood groups are more susceptible than others to certain diseases. This leads to the idea that populations can be deliberately manipulated by introducing epidemics that "favor" certain blood groups. This may be the reason for the unusual "purity" of blood groups in certain populations. Those who carried the "wrong" type were eliminated by viral or bacterial population control methods. The C's have, in fact, mentioned just such a possibility:

08-09-97

A: You should know that these bloodlines become parasitically infected, harrassed and tinkered with whenever a quantum leap of awareness is imminent. Such as "now."

Claims have been made that the O blood group is the blood of royalty (blue blood), that stems from an Atlantean heritage. The races that possess this blood races (called the Red races) are races of the Americas; of the Canary Islands; Basques, Scandinavians, Celts, as well as certain Polynesian and Indonesian peoples. However, this could be altogether misleading due to the "conquering" factor, as well as the "parasitic" factor of population manipulation. One thing that seems clear is that there is serious "manipulation" of populations going on, and it is quite easy to imagine that the type O prevalence is a result of the introduction of the Kantekkians, a group described as being closer to the Orion genetic heritage, the tall, blond, nordic types, which can be either strongly polarized positively or negatively. In other words, the type O blood group may not be the "Lizard genetics" that has been proposed by some of the wilder theories making the rounds, though it may indeed be the blood group of individuals possessing very strong genetic potential for good OR evil as the following excerpts indicate:

Q: (L) Who are the Nordic type aliens?

A: Your ancestors.

Q: (L) What planet did they come from?

A: Several and transitory.

03-04-95

A: We are providing invaluable information which becomes knowledge, but you are under attack, therefore, you could maybe use some direct power from the same density as the attack is coming from.

Q: (F) But, until you have total knowledge... (L) You don't have the kind of power we are talking about needing.

(F) Right. We would need 500,000 pages of transcript to have that kind of knowledge, to get to that point. (L) Okay, what is the phone number of the Orion Federation? (S) Laura! (T) That's what I was going to ask. [Laughter.] (L) How do we get ahold of them?

A: Off the hook!

Q: (T) Uh oh! (L) They're busy? (T) Getting a lot of calls. (L) Okay, guys, what do we need to do here?

A: Find a "Nordic." They are on Earth posing as humans.

Q: (T) They are 4th density. I thought they...

A: Yes.

Q: (T) I thought that 4th density couldn't hold the frequency that long and that is why the Lizards have so much trouble. (J) They're STS.

A: Not STO!

09-24-95

Q: (L) Are the Orion STS the infamous red-headed Nordic aliens?

A: Yes, and all other humanoid combinations.

Q: (L) Okay, if it started with the Nordic types, and that is where the other humanoid combinations came from, what genetic combinations were used for human beings? Black people, for instance, since they are so unlike "Nordics?"

A: The Nordic genes were mixed with the gene pool already available on Earth, known as Neanderthal.

Q: (L) What was the genetic combination used to obtain the Oriental races?

A: Orientals come from a region known in your legends as "Lemuria," and are a previous hybridization from 7 genetic code structures from within Orion Union, designed to best fit the earth climate and cosmic ray environment then existent on earth.

Q: (L) Okay, what about the Semitic and Mediterranean peoples?

A: Each time a new flock was "planted," it was engineered to be best suited to the environment where it was planted. Aryans are the only exception, as they had to be moved to earth in an emergency.

Q: (L) If races are engineered on earth to be "best suited," what factors are being drawn from or considered regarding the Semitic race?

A: They are not engineered on earth, but in Orion lab as all others. They were "Planted" in the Middle East.

Q: (L) What genetic type were the Atlanteans?

A: They were the same as the "Native Americans."

Q: (L) This book describes the Nordic aliens as having blood with a different chemical base than ours...

A: This is trivial disinformation, "Nordic" Physiology is identical to yours, with the exception being their cranium, which averages 3 per cent larger.

03-23-96

A: The Nordic Covenant was a duality. [...] All persons of Nordic heritage hold secret power centers, can be of darkness, or of light...

08-15-98

Q: (L) Okay, now: I would like to know if there was a real historic person behind the legend of King Arthur?

A: Close. Sorcerer's Coven. Secret pact of coven is covenant.

Q: (L) Was this the Nordic Covenant behind the legend of King Arthur?

A: Not really.

Q: (L) I think that implies that there might be a connection?

A: Maybe there is something more like an offshoot.

Q: (L) The Nordic Covenant is an offshoot of the Arthurian Covenant or vice versa?

A: King Arthur story based on an offshoot of Nordic Covenant Root.

Q: (L) Okay, now you say that the Nordic Covenant can be positive or negative. Would the Arthurian Cycle be of the Positive Offshoot?

A: Both.

12-26-98

Q: Is the Nordic Covenant in any sense similar to any of the things I have read here?

A: It is a mystical thing, not related to theology in a direct sense.

Q: How long has the Nordic Covenant been in existence?

A: 5129 years.

Diverting from this session momentarily, we note that 3131 BC is very close to 3100 B.C, a time of some sort of global disruption recorded in ice cores and tree rings. The fact is, there was some sort of discontinuity of many ancient cultures which occurred at this period: 3100 B.C. It is also the time estimated for the unification of Egypt and the beginning of the reign of Narmer/Menes. This leads us to another interesting series of questions:

03-07-95

Q: (L) Who were the Elohim of the Bible?

A: Transdefinitive. And variable entities. [...] First manifestation was human, then non-human. [...]

Q: (L) Well, what brought about their transformation from huma to non-human?

A: Pact or covenant.

Q: (L) They made a pact or covenant with each other?

A: No, with 4th density STS.

Q: (L) Well, that is not good!

Are you saying that the Elohim are STS? Who were these STS beings they made a pact with?

A: Rosteem, now manifests as Rosicrucians.

Q: (L) What is their purpose?

A: As yet unrevealable to you.

Was Narmer part of this "Nordic Covenant?" How does the name "Rostau," the ancient designation for Giza, relate to the Rose-Cross, or the Rosicrucians?

10-04-97

Q: In reading the transcripts, I came across a reference to a 'pact' made by a group of STS individuals, and it was called 'Rosteem,' and that this was the origin of the Rosicrucians. In the book 'The Orion Mystery,' it talks about the fact that Giza was formerly known as RosTau, which is 'Rose Cross.' Essentially, I would like to understand the symbology of the Rose affixed to the Cross. It seems to me that the imagery of Jesus nailed to the Cross is actually the Rose affixed to the Cross. How does Jesus relate to the Rose?

A: No, it is from the Rose arose the Cross. [...]

Q: What does the cross symbolize?

A: The symbology is not the issue. It is the effect.

Q: What is the effect of the cross?

A: All that has followed it.

And this leads us to that most interesting character, promoted assiduously since the end of the dark ages, as the "father of alchemy," Hermes the Thrice Great:

Q: (L) Who was Hermes Trismegistus?

A: Traitor to court of Pharaoh Rana.

Q: (L) Who is Pharaoh Rana?

A: Egyptian leader of spiritual covenant.

Q: (L) In what way was Hermes a traitor?

A: Broke covenant of spiritual unity of all peoples in area now known as Middle East.

Q: (L) Who did Hermes betray?

A: Himself; was power hungry.

Q: (L) What acts did he do?

A: Broke covenant; he inspired divisions within ranks of Egyptians, Essenes, Aryans, and Persians et cetera.

Q: (L) What was his purpose in doing this?

A: Divide and conquer as inspired by those referred to as Brotherhood in Bramley book you have read.

Q: (L) Is this the Brotherhood of the snake Hermes formed in rejection of unity?

A: Hermes did not form it; it was long since in existence.

Q: (L) Who was the originator of the Brotherhood of the Serpent as described in the Bramley book?

A: Lizard Beings.

10-25-94

Q: (L) I would like to know the approximate year of the life of Hermes Trismegistus.

A: 5211 [years ago] approx.

And that brings us right back into the ballpark with the time of Narmer's "Unification" of Egypt and the formation of the "Elohim Covenant." The question is, how does this relate to the Nordic Covenant? Back to the 12-26-98 session we interrupted:

Q: Is the Nordic Covenant made between humans and other humans, or between humans and higher density beings?

A: Mostly between humans and humans, but some of the other.

Q: Does this Nordic Covenant exist on the earth today in similar format as it did at its inception?

A: Yes.

Q: Is this Nordic Covenant the same as you have referred to as the Quorum?

A: No.

Q: Would you say that the Nordic Covenant and the Quorum are in opposition, or just different?

A: Segmented relationship.

Q: Is there any particular thing about this that I ought to ask at the moment that I am not going to discover in the course of my research? The mail group asked a few questions about this, so I thought I ought to approach the subject. Is the Nordic Covenant made between people who are blond and blue-eyed?

A: Not the central issue.

Q: What is the central issue of the Nordic Covenant?

A: Bloodline extends off the planet.

Q: Is this Nordic Covenant a group that is in place on the planet for the purpose of guarding or propagating a particular bloodline?

A: To guard secrets.

Q: What does this secret have to do with a bloodline?

A: You should be able to figure this one out!

Q: Are these people with this bloodline and with these secrets the same ones involved with the genetic engineering of new bodies for the Lizzies to occupy at the point of transition to 4th density?

A: No.

Q: Are these secrets negative to our civilization or race?

A: From your perspective, maybe.

Q: Do these bloodlines have to do with Nephilim?

A: A little.

Q: What secrets are they guarding?

A: Your origins; the nature of your being.

Q: So, this Nordic Covenant is that which wishes to maintain the darkness of our realm, the time loops, the replays, and all that sort of thing?

A: One of the players, yes.

Q: You also said that the Nordic Covenant was a duality, that it could be positive or negative.

01-02-99

Q: Well, let me get to some of these other questions.

Previously you said that the central thing about the Nordic Covenant was that there were bloodlines that extend off the planet. From what I understand, all humans on the planet have bloodlines that extend off the planet. In what sense did you mean this about the Nordic Covenant; that the bloodlines extend off the planet?

A: Not all so recent, not all so "pure."

Q: In the sense of recent, how recent do you mean?

A: Speculate, using your transcripts.

02-19-00

Q: What was the connection between the Hyperboreans, including the Celts of Britain, I believe, and the people of Delos?

A: Northern peoples were responsible for civilising the Mediterranean/Adriatic peoples with the encoded secrets contained within their superior extra-terrestrially based genetic arrangement. Practice of which you speak was multi-trans-generational habit.

Q: Is it the case that some of them communicated with higher density beings via Stonehenge, and that these communications they received...

A: Stonehenge used to resonate with tonal rill, teaching the other wise unteachable with wisdoms entered psychically through crown chakra transceiving system.

04-08-00

Q: Now, I have this book entitled "Arktos." He says something here that echoes a remark you once made. He says:

"It is a very remarkable thing that enlightenment seems to have come from the North against the common prejudice that the Earth was enlightened as it was populated from South to North. The Scythians are one of the most ancient nations;

the Chinese descend from them. The Atlanteans themselves, more ancient than the Egyptians, descend from them."

You said that the civilizing influence came from the North to the South. Of course, all the standard texts claim that civilization came from South to North, starting in Mesopotamia. Now, getting...

A: Okay, just a minute here.
Thinking Mesopotamia is the beginning is like thinking that the beginning starts at the 12th chapter.

Q: I know that! The problem is: finding artifacts. I've been searching and digging, and I find a little bit here and there, but my God! Either nothing survived...

A: Artifacts have a limited shelf life!

Q: Exactly! The problem is that they've got specimens of humanoid types from 100 to 200 thousand years ago, and even further, but no specimens of modern man that are that old. Why is this so? Are they just looking in the wrong places?

A: Specimens survive by sheer luck.

Q: So, they are lucky that they have any specimens at all. Who knows, when they find a very ancient specimen of a modern type human, they won't believe it - it will be called an "anomaly!" There ARE artifacts that are EXTREMELY ancient, which give evidence of the presence of modern type man, and they just simply argue themselves to death over them.

A: Yes.

Q: They ignore them. But, during the time Neanderthal man was on the Earth, did he live alongside Modern man?

A: Yes. Except modern type man was different then.

Q: In what ways?

A: DNA and psycho/electrical frequencies.

Q: Does this mean that their physical appearance was different from what we consider to be modern man?

A: Radiance.

Q: What do you mean "radiance?"

A: You find out!

Q: Oh, that's interesting. Well, there are legends that the Northern people had "light" in their veins. Very ancient belief. Is this what you are referring to?

A: Maybe.

Q: Was this light related to the hemoglobin level, the iron level in the blood?

A: Maybe.

Q: Did they have a much higher iron level in their blood?

A: Possibly....

Q: Okay, part of the ancient legend of Arktos was that, in very ancient times the Earth was different because it had a vertical axial orientation. This contributed to the golden age or the Edenic condition. Is this, in fact, one of the conditions that existed in the Golden Age?

A: Well, yes, but still some puzzle pieces needed.

Q: I noticed also that there are several ball-park type figures given for the precessional cycles.

Apparently there is not a whole lot of agreement as to how long this cycle is, exactly. I notice that, if you divide 309,882 years by 12, you come out right in the ball park of 12 precessional cycles. Is this the reason that the zodiac was set up with twelve signs or houses?

A: Related, yes.

Q: Now, since all the recent conjecture about the precessional cycle has really gone all over the place, it is my thought that the real reason for the ancient clues about this cycle are to inform us that the length of 12 of these cycles is a GRAND Cycle, and that THIS is the big clue.

A: Needs some study by you.

Q: One of the interesting things about this Northern civilizational factor is that one of the hallmarks of the Aryan attitude is the Male dominated religion. When did the masculine religion "take over?" Was this always the tendency or leaning of the Aryan group?

A: Involves more than religion. Religion is the facilitator.

Q: Facilitator of what?

A: Customary psycho/social habitue.

Q: Customary to whom?

A: Those whom you refer to as Aryans.

Q: Where did they acquire the "habit" of a masculine oriented religion? Everybody else was worshipping the goddess in one form or another. But this male dominated theology was the distinguishing characteristic of the Northern peoples. Where did they come up with this.

A: Originated on home planet.

Q: Kantek?

A: For all intents and purposes.

Q: Was it this male dominated religion that contributed to the destruction of Kantek?

A: No.

Q: Okay, when they were on their home planet, why did they develop a masculine religion as opposed to a feminine one, considering the fact that women are the source of life, in certain terms?

A: In your density, masculinism/feminism is essentially a roll of "the dice." Remember, at higher levels gender is nonexistent.

Q: Well, the problem I am having here is this: the masculine religion is monotheistic, essentially.

A: In your references.

Q: Was the older masculine religion polytheistic?

A: Going off the track. [Which suggests that being "on track" would be to go in the direction that a "masculine" religion could worship a goddess.]

Q: The Aryans always thought they were better than everybody else...

A: They were more advanced than the company they found themselves amongst.

Q: But then, as far as I can tell, the Hebrew monotheism is also derived from the Aryan, monotheistic, male dominated religion. It then "fathered" Christianity, and that has been the whole patriarchal, kill-em-all and let God sort-em-out war mongering thing under which we have lived for over 2000 years. This is the Western, European mind... it came from the Aryans, from the North; it was the so-called "civilizing" influence in nearly every respect that you can track. The cohesiveness and dominance of this type of thinking was able to civilize, but then civilization involves dominance, killing, war, territory, the Hitler scene, the whole nine yards. All of this is antithetical to all that you promote as far as being desirable. Yet, you have said that you were in contact with the Northern Peoples for millennia. Yes, Cassiopeia is a Northern Constellation, and probably figured in the early myths of these peoples in ways we cannot know, but the whole thing is that they represent all that is STS.

A: But so do you, so then why did we contact you?

Q: Well. I don't buy into that whole monotheistic, dominator, war-mongering, make everybody conform to one way of thinking head trip!

A: So, you think all individuals conformed then, or is it the soul that counts in the final analysis?

Q: Okay, obviously all individuals are different, and some did not conform then, either.

A: And neither do you.

Q: Point taken. I am just having a hard time with this. I wish you would just tell me! Who interacted with these Aryans to give them this male-dominated, monotheistic idea that they then sought to impose on every other human being on the planet - and are STILL trying!

A: Interactions were transdensity.

Now, getting back to Atlantis: we note that the C's have said that "Atlantis was merely a home base of an advanced civilisation of 3 races of humans occupying different sections of a huge Island empire." And here we come to the problem of Antarctica. It is obvious from that most amazing of artifacts, the Piri Reis map, that there was something unusual about Antarctica. Rand and Rose Flem-Ath have proposed that Antarctica was formerly in the Atlantic and was "shifted" further south to relocate itself at the South Pole. A lot of people like this idea because it explains the "missing island of Atlantis," and simultaneously explains the existence of the Piri Reis portolan. The C's, however, have a slightly different "take" on that in addition to their remarks that "Atlantis" was a global civilization, and that we ought not to be looking for an "island." What is more, this explanation relates to technology that was utilized in a way we cannot even imagine. There was a very definite reason that Antarctica may, indeed, have been the Atlantean home base as suggested by the Flem-Aths, but not quite the way they think.

12-05-98

Q: [...] (A) Okay, this brings us to the question about the Piri Reis map. We wanted to know the origin of this map?

A: Complex, but the origin would date back to 14,000 B. C.

Q: (A) Atlantis?

A: Close.

Q: (L) Was this map drawn when Antarctica was NOT covered by ice?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) Was Antarctica not covered by ice because the poles were in a different location?

A: No.

Q: (L) Was it not covered by ice because the entire planet was not covered by ice?

A: No.

Q: (L) Was it not covered by ice because it was in a different location itself?

A: No.

Q: (L) Why was it not covered by ice? (A) Because the climate was warmer.

A: Technologically achieved.

Q: (L) Why would somebody want to technologically warm Antarctica if the whole rest of the planet was available for use? What is so special about Antarctica?

A: The whole rest of the planet was available for use? Not hardly.

Q: (L) Why was the rest of the planet not available for use?

A: Ice.

Q: (L) So, the rest of the planet WAS covered by ice?

A: No.

Q: (L) There is something I am missing here. (A) Much of the planet was covered by ice, but not all.

A: Yes.

Q: (L) So, instead of using the areas that were NOT covered by ice, why, in particular, was Antarctica...

A: What?!?

Q: (L) What I am getting at is: why go to all the trouble to thaw out a whole big island if it might have been easier to have been somewhere else?

A: Well, first of all, we thought this was Ark's turn. But, since you have asked, is it not obvious by now?

Magnetic power grid physics . EM utilization. Crystals, and the like. Seeking paths to the interior? The "Poles" know best! [...] EM generators usually employ a grid. 'Tis for field creation.

Q: (A) When you say this, you mean A grid, not THE grid?

A: Yes. Looks like a waffle iron.

Q: (A) You mean like a waffle iron that is used in transformers?

A: Okay. Why? To duplicate nature. Earth has a web, and so doeth thee!

Q: (A) Now, Earth's grid is just an imaginary grid related to field, or just a mathematic grid... no, it must really exist....

A: Yes.

Q: (A) If it really exists, is it a field of grid, or is it a grid made out of some matter, like these waffle irons? Just field, or matter?

A: The iron is attracted, not attractive.

Q: (A) I wanted to know if the grid is a material grid, or if it is just a grid of field and nothing more, or if there is something material in the earth relating to it?

A: Both.

And here we realize that the use of EM waves, the signicator of the Pyramid concept, was related to the "underground bases" and that the Atlantean technology was somehow dependent upon polar convergence points of the magnetic grid of the Earth. And this, of course, brings us to that most interesting problem of the "cart ruts" on the island of Malta which is also famous in UFO lore for being an opening to the "underground tunnel" system.

05-27-00

Q: (L) [...] I want to know what is the cause of the so-called "cart tracks" on the island of Malta?

A: Grooves.

Q: (L) Well, I KNOW that! But they are grooved in such a way that they cannot possibly be cart ruts, as they are called. I just recently purchased a book about the archeology of Malta which talks on and on about the temples and so forth, and then, on the very last page, devotes a single paragraph to the "cart ruts." This book says:

"The enigmatic cart ruts are too obvious in the Maltese rocky landscape to be ignored in any work, however concise, on Maltese archeology even though they are still not easy to locate in the chronological sequence. according to the traditional view, they should be placed in prehistory, more precisely in the Bronze Age, the main argument being that some specimens are cut by "Punic" tombs and, therefore, should be prior to that period.

"The validity of this argument is, in my view, highly questionable particularly since for Temi Zammit, its originator, 'Punic' could mean anything from the 7th century BC to the 3rd century AD, especially as far as tombs are concerned. In my search and study of ancient quarries over the last fifteen years, I found cart ruts very frequently, almost invariably, associated with them. The best example is, perhaps, the Buskett group which lies next to the largest and most important of Malta's ancient quarries. For this reason I cannot refrain from believing that they were intended for the transportation of construction blocks from the quarry face to the road in ancient (i. e., not prehistoric) times. This view is supported by a good number of parallels abroad (for instance in Sicily, southern France and Greece) as well as by their concentration in several areas around Melite which must have required a constant supply of ashlar masonry for its buildings. "

There is a single picture of the ruts in this book. In the 1975 Lexikon der Archaeologie, the entry under Malta reads:

"More emigrants from Sicily came to the island around 3200 BC. An astonishing number of megalithic temples were constructed between 2800-1900 BC. The still extant temples, some thirty in number, exhibit a highly developed plan and superstructure ...

This population possibly followed warlike immigrants from western Greece...
The strange 'cartruts' belong to the same period."

Now, the problem with this cart rut theory is the following: When you look at these furrows impressed in the ground, most of them parallel as they should be, the natural thing is to think of them as ruts. But, apparently, close examination shows that they CANNOT have been ruts in the ordinary sense of the word. The reason is that the tracks of the two parallel furrows are not only DIFFERENT FROM RUT TO RUT! but also vary in the course of a single stretch! They run through valleys, over hills, and sometimes exist in several "pairs" side by side which then unite into single two track stretches, followed by sudden curves. They also run off straight into the Mediterranean. Others end abruptly at cliff edges. They are from 65 to 123 cm wide. The furrows themselves are frequently over 70 cm DEEP! At one place, on rut runs in a curve over a hill and cuts 72 cm into the limestone ground. If a cart ever ran in these ruts, it could not have taken a curve because of the great depth of the ruts! Either the axle would have vanished in the deep imprint or the axle must have been at least 72 cm high which would have given the wheel a diameter of 1.5 cm. But that presents the problem that such a large wheel could NOT have taken such a tight curve! It would get stuck or break. Such wheels that would be necessary to navigate the depth of the ruts could not have maneuvered in the narrowness of them which is approximately 6 cm. Since every single-axle cart has two wheels which must run absolutely parallel in the furrows, we are faced with an impossibility. Even a double axled cart would not work because when taking a curve, the rear wheels have to trace a narrower track than the front wheels which is why large trucks have to make a wide swing to take a tight curve.

At another point on the island, four pairs of ruts join together into one rut. They all have different "gauges" a prior to this union. Nearby, there is a rut that crosses another, but they are of different depths. Another rut is up to 60 cm deep, and has a width of 11 cm at the deepest point, and 20 cm at the highest. As noted, in many places, the ruts run straight into the waters of the Mediterranean. It was assumed until recently that the ruts would end underwater a few meters from the coast, which would suggest that they had originated when the sea level of the Mediterranean was lower. However, divers have discovered that the ruts continue in the stone to great depths below sea level.

Now, recently, a German real estate investor who was also a part-time archeologist, claimed to have identified a megaliths temple similar to Mnajdra on the sea-bed in Malta's territorial waters. Supposedly, the discovery was made by two Maltese divers who noted the structure during a dive on the 13th of July in 1999. They took photographs. This was some 3 KM off the eastern coast of Malta. If this discovery were "authenticated," it would overturn existing history as we know it!

In order for a temple to lie on the bed of the Mediterranean sea, it would have to date to the last ice age. The implication would then be that the Maltese temples are at least 6,000 years older than previously thought.

Following this announcement, which really set the archeologists on their ears, there was a report printed in the "Malta Independent" on Sunday, November 7th, 1999 which said:

"The initial caution and scepticism with which the news was received by local archaeologists would now appear to be vindicated. After an on-site dive carried out by the Museums Department last Friday, a spokesman for the Department expressed serious doubts that the underwater structures in question have any archaeological importance at all, let alone constitute a complete prehistoric temple, as suggested by amateur German archaeologist Dr. Huber Zeitlmair, who took credit for the discovery. An official press statement to this effect is expected to be released shortly. The structures which elicited such widespread interest and even excitement were first filmed by local divers Shaun and Kurt Arrigo on an underwater plateau some three kilometres east of Malta. At its deepest point the plateau is over 25 metres below sea level; at its shallowest, about seven metres. Strewn about the area are several large rectangular stones which give the impression of fallen menhirs. Beyond, there are a number of what appear to be kidney-shaped chambers, bearing some resemblance to the apses of above ground temples such as Mnajdra and Hagar Qim.

"For Dr. Zeitlmair, video footage was evidence enough to publicly assert that the structures represent a complete megalithic complex, constructed at a time when the plateau would have been above sea level. the fact that it is now underwater could be due to the melting o the polar ice caps during the last ice age, which would mean that the structures were inundated between 8,000 and 10,000 BC.

"The implications are, to say the least, dramatic. Sadly, though, his interpretation has not stood up to preliminary investigations, and it now appears that what we are dealing with is most likely a natural phenomenon. Meanwhile, contacted independently of the Museums Department, Professor Anthony Bonanno of the Department of Classics and Archaeology at the University of Malta, described the possibility of an underwater temple as "extremely improbable."

"The fact that Dr. Zeitlmair is part of a society of 'Palaeoastronauts' automatically puts me on my guard", he says. As for the theory of an antediluvian temple culture, Prof. Bonanno dismisses it out of hand. "Our existing temples have been very reliably carbon-dated to the period 3,600 to 2,500 BC. In that space of time we have traced a regular evolution in style, from the small and rudimentary to the large and complex."

The good professor then goes on to suggest that, if the ruins ARE validated, the only way they could possibly have gotten where they are is if they were contemporary to the ruins on the island, and were on an adjacent part of the island that "sank because of a fault in the rock." So, what it amounts to is another discovery is being co-opted by the authorities who immediately pooh pooh it, cover it up, explain it away with their circular cerebral gymnastics. The bottom line is: I want to know what was the cause of these crazy cart ruts that cannot have been cart ruts! They cannot possibly be cart ruts!

A: Energy grooves.

Q: (L) What kind of energy?

A: Something like short circuit at time of disturbance in magnetic field of planet.

Q: (L) Was there something inlaid there that conducted this energy? I mean, did this rock melt like this because it had lines of conductors laid into the ground?

A: Crystal generators were once used to collect and redistribute cosmic and terran energy fields.

Q: (L) How long ago were these ruts or grooves formed?

A: 14019 years ago as you measure it.

Q: (L) Was this before the temple structures were built on Malta?

A: Yes. Survivors built those.

Q: (L) These ruts are certainly in the way. They are a definite hazard to walking. Maybe they filled them in with dirt that later washed away.

A: Magnetic disturbance, human cause.

Q: (L) What do you mean by that? Are you saying that the magnetic disturbance was caused by humans, or that the magnetic disturbance contributed to the cause of the ruts, and that the ruts were caused by humans, in such case, how did they cause the ruts in relation to the magnetic disturbance?

A: No. Calamities caused magnetic disturbances.

Picture a short circuit in the global crystal power grid.

Q: (L) So, in other words, a global crystal power grid short circuited due to magnetic disturbances, and these human constructed grid lines all over the planet - I'm sure they must have existed in other places if that is the case - did it just melt the rock?

A: Maltese condition is somewhat unique from a preservational standpoint.

Q: (L) Again, did the rock just melt along these laid out grid lines?

A: More like atomic changes structurally.

Q: (A) I don't understand if they were built or were they natural lines of conduction? Was this power grid artificial or natural?

A: An artificial utilization of natural energy fields.

What we discover when reading the vast amount of "Atlantean Theories" is that there is almost nowhere that has not been claimed to be the site of Atlantis. But, if we understand Atlantis as a global empire, very similar to what we have today, then we are easily able to accommodate all the many theories into the whole picture. We can then understand the role of Wisconsin, Antarctica, the North Atlantic, South America, Indonesia, and the numerous other places being claimed to be the site of Atlantis. We also begin to understand the true capabilities of our ancestors, and why it simply is not necessary to explain the so-called "monuments" on Mars as the work of "extraterrestrials."

Returning to the problem of Tiahuanaco. Mainstream scholars argue that building started around 150 BC and the city continued to grow until the latter part of the first millennium AD. Others - still in the mainstream - insist that it was probably completed by the second millennium BC. Arthur Posnansky, an archaeologist whose findings were endorsed by the Bolivian government, and Rolf Muller, a German astronomer suggested the Kalasasaya enclosure functioned as an astronomical observatory, a thesis that is now widely accepted by his peers. But Posnansky went further. Based on the alignments of the site, the complex must have been built around 15,000 BC. Dr Muller checked his calculations and cautioned that while 15,000 BC was certainly a possibility, the astronomical findings could also point to 9300 BC.

Of course, the mainstream archaeologists simply cannot deal with this, even though it would solve the puzzle of why Tiahuanaco was built as a port. There is clear evidence that the Altiplano on which the city is built only rose above sea level with the ending of the Ice Age, around 8000 BC. If Tiahuanaco existed before then, it would have functioned as a port and would have been more or less contemporary with Plato's lost Atlantis. This is interesting in light of what the C's had to say about it:

08-05-95

Q: (L) Who and what were the Mayans?

A: The Mayans were a transitory people who still exist in the lands that you refer to as Central America. And who have certain physical features that are not consistent with the rest of human beings on 3rd density Earth environment, due to their interactions, in the past, as you measure time, with beings of other density levels.

Q: (L) What beings would those be?

A: Well, we have described 4th density STS beings on many occasions.

Q: (L) The Lizard Beings?

A: Indeed.

Q: (L) Who was Arajuna of Tiahuanaco?

A: Well, we believe that you are referring to one of approximately eight hybrids that ruled the area currently referred to as Central America. Hybrids being a 4th density to 3rd density transfer experiment from the Lizard race to the human race, which was abandoned after approximately 240 years of experimentation by the Lizard Beings, due to the lack of success for sustaining physical duplication, or reproduction of the race. It was one of several attempts by the Lizard Beings to directly transmit their souls into 3rd density environment for permanent placement there. And, of course it is no longer perceived as necessary by them because their intention is to rule 3rd density beings in 4th density when they arrive there.

Q: (L) Who built the city of Tiahuanaco?

A: The Lizard Beings in cooperation with humans.

Q: (L) When was it built?

A: Varying time frames since it seems to have been destroyed at two points. We have to estimate an average of 8,000 years prior to the current time, as you measure it.

Helena Blavatsky wrote:

In Hindu works America is referred to as Patala, meaning the antipodes, and Arjuna, Krishna's disciple, is said to have descended to Patala and married a daughter of one of the Nagas, or Serpents of Wisdom.

And of course, the "serpents of wisdom" are seen as the "civilizing good guys." What is most interesting is that, by following the pathway of the religious symbolism and the art, we can see a connection between the South American civilizations to India and the Indus Valley Civilization, and thence to Egypt, finally coming to rest in Judaism and modern Christianity based on the Egyptian religion. All of them contain elements of "flaying the sacrifice," worship of the sun, fire and mountain gods, slashing the penis as an offering to the gods (finally becoming circumcision), and worship of the serpent, either overt or hidden. (Recall Moses' bronze serpent in the desert.)

We can even follow the distorted skulls of the alien hybrid suggested above from the Ica Skulls of Peru, to the artistic renditions on Easter Island, to the piled up hair of Shiva, to the elongated skull representations of the Egyptian pharaohs - not to mention the actual physical distortion of the skull of Nefertiti and her children. That King Tut's skull was similarly deformed suggests that he was definitely the child of Nefertiti. Earlier representations of Akhenaten show him with a completely normal skull configuration, so it is clear that the "hybrid genetics" came from Nefertiti. And perhaps that was her "entree" to the royal family - the "mark of the beast," so to say. At one point, a "deformed skull" was found that was proclaimed to have been Akhenaten, but it later turned out to be the mummy of a woman. The facts seem to show that the bones of Akhenaten and Nefertiti have never been found.

The short synopsis of the situation, following the tracks and traces of myth and legends, blood types and art work, archeological and paleontological remains and artifacts, lead to the conclusion that the "Southern contingent," the "pyramid people," were the Masters of Atlantis, aided and abetted by hyperdimensional negative beings in an attempt to take over the world, and were defeated by the Athenians, or the Northern contingent, the circle people, the builders of Stonehenge and worshippers of the Moon and the Mother goddess. But this defeat of the Atlanteans - keeping in mind that the "Athenians," as part of the global culture, can also be called "Atlanteans," just as both France and the U.S. can be called members of NATO - was shortlived because it was closely followed by disaster piled on disaster in the form of swarms of comets, asteroids, meteorites, and an EM disturbance of the solar system that was so dramatic that the very planets were jostled and seen to exchange energy potentials.

What we conjecture from all of this is that, at certain points in time when the population of the planet reaches a certain density, it is possible that, during a global cataclysm, to utilize the energy given off by human beings in the throes of terror and destruction, to infuse a certain "idea center" with its "hyperdimensional nutriment." We noticed that the population figure for Atlantis that the C's gave is very similar to our present day population, and that suggests that this stimulation of population growth has been deliberate. In other words, in a strange sort of way, Gurdjieff's remark that mankind is "food for the Moon" is not much of a stretch if we understand it in the context of the Moon as the "eighth sphere" or the portal to hyperdimensional realms.

STS forces, remember, have no power of creativity; they cannot generate work of their own. They need the power of the Mother to do that. That is why they capture women with power, keep them half-alive so as to maintain a minimal continuity of creative interaction and the suitable production of form.

It is through tailored regulation of Loves' forms that STS intelligence derives the means of coercing soul-energy into converting to specific psychic and emotional coinage - Service to Self. And it is through the cumulative psychic and emotional energy that the STS forces hope to obtain the energy-keys to timelocks and spatial corridors of even richer and still-virgin terrains, portions of the cosmos intact with creative life, ripe for plunder and privileged profit.

Thus, the negative being of higher densities takes on the configuration of a forebodingly lonely presence, lurking in caves and desolate grottos of the astrophysical realms. It becomes a fiercely mental entity of 5th density power-knowledge, possessing the proverbial basilisk gaze and only turning the stream of its attention "away" from that intensified/contractile self absorption toward the created worlds [...] imbibing the "light units" to insure the uninterrupted power that it needs, the inconceivable "wattage" required, to maintain that monumental self-absorption and narcissistic self-luminance of the negative Ego-postulate - the Anti-Logos, the Selfness of Consciousness - Ormethion. It must absorb them into itself - it feels the necessity of undoing creation - it NEEDS that energy to fuel its infinite self-contemplation.

This is the Ultimate Objective of the Being at the apex of the pyramidal food chain. And this is why its agenda is masked in the lower levels of the hierarchy. Until such lower level negative beings have consumed sufficient energy - a sort of critical mass - to trigger the implosion of such extraordinary self concentration, they are only interested in destroying that which resists their domination and preserving a vital minimum of captured resources so as to possess an ongoing supply of nutriment. They wish to control, or freeze the rate of planetary destruction and disintegration so as to technically conserve the intelligent life-form in a tractable state so as to render it a good "servant."

The Negative forces can demonstrate remarkably far-sighted restraint. If one group has been effectively captured and could be completely annihilated, instead, the game will be preserved with the conquerors holding their positions intact, poised to parlay their gains into even greater negative glory of "galactic conquest." This is just superior strategy, trying to include as much as can be included at once so that a comparatively larger portion of the multidimensional cosmos can be wiped out in the twinkling of an eye.

And those periods of time when energy potentials are exchanged between planets, or between the Sun and the planets, as a result of the disruption created by swarms of cometary bodies, are the precise times when such "energy transfers" are most likely. And that brings us to the issue of just how swarms of comets can create such disruption.

French mathematician Henri Poincare first blew the whistle on the "closed system" thinking of Newtonian mechanics. According to classical physics, Newtonian physics, a closed system is perfectly orderly and predictable. A pendulum in a vacuum, free of friction and air resistance, will conserve its energy. The pendulum will swing back and forth for all eternity. It will not be subject to the dissipation of entropy, which eats its way into systems by causing them to give up their energy to the surrounding environment. Planets, like pendulums, cannot be disturbed unless by outside chance, and they must be unvarying in their perambulations around the sun.

But Poincare asked a question about the stability of the solar system. Why he asked this question, we do not know; but he did. And the reaction to his question was the standard linear/faith brush-off: "Of course they are stable! They've been stable for a long time. Heck, we can predict eclipses years in advance!" It was a tenet of the scientific faith that knowing the law of force and mass of the bodies, any good scientist could predict the interactions with Newton's equations. The law of force, the inverse square of the law of gravitation, was all wrapped up in a nice, neat package.

But Poincare had been doing some math on the side, and he knew that there was a small difficulty here: for a system containing only two bodies, Newton's equations work. For an ideal two-body system, the orbits are stable. The problem arises when going from two to three bodies, such as including the Sun in the equations, Newton's equations become unsolvable! For formal mathematical reasons, the three-body equation cannot be worked out closer than an "approximation: "

Well, one would think that an "approximation" might be okay. We can live with that. It's nothing to keep one awake at night, right? Well, Poincare knew that the approximation method appeared to work for the first few terms added, but when the number of terms increased, if you add more and more bodies to the system, even including a few spare asteroids and their very minute perturbations of the system, over long periods of time, at some point the orbits shift and the solar system begins to break apart under its own internal forces.

Mathematically, this problem is nonlinear and nonintegrable. When you add a term to a two body system it increases the nonlinear complexity, or feedback of the system. Poincare did this, and was satisfied that a 3 body system remained pretty stable. Small perturbations, but so what? With just the Sun, the Earth and the Moon, we can sleep safely in our beds at night. Right?

Wrong. What happened next was a shock. Poincare discovered that with even the very smallest perturbation, some orbits behaved in an erratic, even chaotic way. His calculations showed that a minute gravitational pull from a third body might cause a planet to wobble and weave drunkenly in its orbit and even fly out of the solar system altogether! And just imagine what a swarm of comets might do!

One will be struck by the complexity of this figure which I do not even attempt to draw. Nothing more properly gives us an idea of complication of the problem of three bodies and, in general, of all the problems in dynamics where there is no uniform integral. [H. Poincare quoted by M. Schroeder in Fractals, Chaos, Power Laws]

Poincare had discovered that chaos is the essence of the nonlinear system. He revealed that even a completely deterministic system like our solar system could do crazy things with the least provocation. The smallest effects could be magnified through positive feedback and a simple system can explode into shocking complexity.

And that seems to be what happened then, and what is before us in the not-too-distant future. And this brings us back to our own civilization as the reincarnation of Atlantis with the United States as the "central Atlantean power" that seeks to conquer the world economically and otherwise:

Q: Why is this happening to us? [Referring to the idea of alien abductions and genetic engineering, earth changes, and general global mayhem.]

A: Karma.

Q: (L) What kind of Karma could bring this?

A: Atlantis.

Q: (L) What can protect us?

A: Knowledge.

Q: (L) How do we get this knowledge?

A: You are being given it now.

07-18-98

Q: (L) I would like to know if you could comment on what we were discussing earlier, the purported idea of mans' destruction of the planet. This is, of course, a disturbing aspect of mankind, but I wonder if mankind is as guilty as he is made to feel?

A: Mankind, so called, is one element of creation.

Q: (L) When you say 'one element of creation' in relation to the question about man's destruction of the planet, are you saying that this so-called destruction can, in a sense, be considered to be creative?

A: The "destruction" is merely one segment of all that exists in a long wave cycle.

Q: (T) Basically, man is doing what he is supposed to be doing, whether we know it or not. [...] (L) Now, one question that we were discussing earlier is: how can the close approach of the companion star cause an increase in the Sun's gravity when there is no reason why it should change anything since gravity is a function of mass?

A: But do you rally know all there is to know about gravity?

Q: (A) No, we don't know. But, does this mean that this will be an effect that does not follow from the theory of gravity that we know already?

A: Gravity is the life force that binds all realities as one.

Q: (L) What are the mechanics of the increase in the Sun's gravity? What is going to cause this?

A: In order to understand this, you would need a reworking of the theorem.

Q: (L) Can you help us in this reworking of the theorem?

A: Waves.

Q: (A) What I want to ask is: we have Einstein's theory of gravity, and the question is whether the effect of increasing the Sun's gravity is something that goes beyond Einstein's equations or not?

A: You must see the wave.

Q: (A) What wave, a gravitational wave, or an electromagnetic wave, or some other wave? What wave?

A: Arkadiusz, how do these intersect?

Q: (A) Gravity and electromagnetic?

A: Yes. And others.

Q: (A) How they are described within a theory, or how they intersect in space when they come together?

A: Both.

Q: (A) Okay, why does this increase in the Sun's gravity have anything to do with electromagnetism? We were told that the Brown star will not radiate any radiation, so, in particular, no electromagnetic radiation. So, where does electromagnetics come in? I do not understand...

A: Gravitational pull incites electromagnetic impulse.

Q: (A) Okay, that means we go beyond gravitational theory, and this is part of Unified Field Theory?

A: Yes, exactly!! The complete UFT was withheld from you!

Q: (L) I think they mean humanity in general...

A: Yes.

Q: (T) So, the complete UFT is known to someone here on the planet?

A: Yes.

Q: (T) And they are not making it available...

A: Oh no, because "The Truth Will Set You Free!"

Q: (J) From gravity!

A: You may access hyperspatial truths with UFT.

Q: (A) Is it a good time for me to know more on that, to work on that? Can you give me a pointer so that I can discover it for myself?

A: Back up to where you were in "69."

Q: (T) You must have been looking into something in 1969... you were a young'n then and didn't know you had stumbled onto something. (A) I was reading books by Lichnerowicz on UFT...

A: Yes. Check the notes.

Q: (L) Well, we have a REAL problem with these notes and papers and things because of the fact that the bags that they were packed in have disappeared!

A: Gee, we wonder why?!?

Q: (L) If we make a stink about these bags, will we get them back?

A: No. Wait to see if they arrive.

Q: (L) We have been waiting a year! Well, there was a lot of stuff for them to go through... we'll have to wait awhile!

A: Even without notes, the lonely young man walks down the concrete walk with the clumsily arranged light poles, contemplating the truth, the REAL truth. You were in an alpha state, a crossroads, wondering "where do I go from here?" "And why are all these things being pushed onto me?" Go back to then, Arkady. You know you are really a "Russian" at heart!

Q: (A) Well, we started with the increased mass of the Sun, and we came to UFT which is hidden from us because it would make us free; there is this tendency in me to follow this road because it is science and would open a new road. The question is whether such activity or knowing such things will lead to other densities? Is it just for satisfaction, or is there real value in knowing more in this direction?

A: Well, the Unified Field Theory unlocks the door completely to the higher densities.

Q: (T) But there are parts of this that have yet to be discovered by the general research books because it is being kept secret?

A: No.

Q: (T) Has science acknowledged that gravity is a wave, as something that can be measured, quantitative?

A: Controversy.

Q: (L) What gravity is and what it is not is a controversy.

(T) But if gravity is part of the UFT, and somebody knows what it is... (L) They are building HAARP. (T) I think there is more to it than this HAARP. UFT is a major step...

A: Grids.

Q: (L) What kind of grids...

(T) They keep jumping off... wait a minute...

A: We are not "jumping off."

Q: (L) What kind of grids?

A: The planet has been enshrouded with EM grid.
Q: (T) Are these the ley lines?
A: No.
Q: (L) Are they artificially generated?
A: Contoured.
Q: (L) They are artificially contoured. What is the result of this shrouding?
A: Manipulated for use by 3rd/4th Consortium.
Q: (A) What kind of EM grid?
(L) The natural EM grid is being contoured...
A: Like a gently waving geometric "blanket."
Q: (T) Is it on the surface of the planet, through the planet, or where?
A: Above.
Q: (J) Do microwave towers factor into this?
A: Indirectly discovered by same principal. [person?]
Q: (A) Who is this principal? A name? (T) The gravity waves, whether they exist or not, are a controversy, yet they are part of the UFT, and someone already knows how it works. Therefore, it is only controversy to those who don't know what the answer is, and it is not a controversy to those who know. They know what it is and how to measure it and how to use it.
A: Of course.
Q: (T) So, it is only a controversy that is allowed to be. (L) Or created. (A) Some power is used to sustain this grid. What is it?
A: Land and space based generators.
Q: (T) What can it be used for?
A: Multiple uses.
Q: (L) Well, what are the top three, for example?

A: No "top three."

Q: (T) Just an example, give us an idea? How does this affect us?

A: Broaden concept.

Q: (T) Can this grid be used by other objects as a power source? (J) Can it be tapped into?

A: Net.

Q: (L) It is a net that traps things?

A: Broaden.

Q: (L) It is a net that...

A: Calculates...

Q: (J) Internet? (T) Is it like a big fence to keep us in?

A: You are dancing on the 3rd density ballroom floor. "Alice likes to go through the looking glass" at the Crystal Palace. Atlantean reincarnation surge brings on the urge to have a repeat performance.

Q: (T) The Atlanteans who have reincarnated are getting ready to do the same thing they did before with the crystals. So, this is an Atlantean type thing that is being done now? Different equipment, but the same type of thing?

A: All lessons must be learned before you can move onto bigger and better things.

Q: (L) Is that a general statement about the Atlanteans repeating the lessons, or that once we learn this lesson, we can move onto bigger and better things in counteracting this grid?

A: All that is present and future too.

Q: (T) Well, maybe it is a defensive shield that has been put up to protect us since we have monkeyed with the ozone so much...

A: No. Better to contemplate and meditate. No linear thinking please, you know better.

Q: (J) I think they just slapped your hand. (A) I want to ask if there is something that we can and should do about this grid for ourselves?

A: Why? To know was all you need.

Q: (A) Well, it was said that this was for the purpose of control and manipulation. So, knowing is all that we need. Or, we could try to shield...

(L) But, to know IS the shield. I don't know how that works, but it seems to be so.

A: Yes.

Q: (A) Now, how did we come to this grid from UFT?

A: Grid construction represents application of...

Q: (L) Somehow we went from the increased gravity of the Sun, to UFT, to the grid...

A: UFT explains the "increased" gravity of Sol. But, is there not something in UFT about increase/decrease???

Q: (A) There is no reason for it to increase or decrease... but this is Einstein's theory which we were told is incorrect... (L) Well, maybe it is speed? When two things are rotating in tandem, when they come together, wouldn't it increase their speed, and doesn't speed increase gravity? (A) No, we were told that there is some interaction between gravity and EM wave, and this is what UFT is about... If we use other dimensions which we are supposed to use in this UFT, going with Kaluza-Klein, then the very concept of mass is something which is not so clear, and mass can be variable...

A: Yes, variability of physicality.

Q: (T) Fourth density. (A) We were told earlier that this UFT opens the door to other densities...

A: Yes.

[...]

Q: (A) Can we have a UFT which unifies EM and gravity and does not include the concept of other densities. In other words, can we put in a textbook all about the gravity and electromagnetics, and a student could learn all of this and still know nothing about other densities?

A: No. Other densities become apparent when...

Q: (A) So, it means that Einstein and Von Neumann knew about these other densities?

A: Yes, oh yes!!!

Q: (T) Just a thought: having UFT and being able to manipulate different fields within it, creates different effects. So, as we understand it in the apparent present state of science, we have to spin something in space in order to create gravity. But, with the UFT, one small offshoot is that one could create real gravity without spinning anything. So, the problem of weightlessness is really already solved...

A: Elementary my dear Terry, elementary.

Q: (T) So, this whole thing with the space station and all the trouble they are having readapting to gravity when they come back, is all a game...

A: When you "let the cat out of the bag," you create an entire feline "nation."

Q: (T) So, we are capable of "Star Trek" right now?

A: In a sense, but there is so much more than that.

Q: (T) Of course. Most people would say that 'cutting edge' science is 25 years ahead of what we see, and I say it is more like a hundred years, and I am even off? Cutting edge science on this planet is more like 3 or 4 hundred years ahead?

A: More like 30 to 40,000 years "ahead!"

Q: (L) Is that because of 4th density influence and information?

A: Yes.

Q: (T) 30 to 40 thousand years? Let me get that number right...

A: Yes, at least.

This, of course, brings us back to our problem: what to do?

07-25-98

Q: (L) I read the new book by Dr. David Jacobs, professor of History at Temple University, concerning his extensive research into the alien abduction phenomenon. [Dr. Jacobs wrote his Ph.D. thesis on the history of the UFOs.] Dr. Jacobs says that now, after all of these years of somewhat rigorous research, that he KNOWS what the aliens are here for and he is afraid. David Jacobs says that producing offspring is the primary objective behind the abduction phenomenon. Is this, in fact, the case?

A: Part, but not "the whole thing."

Q: (L) Is there another dominant reason?

A: Replacement.

Q: (L) Replacement of what?

A: You.

Q: (L) How do you mean?

Creating a race to replace human beings, or abducting specific humans to replace them with a clone or whatever?

A: Mainly the former. You see, if one desires to create a new race, what better way than to mass hybridize, then mass reincarnate. Especially when the host species is so forever ignorant, controlled, and anthropocentric. What a lovely environment for total destruction and conquest and replacement... see?

Q: (L) Well, that answered my other question about the objective. Well, here in the book, Dr. Jacobs says that there is ongoing abductions through particular families. I quote:

'Beyond protecting the fetus, there are other reasons for secrecy. If abductions are, as all the evidence clearly indicates, an intergenerational phenomenon in which the children of abductees are themselves abductees, then one of the aliens' goals is the generation of more abductees. Are all children of abductees incorporated into the phenomenon? The evidence suggests that the answer is yes. If an abductee has children with a non-abductee, the chances are that all their descendants will be abductees. This means that through normal population increase, divorce, remarriage and so on, the abductee population will increase quickly throughout the generations. When those children grow and marry and have children of their own, all of their children, whether they marry an abductee or non-abductee, will be abductees. To protect the intergenerational nature of the breeding program, it must be kept secret from the abductees so that they will continue to have children. If the abductees KNEW that the program was intergenerational, they might elect not to have children. This would bring a critical part of the program to a halt, which the aliens cannot allow. The final reason for secrecy is to expand the breeding program, to integrate laterally in society, the aliens must make sure that abductees mate with non-abductees and produce abductee children.'

Now, this seems to suggest that there is a particular bloodline that is susceptible to...

A: We have told you before: the Nazi experience was a "trial run," and by now you see the similarities, do you not?

Q: (L) Yes, I do see...

A: Now, we have also told you that the experience of the "Native Americans" vis a vis the Europeans may be a precursor in microcosm. Also, what Earthian 3rd density does to Terran 2nd density should offer "food for thought." In other words, thou are not so special, despite thy perspective, eh? And we have also warned that after conversion of Earth humans to 4th density, the Orion 4th density and their allies hope to control you

"there." Now put this all together and what have you? At least you should by now know that it is the soul that matters, not the body. Others have genetically, spiritually and psychically manipulated/ engineered you to be bodycentric. Interesting, as despite all efforts by 4th through 6th density STO, this "veil remains unbroken."

Q: (L) Now, the big question is: what are we supposed to DO with this information?

A: As with all else, it is not what you should do with it, it is just that you have it.

Q: (L) Is there any possibility of defeating the plans of the 4th density STS in this project?

A: Is there any possibility of defeating the Spanish Conquistadores and the English, French, Dutch and German "colonists?"

Q: (F) Did they say what I think they said? (L) Yes. That is inexpressibly depressing.

A: And you expected a Rose Garden?

Q: (L) If that's the way it is, why don't we all join the Heaven's Gate cult and commit mass suicide and just not deal with all this stuff?!

A: You chose to "deal with it," now did you not?

Q: (L) Well, was I in my right mind when I made that choice, or had I been drinking?

A: No drinking on 5th density!

Q: (L) Now, I have been having an exchange with Carla McCarty who was the Ra channel. She says that we are not supposed to DO anything, we are just supposed to BE, and what we are supposed to BE is to just let love flow through us, love the aliens and everybody and just sort of relax in the tulips and, if they take us over, then we should LOVE that, too.

Somehow, I don't find this...

A: All there is is lessons!!

Q: (L) Is the lesson to learn how to give up the ghost with panache? What's the point?

A: Your experiences never end, only transform. No bodycentrics need apply.

Q: (L) Well, you once said something about the transition to 4th density creating a 'level playing field.' Then, the people will wake up and there will be a battle between the humans and aliens...

A: Yes.

Q: (L) And if it is a more level playing field, then the situation would not quite be the same as the Conquistadores against the Aztecs and the Native Americans against the Europeans and...

A: Wrong, all in that drama were at 3rd density. The rabbits, rats, dogs, etc. are not on a level playing field with you!

Q: (L) Do the aliens know about the upcoming comets and all that sort of thing?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) And they have the idea that what they are doing, this race they are creating, is going to survive this cataclysmic activity?

A: Of course.

Q: (L) Is that 'of course' as in they ARE going to survive, or that they BELIEVE they are going to survive?

A: Both.

Q: (L) Okay, you once told us that this was like a 'cosmic battle.' That the cycle was going to create balance and so on. I am trying to understand this. If that is the case, it seems that there is more to it than the Conquistadores against the Aztecs and the Europeans against the Native Americans; that at some point the story changes - the oppressed fight back - I am trying to get the allegory into a more understandable framework.

Do you see what I mean?

A: No.

Q: (L) Well, that is because I am confused. What I am trying to ask without asking it directly is: what chance do we have of doing anything?

A: You are still not seeing the "bigger picture."

Q: (L) What is the bigger picture?

A: Your souls, your consciousness.

Q: (L) So, in other words, we chose to come in at this particular point in time to experience this mass takeover of our planet and the conquest and destruction of the human race, just so we could have this experience, check-out and reincarnate?

A: No.

Q: (L) Well, that is what it sounds like! You say that the only thing that really matters is our souls, our consciousness, so if we tend to our souls and our bodies check out, then obviously the answer is to a) reincarnate, or b) move to the next density and reincarnate. What other option is there?

A: How long did you expect to "live?"

Q: (L) Well, under the normal circumstance, 70 or 80 years, optimistically.

A: And is that long?

Q: (L) No, it is not. By cosmic standards it is a whiff of vapor. What are you getting at here?

A: Think about it. ? Have you had any contemporaries who transited to 5th density?

Q: (L) Yes.

A: How come? How can this be possible?

Q: (L) Because they died. The body died.

A: Why?

Q: (L) Because that is what bodies do.

A: But is it "fair?"

Q: (L) Is it fair?! I guess if that is what they choose.

A: And...

Q: (L) I don't know where you are going with this!

A: You seem to be under the impression that only "good" experiences are acceptable.

Q: (L) No, I am not under the impression that only good experiences are acceptable, but I AM in a little bit of a quandary here because, here we are talking to you guys who are supposed to be 'us' in the future. Here we are in this period of time on this planet, where things are in a very strange state. There is some kind of huge transition going on, and I am just wondering what is the whole point. Why are we talking to you? What's the point?

A: It is the lesson. Do you not understand still? The lesson, the lessons, that is all there is. They are all immeasurably valuable.

Q: (L) Okay, we are having these lessons. You have told us what is going on. We see it going on around us. I am convinced that what you have said is so from a LOT of other circumstantial evidence as well as the research of others who have come to the same conclusion and, DAMN IT, IT'S UGLY! DO YOU UNDERSTAND ME?! IT'S UGLY!

A: That is your perspective.

Q: (L) Well, as C said on the phone the other day, what are we supposed to awaken to? Are we supposed to just awaken to the fact that we can SEE all this stuff going on?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) And just waking up and seeing it is the whole thing? Okay, once we wake up and SEE it, why can't we just check out at that point? If you know what the script is, you don't have to watch the movie!

A: But then you miss out on the experience.

Q: (L) So, we are all here to experience being munched and crunched...

A: No.

Q: (L) Imprisoned, controlled, being treated like rats in a cage in a laboratory...

A: Ecstasy, remember?

Q: (L) Ecstasy?! WELL SWELL! We can just ALL be BURNED AT THE STAKE! I understand that is QUITE an ECSTATIC experience! I'm sure William Wallace felt perfectly ecstatic when they castrated him and removed his bowels and burned them in a brazier in front of his face!

A: Not so long ago, your face smashed upon the pavement...

Q: (L) Was that an ecstatic experience?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) So, when you say 'ecstatic' you could just be talking about jumping out a window and croaking?! You gotta understand here! The perspective here on 3rd density! You don't have faces to smash on pavements!

A: Neither will/do you/us.

Q: (A) You say knowledge protects. It protects against WHAT?

A: Many things. One example: post transformational trauma and confusion.

Q: (L) So, knowledge is going to protect us against post transformational trauma and confusion. You are saying that this transition to 4th density is going to be traumatic and confusing. Do you mean transformation from 3rd to 4th density, or 3rd to 5th density, i.e. death?

A: Both.

Q: (L) So, if one does not have the shock and trauma and the confusion and so forth, one is then able to function better?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) Well, if a person transitions directly from 3rd to 4th density without cycling through 5th density via dying, that implies that persons can transition directly from 3rd to 4th density without dying. Is that correct?

A: Yes.

Q: (L) How does that feel?

How is that experience...

A: Alice through the looking glass.

Q: (A) Okay, they say that knowledge is supposed to protect from trauma and confusion. On the other hand, all is lessons, so trauma is a lesson. Why are we supposed to work to avoid a lesson?

A: You are correct, it is a lesson, but if you have foreknowledge, you are learning that lesson early, and in a different way.

Q: (L) So, if you learn the lesson in a different way, does that mitigate the need or the way or the process of the way of learning at the time of transition?

A: Yes. Smoother.

Q: (L) I do have to say that thinking about it all, not being able to do anything about it, not being able to talk to people about it because they don't believe, is certainly more painful than being hit by the shock of it...

A: No.

Q: (L) Well, you are suggesting that I CAN tell others such things?

A: You can convey, but suggest it be done in a subtle fashion.

Q: (L) Well, how subtle can it be? I mean, 'hello folks, you know the words munch, crunch, yum yum???'

A: It is not all that way, and you know it! Most are not eaten, just manipulated.

Knowledge protects in the most amazing ways.

Mathematics are "taught" in your realm in such a way that only a select few will learn.

And mathematics is the language of all creation. For example, advanced math studies, such as algebra, provide the keys to unlocking the doors between the matter and antimatter universes.

Suggest those present who still need to, learn algebra.

Q: (L) Okay, you suggest that those present learn algebra...

A: Who need to.

Q: (L) Are you saying that we can unlock doors between matter and anti-matter universes? Is that what you are getting at here?

A: Maybe...

Q: (L) I certainly don't want to hang out on this planet after it is taken over by aliens and everybody is getting munched!

A: Munched? Please!!

Q: (A) I want to refer to the previous session when we were talking about UFT and you said that I should go back to 1969. I tried to remember what, in particular, in 1969, what was the crossroads? I couldn't remember anything. Can I have some clue: what was it? Which month?

A: August.

Q: (A) Was it in Wroclaw?

A: Yes. Lodz.

Q: (A) That is the town where my brother is living. Perhaps, yes... I was there in 1969. Yes, that is true. I want to know about the remark saying 'Russian at heart?'

A: You studied it, you interacted with amazing people... Hamburg...

Q: (A) Yes, that is true, but why is it relevant?

A: The doors are opened to revelation by contemplating the past which is really the present.

Q: (A) Now, is this mention of 'Russian,' and going to Hamburg related to research I was doing in Hamburg?

A: Reading Russian books about pertinent theoretical or hypothetical principles? Hamburg? Research? Yes, but that is a clue and all we can give you, lest you miss the opportunity to discover something truly important.

Q: (L) Okay, we'll work on it.

A: Pathway by the lightpoles, Arkadiusz...

06-22-96

Q: (L) One of the crop circles you interpreted was an "astronomical twin phenomenon." What is an astronomical twin phenomenon?

A: Many perfectly synchronous meanings.

Q: (L) Synchronicity is involved. Does this have something to do with "image?"

A: Duplicity of, as in "Alice through the looking glass."

Q: (L) Double images. Does this relate to matter and antimatter?

A: Yes, and...

Q: (L) Gravity and manifesting on one side and manifesting a mirror image on the other...

A: Yes, and... [...]

Astronomical.

Q: (L) Okay, that relates to stars and planets... astronomical in terms of another universe, an alternate universe composed of antimatter?

A: Yes, and....

Q: (L) And is this alternate universe going to merge with our universe...

A: No.

Q: (L) Is this alternate universe of antimatter the point from which phenomena occur or are manifested in our universe?

A: More like doorway or "conduit."

Q: (L) Is this alternate universe the means by which we must travel to 4th density? Is it like a veil, or an abyss of some sort?

A: Think of it as the highway.

Q: (L) So, we must travel through this universe of antimatter in order to reach 4th density?

A: No.

Q: (L) Is something going to happen in terms of interacting with this antimatter in order to bring about some sort of transition?

A: No. Realm Border is traveling wave.

Q: (L) Okay, you say "traveling wave," and then you say that antimatter is the highway. Does this mean moving through antimatter or interacting in some way with antimatter via the the impetus of the traveling wave, or realm border?

A: Bends space/time, this is where your unstable gravity waves can be utilized.

Q: (L) Utilizing antimatter by creating an EM field, which destabilizes the gravity wave, allows antimatter to unite with matter, creating a portal through which space/time can be bent, or traveled through via this "bending." In other words, producing an EM field, bringing in the antimatter, IS the bending of space/time? Is that it?

A: Yes.

Q: (V) Is there a portal for each person, or one large portal?

A: No.

Q: (V) So we move through a portal in masses?

A: No.

Q: (L) Is this generating of EM fields to destabilize the gravity wave what the HAARP assembly is designed and built for?

A: No.

Q: (V) If there are not personal portals for one person, or portals for groups of people...

A: Portal is where you desire it to be.

Q: (V) So it could just be a state of mind?

A: No. With proper technology you can create a portal where desired. There are unlimited options.

Q: (A) I want to ask about this grid business. I have this book with this 'sacred geometry' business, Bruce Cathie and all that. These people draw these grids with geometric shapes that differ from simple meridians. I would like to know how to find out what is the true geometry of this grid? Is it as complicated as they draw it, or is it as simple as longitude and latitude? Can I have some help with this?

A: Seek answers in the pyrotechnics.

Q: (L) Do you mean having to do with explosives or fireworks?

A: All that is related to the root. For example: lightning.

Q: (L) Yes, but what we are asking is how to SHAPE, to construct a correct grid! Is there a particular geometric figure that applies, and are there particular locations ...

A: No, no, no. You are assuming, and you are not being patient.

Q: (A) I don't understand what this pyrotechnics is about, but first question: at some point we were asking about this magnetic grid, and we were told that the grid lines are located about every 200 miles, and that it is a regular pattern of lines...

A: Yes, but those are primary. What happens at the poles?

Q: (A) At the poles, these lines converge, and the pattern becomes more complex, I suspect.

A: Convergence.

Q: (A) Okay, they converge at the poles, and probably go inside.

A: In atmosphere, there is undulation. At core, there is primary convergence, and that is also your doorway/bridge.

Q: (A) Core of the Earth?

A: Yes.

Q: (A) These lines that are being drawn, are they just one dimensional lines, or are they a plane that crosses the Earth along these lines?

A: Latter.

Q: (A) Well, I wanted to make sure because, when we were directed to this place in Russia and the term 'magnetic meridian' was brought up, and we asked the question as to where the zero magnetic meridian was located, we were told that it was at about 90 degrees East longitude in the Western Pacific ocean. We checked the map and it is clearly the Indian Ocean and not the Western Pacific. Was this just a mistake?

A: No because all those lovely, shimmering oceans intersect around a lovely island with really inexpensive real estate!

Q: (A) They are joking! They act like they drank too much! I have no idea what that means! [Laura stops and gets the Atlas and examines the area in question.] (L) Okay, the only island I can see that those lovely shimmering oceans intersect around, in the terms in which you have expressed it, is Antarctica.

And in the following excerpt, unpublished thus far, we find some clues to the "mission" and the possibilities, not to mention the current situation.

Q: [Laughter] Well let me ask you this: Am I right to be so upset with Vincent and his damned ritual magic stuff?

A: Yes.

Q: Am I right in my thinking that even if he is not conscious of it, he was sent as an agent to extract information from me?

A: Yes.

Q: Are the Cassiopaeans the ones that got in contact with him in his childhood and then when he was older [as he claims]?

A: No.

Q: Is he consciously working as an agent?

A: No.

[...] [These next remarks about Maynerd Most will be made clear in the Adventures series.]

Q: Where did that stuff about the "Percival 3" come from when Vincent was here?

A: Vincent.

Q: Is there really something hidden in the "Lair of Titus?"

A: No.

Q: Is there really going to be a 2010 Space war?

A: No.

Q: Are we really supposed to build some kind of thing to shield the earth in 2010?

A: No.

Q: Are we supposed to build some kind of technology for SOME reason?

A: Yes. Later.

[...] [Interestingly, the following remarks about Frank Scott proved to be stunningly correct, though we had no idea at the time how the scenario would ultimately play out.]

Q: I want to know what "Frank" is up to?

A: Sorry he left. Listened.

Q: (A) Who is sorry? (L) Who did he listen to?

A: Mark.

Q: I see. Is my brother mad at me, too?

A: No.

Q: (L to A) I stay in trouble all the time. The only one who doesn't get mad at me is you.

A: Frank. [Obviously, the point was that Frank was either mad at me at the time, or was going to get mad at me via the manipulations of Most.]

Q: Well, what else can I ask to get a non-answer?

A: Yes. 5 million.

Q: 5 million questions I can ask to get a non-answer. I see.

A: Voila! Joy! Now Learn!

Q: (A) Was that a joke? (L) In other words, learning is fun?

A: FUN!

Q: It might be fun for you guys; however, there's certain things about this 3 D environment, like when you kick rocks, it hurts; and when you spend more money than you have, you go into debt.

A: But it is more fun that way.

Q: Are we supposed to move to France?

A: Yes.

Q: Are you sure?

A: Yes.

Q: When will we move to France?

A: 2003.

Q: Are we supposed to DO something in France?

A: Yes.

Q: What?

A: More work.

Q: Well, SWELL! [...] Okay. So we're going to move to France and do more work?

A: U 5.

Q: "U 5?!" Us and the three kids?

A: 8835 million. [...] Hope and glory is coming close!

[...] Point the way to love in realms of light. Trust on it.

Q: I want to know why so many things were told to us in code when Frank was present?

A: Frank is a Mole.

Q: (A) If Frank was a mole, why did he leave?

A: STS looks at his own time to hook onto zone of sail soon.

Q: (L) Are you saying that STS... I don't know how to put it. Why did he leave? Was he trying to get information and he couldn't get it, and then they decided to pull him out, so that if he couldn't get it, I couldn't get it either?

A: Soon to answer itself.

Q: What was it that we know that Frank couldn't know?

A: How to build a prototype.

Q: Prototype of what?

A: Demolecularizer.

Q: Demolecularizer? Cool!

And so, we come to the idea that Knowledge Protects - but only when information becomes knowledge by being Utilized. And in the following excerpts, there are clues to this Utilization:

10-04-97

Q: I have a few questions on the subject of Cassiopaea. On several occasions you have described Cassiopaea or the Cassiopaeans, the unified thought form light beings that transmit through Cassiopaea, as being the 'front line of the universe's system of natural balance.' On another occasion when R was here, she was asking questions about Isis and you said that Isis was a 'vanguard.' Now, it seems to me that something that is at the front line is also a vanguard - that the definitions are interchangeable, or similar. In reading through all the various myths and legends, it occurs to me that the similarity between the imagery of Queen Cassiopaea and Isis is quite striking. What is the relationship between Queen Cassiopaea, archetypally speaking, and Isis?

A: Subliminal.

Q: It is subliminal? The other thing I noticed about the word 'Isis' is that it can be slightly altered to make 'I Zeus.' And, Perseus can be 'per Zeus' and Persia can be made to say 'per ziu.' One of the oldest etymological roots for the word 'God' is 'ziu' from which we get 'deu.' These all represent the English traslation of 'for God,' with Perceval being 'per ziu val' or 'strong for God.' Could you comment on these relationships?

A: Interconnected by trilingual learning curve.

Q: Any further comments?

A: No.

Q: I also noticed that the word 'Osiris' could also be slightly modified to say 'of Sirius.' Comment, please.

A: Sirius was regarded highly in your "past."

Q: What was the foundation of this regard for Sirius?

A: "From whence cometh, is seen that which knows no limitation."

Q: Could you elaborate on that?

A: Could, but will not.

Q: Why?

A: Because you can!

08-17-00

Q: Well, you have talked about the Wave before, and I complained that we did not have time to do certain things that you had suggested that we do. You said that, yes we would, and that these things were suggested to "prepare" us for this event. Just trying to deal with it from a linear point of view, we still have to build this pool with the columns, get a Nobel prize, supposedly, work with people on the crop circles, and all that. Are we still looking at doing these things in this linear time progression that we exist in; that we are aware of as small children on a very large plane?

A: If you let it flow, it will flow.

Q: So, you are us in the future, we are you in the past - when you say this, are you "us" in the future in the sense of ALL mankind, or in the sense of any particular group of mankind?

A: In between those limited options.

Q: Could you be more explicit?

A: No, because you would not "get it."

Q: When I post material on the website, those people who resonate to the material believe that this refers to them also. I have been of the opinion that Unified Thought Form being must mean a very large group as represented in this density. I know that we are dealing with limiting terms. But, is this applied to people who CHOOSE the Cassiopaeian option?

A: Maybe it is best to say it applies to those who recognize the application.

Q: So, if they recognize it, if they know it is them, they are part of it. (A) But, thinking in nonlinear terms, its up to us to work to make this precise. You are asking this question which implies that the answer exists. But, exactly what the answer is may be it is not yet chosen, and it is up to us to make it this way.

A: Lodestar is a clue for you.

Q: I guess that means a guiding star of some sort. Something that attracts... a lodestone is magnetic, it is where the compass points. In the myth, Cassiopaea, Danae, and Athena work together to enable Perseus to cut off the head of the Gorgon and kill the sea monster and rescue Andromeda. Of all the mythical heroes, Perseus stands out because he was SUCCESSFUL. He went on the quest, he succeeded in the mission, he freed the maiden in distress, killed a slew of Lizzie types, balanced the situation in his environment, and then even lived happily ever after. He didn't lose his reason, he didn't fail... it is about the only really successful myth. He DID it. And did it well. Is that...

A: A quest is successfully followed one step at a time. No need to gauge the staircase.

06-07-97

Q: What is the symbology of the 'breaking of rocks,' as in the alchemical texts, as well as related to Perseus as 'he who breaks?'

A: Occurs at a time when rocks break, as in the electromagnetic impulses that emanate from earthbound rocks when sheared by tectonic forces, and much more importantly, the possible utilization of said forces whether naturally or otherwise induced.

08-20-01

Q: Is the story of David a gloss of the Perseus legend?

A: Yes. More than that though.

Q: Okay, can you tell me what it is more than that?

A: A Tale of 4th Density.

Q: So it's interactive in the sense of groups, not individuals?

A: Yes.

Q: Where is the "Ethiopia" of the Cassiopeia story? Where it is today?

A: 4th Density.

Q: Okay, what people did it refer to, in a larger group sense, if it was an archetypal expression?

A: Gaul. [...]

Q: What is important about "White House?"

A: Future Hit 4th density.

Q: Future what 4th density?

A: Hit.

Q: (L) What is important about white house.

A: Go to 4th density through there.

Q: What does white house actually mean? Is it a building, or does it have an esoteric meaning?

A: Genetic structure. [...]

Q: (L) Oh, we have a new asteroid, PM-9. Is PM-9 going to hit us on May 10, 2003?

(A) Maybe.

A: Very possible.

Q: Is that our "Kaboom, splat?"

A: Maybe.

Q: If it hits in the Pacific, Ranier will be a cladera, tsunamis would roll into Puget Sound, and goodbye to Hawaii!

A: Yes.

Q: (A) If it will hit, we will have nuclear radiation.

A: Yes.

Q: (L) What is the probability?

A: High.

Q: Will we move to France before then?

A: Yes. [...]

Q: (L) Well, good night unless there is something else you want to say?

A: Progress is being made at all levels, so carry on! Good Night.

And so, in the final analysis, we come to some idea that we are living in a time loop in which many possibilities play out over and over again according to some archetypal pattern of the Theological Reality. At the present moment, it seems that the Atlantean drama is being replayed. We can conjecture from following the tracks that the two sides are represented by the Pyramid people vs. the Circle people at our level, though at some level, these positions merge. That isn't important to us here because that is out of the scope of our potential function.

In any event, what seems to have happened is that the Evil Empire of Atlantis, headquartered in Antarctica, with major outposts in South America, India, Egypt, and other Southern locations, was defeated by the "Athenians," or the Northern contingent - the Hyperboreans.

However, shortly after this victory, disaster struck, and it was a very long time before the different groups reassembled and were able to build the pyramids and Stonehenge. In fact, several catastrophes occurred between the final collapse of the Atlantean Empire in 10,662 BC and the final major disaster on the earth that occurred at the time of the Exodus, and which included the eruption of the volcano Thera on the island of Santorini. At each of these periods, the STS forces worked to consolidate their position, little by little obliterating the truth of the drama, except that it was transmitted to us by a true initiate: Plato. And we have Fulcanelli telling us to study the classical Greek authors, the Greek myths, for keys to our reality. He compares them to the stories in the Bible, and we certainly notice the similarity of the story of David to the story of Perseus. We then wonder if the stories of the ancient world were so widely known that they were co-opted to the use of the Egyptian religion - corrupted and distorted and "historicized?"

On the other hand, we have people like Schwaller de Lubicz, trashing Fulcanelli, trying to defame him and bastardize his work, all the while promoting the agenda of the "Egyptian Gods," in order to open the Stargates to the reality of the Evil Empire of Atlantis - Global takeover and domination.

Plato also gave us the allegory of the cave to explain the 4th density, hyperdimensional reality, and discussed at length the ways of accessing this so as to serve others. He wrote:

This entire allegory, I said, you may now append, dear Glaucon, to the previous argument; the prison-house is the world of sight, the light of the fire is the sun, and you will not misapprehend me if you interpret the journey upwards to be the ascent of the soul into the intellectual world according to my poor belief, which, at your desire, I have expressed whether rightly or wrongly God knows.

But, whether true or false, my opinion is that in the world of knowledge the idea of good appears last of all, and is seen only with an effort; and, when seen, is also inferred to be the universal author of all things beautiful and right, parent of light and of the lord of light in this visible world, and the immediate source of reason and truth in the intellectual; and that this is the power upon which he who would act rationally, either in public or private life must have his eye fixed.

I agree, he said, as far as I am able to understand you.

Moreover, I said, you must not wonder that those who attain to this beatific vision are unwilling to descend to human affairs; for their souls are ever hastening into the upper world where they desire to dwell; which desire of theirs is very natural, if our allegory may be trusted.

Yes, very natural.

And is there anything surprising in one who passes from divine contemplations to the evil state of man, misbehaving himself in a ridiculous manner; if, while his eyes are blinking and before he has become accustomed to the surrounding darkness, he is compelled to fight in courts of law, or in other places, about the images or the shadows of images of justice, and is endeavoring to meet the conceptions of those who have never yet seen absolute justice?

Anything but surprising, he replied. [...]

And now shall we consider in what way such guardians will be produced, and how they are to be brought from darkness to light, -as some are said to have ascended from the world below to the gods? [...] The process, I said, is not the turning over of an oyster-shell, but the turning round of a soul passing from a day which is little better than night to the true day of being, that is, the ascent from below, which we affirm to be true philosophy.

As the Cassiopaeans say: Strive always to rise.

Schwaller de Lubicz and the Fourth Reich

Laura Knight-Jadczyk

Our physical bodies are subject to natural 3rd density causality because we are part of the 3rd density world and subject to its laws.

Our actions, based on 3rd density interpretations alone, are then subject to the same empirical 3rd density causality, and because causal series are continuous in time (each event has a prior cause which is an effect of another prior cause), we have no freedom at this level of phenomena. The totality of the 4th density field of possibilities is veiled from us and leaves us with no more freedom than the causally simple stimulus-response theories of the behaviorists. Our actions are a result of causal processes, controlled and devised at the 4th density or Noumenal level of reality, and freedom at this 3rd density level is impossible unless we access the 4th density causal level by SEEING via the clues apparent in 3rd density.

If we can SEE the true field of options, we can choose our ALIGNMENT. THAT'S IT! But, alignment choices seem to have far-reaching effects in terms of 3rd density empirical experience.

What this means is that, as long as we do not engage in disciplined efforts to widen our perception into ethereal realms, we appear to have little freedom within the field to behave other than we do. The more aware of the Noumenal/causal realm, the more free will we can have. And this is because we are overcoming the damping effect of matter and the predator's mind. By doing this, we are increasing our polarization to STO.

Schwaller and others have focused attention on the natural world, teaching that assimilation to, and activation of, the "neters" or principles of natural, physically manifested life, is the way to higher existence. This is predicated on the "feeding nature" of the natural world - the only one we know (according to Schwaller), and he proposes that doing this leads to a "higher reality" where feeding - prey and predation - are continuing constructs. For the Organic Portal, this may be entirely true and appropriate.

However, in the realms of consciousness, what is NOT materially oriented can only be "seated" via the mind, interfaced with the body via the brain - the very thing that Schwaller says must be used to "turn back" on consciousness - self-reflection and re-immersion into the physical realm.

We have brains that make us different from the animals, not to use them to figure out ways to become more animal, as Schwaller proposes, even if we are charged with learning from the natural world about spiritual principles, but so that we can use them to rise into realms of pure thought where we are no longer inhibited by the "emotions" of the body which are the "intelligence of the heart" as Schwaller defines it. Only in the realms of pure thought, consciousness, can we access purely abstract ideas such as what can be, what might have been, or what should be. These are ideas that can be dealt with via reason even if there are no apparent manifestations of them in our reality. And this is where disciplined effort to envision what has not (apparently) existed and does not (apparently) exist, but which MUST exist by virtue of the fact we can conceive it comes into play.

We are being challenged to conceive of a world where such "natural" interactions do not exist, where consumption and absorption are not the rule, are not the norm. We are being challenged to conceive of a world that is not represented in our purely service to self reality - a world where honest asking and honest giving from a position of pure free will is the norm.

But Schwaller and his followers - Maynerd Most AKA Dr. Strange, and Alvin Wiley and others - say we must increase the frequency resonance vibration of this STS world. Most has written:

"Before our trip to Egypt, Darlene and I had both studied and prepared ourselves to do serious magick in the temples. We were on a quest, a serious attempt to create a Zodiacal Earth Temple back in North Carolina that required us to charge crystals and do other magickal procedures.

Unfortunately, we were also in a large group of new age type spiritual consumers.

"The group's leader chose to be threatened by our project, and we found ourselves in the position of asking for divine guidance. Should we go along with the group vibe, or should we move out on our own and do the work? This was extremely important to us. We needed to know.

"At Edfu, where the friction between the leader and ourselves had boiled over, we made contact with a Sufi group. At Luxor, we were met with open arms by the local Sufis. This helped us to strike out on our own. At Karnak we were led through a series of chambers and structures, including a small Osiris chapel out near the eastern wall. We had no idea or plan, we simply followed their guidance and charged our crystals and did our work at the places they showed us. I knew of the Ptah temple on the north wall and its Sekhmet statue, and planned to stop there for guidance. I didn't know that our guides had the same idea. I insisted on following the path shown in the guide book, instead of following the directions of our guide, and so we found them waiting for us.

"It was early in the morning, we had been there at dawn, and the Sufi was waiting on us to open the site for the day. He unlocked the temple, then closed the door behind us. We groped forward in the complete blackness until we turned a corner and saw the statue floating in a shaft of light coming from a small hole about ten feet over Her head. The Sufi showed us how to make our prostrations before the Goddess, then left us alone.

"We did the prostrations and asked the Goddess what to do about our situation. As we finished, I looked up directly at the statue and was shocked to see Her eyes. My first thought was, 'Wow, what an incredible use of faience, I've never seen anything like that!'

"As I looked more closely, I saw that this could not possibly be a trick of the light on jewels or enamel. These were eyes; the irises were a deep green like new foliage and the pupil bent back at the top like a fan. The Goddess was there, in that statue, and She was looking at me. It was a shock. Except I couldn't move. I was pinned like a small animal in the headlights of an oncoming truck. We are small, so very small, and the Gods are vast, vast beyond our comprehension.

"We received our answer, and as we finished our little ritual, the Sufi came back and showed us how to make a direct contact with the energy of the statue. I found myself clinging to the Goddess, crying my heart out. A very heavy initiatory experience, indeed."

Those who believe that enhancing or activating the "material world intelligence of the heart" as promoted by Schwaller, are merely diving BACK into the soup. They are in no way reaching for the pure consciousness of higher awareness. They may think that by aligning themselves with the Egyptian neters, Sekhmet, and so on, that they are achieving this "higher state," but since those "resonance fields" relate strictly to physical existence, the only result will be to strengthen the resonance of matter in their reality. They will enhance the ties to the 3rd density realm.

The C's say we must rise into realms of consciousness to graduate to a world that is completely different from the one we know - and only in the realm of the mind can it be conceived and born.

In the deepest terms, reason is more than the domain of possibilities; it is also the realm of possible empirical worlds, of analytic constructions, of alternate conceptions, and of potential frameworks for the very conditions of experience. Because we can think about things that we have never experienced with any of our senses, we can understand that reason, making use of knowledge and awareness, can be independent of the "real world."

Therefore, it is also possible that Reason, supported by knowledge and awareness, followed by choice, stands in causal relation to phenomena.

In other words, if your knowledge and awareness of the reality lead you to the conclusion, via reason, that the reality is controlled, and you are not free within it, yet you can develop or comprehend the idea of a world that is NOT controlled, that is NOT limited, you can CHOOSE to align yourself with such a possible world in a deep and conscious way. This choice of alignment then becomes your connection to a THOUGHT CENTER. And the stronger your connection to the Thought Center, which is in the causal realm, the more it will manifest in your reality.

Our reality is masked as a medium for growth. And what we are growing is our Will which, when aligned with a given Thought Center, allows that Thought Center to manifest its Will in our reality to the extent we are in alignment and can be amplified! To be in alignment with the STO Thought Centers results in an increase of Spiritual consciousness and a diminishment of the "sleeping" consciousness of matter. To align with the STS Thought Centers, as Schwaller and others teach, results in an increase of the "sleeping consciousness," or "Wishful Thinking" of matter, and a diminishment of Spiritual Consciousness.

However, there is a kind of person who has some sort of "inner inclination" for Truth. They are simply unable to accept anything else. They cannot be satisfied until they have peeled the onion to the very core. And these keep their eyes on the goal of Truth.

The seeker of truth continues to gather knowledge in the same way the servants in the Parable of the Talents continued to "invest" their money. Gathering knowledge without prejudice inevitably leads to humility. Humility added to knowledge inevitably leads to self-recognition. And self-recognition becomes the companion that enables a person to navigate the emotions and illusions that seek to distract us and blind us! Finally, self-recognition, which is the ultimate state of Humility, leads us to PURE WILL.

Now, notice, it didn't say STRONG will, just pure. A person's "will to be" is his natural frequency. And, when you marry will to knowledge, you have hope of using the will in a particular way. This Will is the "mustard seed" of the Biblical parable. Again: Will to Be, or orientation, is your Frequency.

Application of will via knowledge, to choices produces FREQUENCY RESONANCE VIBRATION in the consciousness which can then manifest in the experience of the individual.

Frequency Resonance Vibration is directly related to what is called Forced Oscillation. Any wave system may be driven by a force from the "outside." Whenever a system is made to vibrate by a periodic force, the resulting motion is called Forced Oscillation. An example would be the glass that shatters when the opera singer hits the "right note."

Forced Oscillations take place with the frequency of the driving force rather than with the natural frequency of the system. The amplitude of the response depends on how the driving frequency is related to the natural frequency. If these frequencies are nearly the same, even a very weak driving force can, in time, feed enough energy into the system to give it a large amplitude of motion. This condition is called Resonance.

Everybody has probably pushed a child on a swing. What you notice is, after a series of very strong pushes to get the swing going, you can stand there and just give an occasional push or "tap" to keep the same swinging motion going. But, as every parent knows, it has to be given at exactly the right instant. The tap must be applied in the same direction, and at the very instant of the swinging away motion for it to work. If you give a push at intervals instead of at every return, you will find that an increase of force is necessary depending on how many times you let the swing come and go before applying another tap. If you set up a series of "every other return" before pushing, you will have to apply the exact same force at each of these arbitrarily determined intervals which will be a multiple of the force you would have to apply if you pushed with every single return. These intervals of pushing at arbitrarily designated returns are submultiples of the natural frequency. And, as you see from this example, they can produce the same resonance also, the Frequency Resonance Vibration being the swinging in response to being pushed.

If the pushes are continued, and if the swing had long enough ropes and a brave enough child, a regular series of pushes could eventually launch the child into outer space!

But, you will notice that if the pushes are not given at the right moment, if they are not constantly delivered either with every swing or in a submultiple, if no periodicity is maintained, the swing will slow down and stop. You will also notice that if you do not apply the pushes in a fixed period, the motion of the swing is erratic. And you will definitely notice that if you push at the wrong moment, or against the swing direction, you will cause it to slow down! In such a case, you are taking energy away from the system.

The very same principles apply to Forced Oscillation of any wave whether it is a sound wave, radio wave, light wave or whatever. In fact, it could be said that light is produced is Forced Oscillations of atoms. All things in nature which are a "response to a stimulus" are Forced Oscillations.

The consciousness of a human being could be considered to be a series of Forced Oscillations either from his own will and consciousness, or from the will and consciousness of others.

And here we come to the problem:

Besides depending on how close the driving frequency is to the natural frequency, the amplitude of response of the forced vibrations of a system also depends on the strength of the damping. The less damping there is, the greater the response of resonance. The resonance frequency is always lower than the natural frequency but gets very close as the damping is reduced.

[Freeman, *Physics
Principles and Insights*,
1973]

Now, as we have said, a human being is a combination of frequencies of the cellular structure, the etheric/genetic body, and the consciousness orientation. If these different frequencies operate in harmonious submultiples of a certain fundamental frequency, we say that the system is in harmony, that is to say, there is Harmonious Frequency Resonance.

We can also say that, by changing one of the frequencies and amplifying it, the others may be brought into harmony by the process of Forced oscillation IF the natural frequency of each is a harmonic of, or is close to, the driving frequency.

At the same time, the act of changing ANY of the frequencies can be accomplished by Forced Oscillation from the "outside," whether for harmony or not. That is to say, if the forced oscillation is not close to the natural frequency, there will be less amplitude.

Now, a human being, in general, is under the powerful influence of the matter of which his body is constructed. Matter is the result of the STS "Thought of Non-being," or "Sleeping Consciousness" of God. Therefore, in a general sense, by being in 3rd density, to a great extent, man is "asleep;" he is under the influence of the frequency of the STS polarity. His Frequency Resonance Vibration is STS, or that of matter/contraction - the predator's mind.

But, man has a possibility of CHANGING FREQUENCY, aligning with STO polarity, IF he can find that part of himself that is truly of Service to Others and AMPLIFY it through the process of Frequency Resonance Vibration, resulting from the Forced Oscillation of making choices of alignment with the STO thought center. It is only his Will that can do this, and it is only WHEN it is "married to knowledge" so that he can truly KNOW what his choice is and how to implement it. These choices are the "pushes" of the swing. If sufficient amplitude is achieved, ALL of his other frequencies will also gradually move into Frequency Resonance Vibration.

Of course, this process is not only dependent upon the natural frequency of the individual, but also upon the dampers that may be in place that can restrict the amplitude. The fewer dampers, the greater the amplitude that can be achieved with the least application of energy.

We have to discover and remove the "dampers" to our systems.

Again, it is in the gaining of knowledge that we can remove the dampers, little by little. It is hard work and it is painful. But as we do this, we come, step by step, to the position of humility and self-knowledge that enables the alignment of the will. If the natural frequency of STO is present in the moment of choice, this pure will "becomes the friend of the highest of knowledge" and they "enter into a bond of eternal union." And one is then able to connect with the Eternal Creative Light within, which then becomes the Forced Oscillator that changes the Frequency Resonance Vibration in dramatic and life changing ways. This amounts to giving up self-will to allow the greater will of the Thought Center to manifest. The manifestation of this in one's daily life via choices become "pushes" of the swing of the etheric/genetic body and the atomic signature of the cellular structure which then changes the entire reality.

When we finally achieve Self-recognition/humility, we understand that it is implementation of our choices at THIS 3rd density level that increases the amplitude of our Frequency Resonance Vibration, which IS, in actuality, our polarization. Amplitude constitutes our "ripeness" for advancement to the next density. What we are choosing is, in effect, which part we will play in the NEXT cycle of creation! What we do now determines our course into either consciousness that creates, or the intensely contractile Thought of Nonbeing that "goes to sleep" as primal matter. Neither of them are "higher" frequencies, they are DIFFERENT.

Mass and "Spring Constant" are the determinants of Frequency in material terms. Using the principle of "As above, so below," we must assume that similar constructs apply to "spiritual frequencies." The Spring Constant is the measure of the force needed to extend the mass by an arbitrary measure. Mass, since it relates to matter, in spiritual terms is analogous to "sleeping consciousness" or IGNORANCE. This means that the fundamental "ignorant" or "sleeping" nature of the STS orientation equates to greater mass AND Spring Constant. Greater mass and Spring Constant require greater strength of Forced Oscillation to produce Frequency Resonance Vibration even if the Natural Frequency is very close to the frequency of the Forced Oscillator. Thus, since the "Natural Frequency" of the human being is that of matter to the greatest extent, it is more inclined to be influenced by the STS polarity Forced Oscillation.

Less mass and Spring Constant are the result of knowledge. Knowledge is a function of consciousness, and all knowledge that IS knowledge and not assumption, prejudice or illusion, increases consciousness.

Q: (L) We have been discussing memories and how memories of, say, past lives are stored, and that leads to the question of what is the structure and composition of the soul? How does the soul remember? How does it carry its memories from lifetime to lifetime, from body to body, whether simultaneous or sequential? How does the soul "store" them?

A: Has to do with atomic principles. These with gravity present the borderland for the material and the nonmaterial.
Which theoretical atomic particulates would you think form the basis here?

Q: (L) How about tachyons?

A: Maybe neutrons?
Neutrinos.

Q: (A) Neutrinos are funny particles because they are massless. But, some people don't believe that neutrinos exist. Do they exist?

A: Okay, we are going to throw caution to the "winds," and say yes.

[Laughter.]

Q: (L) In terms of these neutrinos and soul composition, how are memories formed or held or patterned with these neutrinos?

A: Contained within for release when and if suitable.

Q: (L) Memories are contained within the neutrinos?

A: Sort of.

Q: (L) Are they contained within patterns formed by the neutrinos?

A: Closer.

Q: (L) So, that means that if one "consciousness unit," or soul, has more memories or experiences than another consciousness unit, it would have more neutrinos?

A: No.

Q: (L) What's the difference?

A: More data per unit, sort of.

Q: (L) Does that mean that an individual neutrino can be, in and of itself, more "dense" in data, so to speak?

A: So to speak.

Q: (L) Does this increased density of data change the nature or function of the individual neutrino?

A: Maybe it changes the function of the awareness, thus the environs.

Q: (L) Is there a specific number of neutrinos that constitutes a consciousness unit, or soul?

A: Number is not quite the right concept. Orientation is closer.

Q: (L) What are the orientational options?

A: Vibrational frequencies.

Q: (L) Do the vibrational frequencies increase or decrease with density of data?

A: Change; better not to quantify.

Note that the nature of the soul is fundamentally changed by changing the ORIENTATION of the basic units and orientation has to do with CHANGING frequencies. And the process of changing orientation or frequency is dependent on increasing the data within the basic units; making them more "dense." Vibrational Frequencies change with increase of density of data.

Increase of data changes the frequency in a natural way from the orientation of STS to that which is closer to STO which results in a reduction in Mass and Spring Constant which means that less energy must be input from the Forced Oscillator in order to produce Frequency Resonance Vibration!

This is why it is "easier" to increase amplitude via the STO alignment. This is why it is "easier" to graduate to 4th density via the STO alignment. This is also WHY all the dampers and controls are held so tightly in place. The STS gang do not WANT humans to graduate to 4th density and that is why they create beliefs and illusions and controls that are designed to induce us to make STS choices no matter what we do. As long as we believe lies, we are aligned with STS. As long as we are aligned with STS, our Mass and Spring Constant make it impossible for us to increase our amplitude for graduation.

And this points up another fact. In order to graduate to 4th density via the STS pathway, several conditions must be met. First, nearly ALL of the dampers to STS, or STO inclinations of the individual, must be removed to increase the potential for amplification. Second, the natural frequency of the individual, which we already know is a function of choice, must be so close to the pure STS frequency as to be almost identical in order for the Forced Oscillation from the higher density Thought Center to have any effect at all. This means that the degree and depth of depravity, malignity, malevolence, degeneration and contraction must be VERY pure in the individual.

When you "grok" the level of STS that has to be present in an individual in order to GRADUATE to 4th density STS, the "purity" of the evil - the consciousness of it - well, it is a pretty horrifying thought. It's like Ted Bundy, Albert Fish, Ed Gein, and Jeffrey Dahmer all rolled into one and amplified exponentially! Not only that, SMARTER! Such beings would not have the damping effect of any STO frequencies on the STS frequency; efforts would be made to reduce, or eliminate entirely, any residual STO inclinations which might act to "expose" them in their moments of STO "weakness." That is TRULY scary. Something we need to keep in mind. Such a being would be able to ACT in any way they chose, without glitches that "give them away," to disarm and deceive in order to get their prey where they want them.

Unfortunately, a mixture of STS and STO choices do NOT add up to graduation to 4th density STS. All they do is damp each other, thus making it less likely that any amplification will occur. The person who wishes to pursue the STS pathway with the intent of "graduating" has to give up any and all thoughts of experiencing love or kindness that is freely given. Yes, they can be in "love" relationships and can "act" kind. But, at this level, it is all PURE manipulation for the purpose of "owning" or subsuming to the self the energies of others. Yet, there ARE those to whom this path is attractive.

However, this is not clearly seen at the lower densities until the masks are stripped away. The deepest implications of this are hidden by many veils. And even the 4th and 5th density STS participants do not necessarily comprehend the ultimate dissolution at the end of their philosophies which is why there are so many sources at higher levels that are convinced that they are teaching Love and Light and Truth and Beauty, and why so many on 3rd density are deceived by these teachings. They believe because it "feels good," or because they "want to." And this belief that is sustained in the face of all empirical evidence to the contrary amounts to "Wishful Thinking." It is seeing what one WANTS to see, rather than what IS. Ultimate Wishful Thinking.

Of course, that means we have some details to hammer out here. Like the fact that, every single day we make choices and every one of these choices either amplifies our Frequency Resonance Vibration, or damps it. The Lizzies want to damp all our choices so that we will neither be able to polarize NOR increase amplitude. They have a nice little thing going here and they will do anything to keep it going.

One of the problems we face is the fact that, very often the desire of human beings at this 3rd level of density to experience Light and Love and Truth and Beauty, to be One, in a harmony of similar goals and objectives of peace and tranquillity, kindness, devotion, respect and concord, is manipulated by those beings who live in fear of losing self, twisted and distorted to mean a contraction into sameness rather than harmonious variety.

In human terms, this "fear of losing self" and need to "become One" is not always expressed by overt domination, subjugation. It is often expressed by the dynamic of absorption of other consciousness into a single ideal, narrowly defined by human terms of "love and light." Very often the ideals of Love and Light are twisted to mean the DENYING the Free Will of others to make their own choices.

In fact, the idea that "evil/darkness" is a rebellion, a fault, a thing to be done away with, is the "twist" in all the teachings of history that have laid the groundwork for domination and absorption by the forces of Service to Self. In terms of monotheism, this idea of "saving the world" has manifested the fruits of the many slaughters that have been instituted in the name of Unity, and Love. Because of this perceived need to "fix" or "change" or "transform" other people or situations, those whose inner inclination is actually STO are induced to damp their own STO frequency. If, in the act of giving or sending love, or any act whatsoever you deny the Free Will of another, you are "damping" your STO FRV. And remember, we are not talking about Free Will in the simplistic terms of being able to "do as one chooses" without restriction." So we aren't talking about not putting criminals in jail for breaking the law! In fact, putting a criminal in jail so that he can fully enter into his freely chosen lesson can be PURE STO! It's the old "don't do the crime if you can't do the time" cliché. By doing the crime, the individual has CHOSEN the consequences at some level.

Each and every time we participate in Wishful Thinking, we are polarizing to Service to Self because wishful thinking is the essence of the constructed defense against the fear of Non being. Thus, when we live in illusions, we are, by default, electing to be part of the STS hierarchical Food Chain. The illusions in which we participate are generally projections of higher density Service to Self beings, and are set up to produce the negative polarization energy of those on 3rd density which supports and maintains the 4th density STS beings so that they can continue to project the illusion! This results in the inability of human beings to see what is truly of STO, which prevents their making STO choices, which damps their FRV, and keeps them in the cycle.

The work of developing Free Will is to stop believing lies. At the same time, the only way to really learn this is to "try on" the lies until the external evidence mounts so high that one is forced to the ultimate choice of Choosing to continue in the lie in the face of the evidence that it is a lie, or to choose to see only the truth.

Such a choice is a "Causal act" of polarization. It is an alignment of choice.

"Making the choice" only comes to those who are ready, those who have reached that point on the "learning cycle." None of us can skip this step, and none of us can make it for others. And, in fact, the greatest gift we can give to "save" another is to RELEASE them fully into their chosen creations/ lessons.

The deepest realization of this choice "hits home" when you understand that the greatest illusions that are chosen by us are those of our closest relationships. Jesus said:

"Do not think that I have come to bring peace upon the earth; I have not come to bring peace but a sword." For I have come to part asunder a man from his father, and a daughter from her mother, and a newly married wife from her mother-in-law; and a man's foes will be they of his own household. He who loves and takes more pleasure in father or mother than in Me is not worthy of Me; and he who loves and takes more pleasure in son or daughter than in Me is not worthy of me; And he who does not take up his cross and follow Me is not worthy of Me. Whoever finds his [lower] life will lose the [higher] life and whoever loses his [lower] life on My account will find [the higher life]. [Matt. 10: 35-39, Amplified, Zondervan]

Every situation or dynamic in which we find ourselves demands a RESPONSE. To not respond is, of course, a choice to accede to the dynamic as IT is. This means that the only true response we can give is to BE more fully and strongly what we have chosen. Consciously. And only by doing this do we progress to the next level.

And it is in this matter of choosing orientation and amplification that the terms of Service to Others and Service to Self become the most important ideas presented to humans in the present time.

In practical terms, how do we "grow stronger" in our polarity? If it is to be of the Service to Others alignment, isn't it just necessary to give? Isn't that the only key? And don't the Service to Self polarized beings just take?

From one perspective, it would seem that the most accepting and loving thing to do would be to love ALL - to surround all those of the Service to Self alignment with Love and Light so that they would be enclosed and permeated with this love which would then transform them to the Service to Others alignment.

But note immediately that, in these terms, the sending of love is intended to CHANGE, to TRANSFORM, to DENY FREE WILL. And thus, by simply doing this, one is aligning with the very Orientation that seeks to deny Free Will, i.e. STS. The result is that the very love energy being sent IS Service to Self Forced Oscillation!

And what will it then do? It will AMPLIFY the STS frequency in the person or situation it is being sent to transform. It will do the opposite of what is wanted, but exactly what is INTENDED.

Service to Self seeks to dominate and take all to stuff in its black hole of fear. To send love (or to give anything) with the intention of changing, transforming or to make anything different than what it is, is to seek DOMINATION.

For the Service to Others polarity to allow itself to be manipulated by deceptive teachings of "sending love and light to transform the world," amounts to the ipso facto acceptance of dominance. The damping of its own frequency; the loss of amplitude.

Service to Others seeks to give ALL of self to others. But, because the chief thing it wishes to give is Free Will, it only gives when ASKED.

Sounds like a marriage made in Heaven, yes? One side wants to take, one side wants to give. Go for it, right?

The idea that those of the STO frequency must not give without being asked is a subtle thing. The concept inherent in "asking" is that of willing exchange. The asking is the giving of the asker. The response is the giving of the askee. If there is anything in either of them that expects any change OTHER than the explicit asking and giving, the interaction falls into STS and not STO.

However, if one can ask, and one can give without expectation of any change of any kind in the receiver, the STO dynamic is operational.

If there is even a hidden motive that anything will be changed by the exchange, the result is damping of the STO frequency.

When you give in response to manipulation, which is a domination dynamic, you are also giving from a position of STS, which is further Self-damping to STO orientation and amplifying to STS. And then, on top of self damping, you are losing energy, because there is no willing exchange!

The end result of giving Love energy to the STS polarity is to gradually deplete the STO polarity in the self as well as in the grander scheme of things, and eventually, to deprive all those of that polarity from shared, symbiotic sustenance. One has then, by default, become part of the STS hierarchy and has lost any usefulness in terms of Service to Others. And if you are seeking to polarize in the STO mode, you must gain energy by alignment and amplification to move OUT of the STS realm into an STO dynamic where all give to each other and there is multiplication of force in the act, rather than depletion.

The STS side wants to manipulate enslavement. The STO side must refuse in order to retain their strength and purity and ability to actualize Free Will for ALL.

The essence of Creation is the fact that, beneath the empirical, observable "real world" is the realm of potentials and our physical world is manifested out of the underlying potentialities by our perspective. The "gift of Free Will" of the Creator is our ability to CHOOSE our perspective. We can choose "living water" that becomes "a spring of water welling up continually within," to "eternal life/creation," or we can choose the water from the "well of Jacob the supplanter," which will leave us thirsty again and again. And it is in this choice that we come to the remark of Don Juan "... As awareness reaches levels higher than the toes, tremendous maneuvers of perception become a matter of course."

The problem is, in the beginning, when we begin to use discipline to try to "see the unseen," we are like a blind man stumbling through a maze. We are Theseus in the lair of the Minotaur, guided only by the thread of Ariadne. Our ability to perceive the Noumenal world, the activities of 4th density, requires great attention, great discipline, and an ability to "face with serenity odds that are not included in our expectations." We have to learn the art of "facing infinity without flinching." And it is this process that the Cassiopaeans are facilitating. What they tell us about the Noumenal world, the 4th density realm, is not supposed to terrify us in the end, it is supposed to wake us up to the odds that are facing us that are NOT according to our expectations.

And, as we begin to learn to really SEE, we begin to make some experimental choices based on what we are seeing. Some of them work, some of them don't. We adjust our course gradually, learning what amplifies our polarity and what damps our polarity.

Every choice that supports Free Will for any being, whether that being is using their Free Will to choose to deny free will to either themselves or others, to the extent Free Will is maintained for all involved, is a choice FOR Free Will at the deepest levels of existence. But notice the key: to support Free Will of others to choose and fully experience their own path - and that does NOT mean to support the choice they have made by participating in their lesson! To participate in the choice of orientation of another is to make it your own. It can then act as a damper to your own amplification.

This means that the ability to support Free Will in others which lies in the STO pathway MUST remain pure and must NOT be subsumed into the STS alignment or Free Will for all could cease to exist in our present reality which would create an imbalance of such awesome proportions that I shudder to consider the consequences. In fact, it could even be said that learning the true dynamics of Service to Others and Free Will in the cadres of those who have the internal inclination, and to begin to practice it, might considerably ameliorate any predicted cataclysms. One thing that is certain, however, to continue to violate Free Will by all the "Love and Light" efforts to change the world, to "transform the darkness into light" will result in nothing but worsening conditions on our planet by the very fact that they amplify the STS polarity.

In the broadest sense, the human being who has mastery over his own life, is a Shaman. And those of you who resist this process most strenuously are most likely the ones with the greatest Shamanic capacity. Will is will. It just needs to be married to knowledge.

It has been observed that the desire of the human being to enter into ecstatic contact with the Divine is in direct conflict with the fear of being obliged to renounce the simple human condition. We can see, from our discussion above, that this is, essentially, the conflict between Service to Others and Service to Self. The work to gather the knowledge and become humble and face the deep inner truth about the self is the price, and not everyone is able to pay it. And this is the human dilemma. There is nothing more cozy than to be a human being. We can live forever behind veils of illusion, suffering our blindness, and dying in our ignorance; and, until some aspect of that human has had its fill of suffering and death, there will be no desire to venture into the unknown to seek the cure for the human disease. Only the soul that is ready for this definitive journey is willing to risk the soul chilling fear of traveling into the enchanted forest of the Cosmos, in order to experience the unspeakable joy of finding the Grail - the choice for Free Will Service to Others that serves ALL.

A Shaman is, as Eliade describes, a Technician of Ecstasy. This is an essential qualification and/or result of contact with the Divine. More than that, in order to be in direct contact with the Divine, the human being must be able to "see the unseen." This Seeing is the capacity of human beings to enlarge their perceptual field until they are capable of assessing not only outer appearances, but also the essence of everything in order to access the level of being that enables them make choices that are capable of initiating a new causal series.

Of course, problems arise when an individual attempts to be a Shaman without knowledge. A recent correspondent sent us some information about a popular channeled source that claims to be teaching a new perspective on physics.

Dear Ark and Laura,
I don't know much about Scalar Waves, certainly not enough to know whether or not the site below's information on Scalar Waves is useful, but I pass the information along to you. I have heard Anna Hayes speak on the Jeff Rense radio show, and she made a good impression as an apparently calm and knowledgeable person.

Ark went to the site in question and began to read. After a period of study, he responded as follows:

Hi _____,
While reading:

"Dimensions are interwoven layers of scalar waves that serve to direct the flow of consciousness/energy into multiple patterns of refraction through which the hologram of matter density, linear time and manifest objectification of reality can be experienced. Dimensions exist in precise relationship to each other creating a 90-degree difference in Angular Rotation of Particle Spin between dimensional bands. Scalar Waves are points of Standing Waves, composed of quantities of consciousness, that emanate out of fixed points of vibration which form ultra-micro-particle units called Partiki, Partika and Particum. Scalar Waves exist within a fixed Scalar Field that forms the Universal Unified Field of consciousness/energy. Fixed scalar waves appear to move due to a perpetual action of internal fission and fusion, through which series of scalar standing wave points 'flash on and off' creating perpetual rhythms of motion called 'flash-line sequences' through which continual manifestation and de-manifestation of matter occurs."

I can't help thinking that it is a pity that a person that evidently knows nothing about waves, dimensions, particle spin etc. chooses to "TEACH" others on these subjects. But, on the other hand, creating more confusion is what the Lizzies must have on their mind. And they seem to be successful. On the other hand, we are in a Free Will Universe - it is up to each person to choose the path and the "teacher." Thanks for the link - it helps me.

Best,
ark.

As it happened, the response was also sent to a promoter of the above channeling who then responded:

Hi:
One doesn't need to know anything on a specific topic when the information isn't coming from oneself but from a higher source.
Love, Light, and Joy

Aside from the fact that actually reading that nonsense is an energy drain, such a perspective does NOT resonate with the Cassiopaeian information in which independent study and gaining of knowledge is urged as the only means by which we can be protected from being led into "traps." Ark replied:

Sure, but to check whether the information comes from a higher source or lower source, it is always necessary first to check whether the information makes any sense or is just a mumbo-jumbo. There are lot of dead dudes and other entities that are more than ready to pour all kinds of nonsense into our heads. Real research is ALWAYS necessary. How else can we know we are not being disinformed? You must never RELY on what the entities tell you. You always have to check and keep critical! Unless you WANT to live in an illusion. Many people do.

Best,
ark

Anyone can be a channel. But it takes knowledge and WILL to be able to CHOOSE who or WHAT one will channel.

One of the hardest things for anyone to acknowledge is their own susceptibility to suggestion, manipulation and external control. No one wants to admit that their awareness can be manipulated. Yet, without exception, all of the Mystery Teachings tell us that the first order of business in expanding awareness is to overcome the hypnosis, or "sleep state" in which man exists. And, without exception, all of the Mystery Teachings tell us that this is so formidable a task that only one in ten thousand can achieve it!

Think about this for a moment. Nine thousand, nine hundred ninety-nine people will react to this statement by thinking: "I am the one in ten thousand!" The Great Masters will tell you that if you think this, then you are NOT!

It is the one who realizes that all of his perceptions must be minutely scrutinized, doubted, tested, examined and challenged who has the smallest hope of escaping the hypnosis!! And, to realize this is but the first in a long series of steps to awakening. And, remember, awakening is not the same thing as seeing! Many can see in expanded awareness, but immediately go back to sleep and what they saw is interpreted by the standards of the "hypnotic sleep state" of ordinary awareness. This is what happens to most of those who claim to channel with no need to "check their sources!" And, as Ark wrote, "to check whether the information comes from a higher source or lower source, it is always necessary first to check whether the information makes any sense or is just a mumbo-jumbo. ...Real research is ALWAYS necessary. ... You must never RELY on what the entities tell you. ... Unless you WANT to live in an illusion."

And, from my perspective, the main reason such "seers" do not doubt, test, examine and challenge their so-called "guides" is due purely and simply to ego. They have been told that they are "special" or "chosen" or are the "messenger" of this or that "council" or the "heavenly host" or whatever, and it is far easier and more comfortable to believe this, and the further instruction that "all you need to do is listen to us!" than to exert the enormous efforts required to acknowledge, and extirpate the ego's weaknesses, the chief one being, of course, susceptibility to manipulation by forces far more devious than the human mind can fathom.

Don Juan says that Seers must be paragons of virtue by their will and intent in order to override the nearly invincible laxness of the human condition and programming. To say "One doesn't need to know anything on a specific topic when the information isn't coming from oneself but from a higher source," is so astonishing an example of this laxness and manipulation that it is difficult to understand how a person can write it without being immediately assaulted by the insanity of such a view!

One of the necessary conditions of learning to truly SEE is to be able to bring the mind to focus on anything with uncommon force and clarity. Yet, what is learned during these periods of focus is usually unavailable to normal recall." [Castaneda, The Fire From Within, 1984]

Obviously, great polarized strength is necessary here. SEEING is to witness the unknown and to glimpse the unknowable. The unknown is veiled from man but is within the reach of man's reason if he is sufficiently polarized and amplified! The unknowable is the indescribable, the unthinkable, and the unrealizable. It is something that may never be known to us in our human estate, but seers who are in the grip of laxness and programming don't let THAT stop them!

"...there have certainly been attempts to imbue the [ineffable unknown] with attributes [it] does not have. But that always happens when impressionable people learn to perform acts that require great sobriety. Seers come in all sizes and shapes. ...There are scores of imbeciles who become seers. Seers are human beings full of foibles, or rather, human beings full of foibles are capable of becoming seers. ...The characteristic of miserable seers is that they are willing to forget the wonder of the world. They become overwhelmed by the fact that they see and believe that it is their genius that counts. A seer must be a paragon in order to override the nearly invincible laxness of our human condition. More important than seeing itself is what seers do with what they see." [Castaneda, The Fire From Within, 1984]

Apparently the effort required to bring this learning to normal consciousness is staggering and impossible for most people because they have no "vessel of knowledge" prepared to receive it. He further tells us, and this is corroborated in other teachings, that to interact with the unknown, but that which is ultimately within the reach of knowing through great work, is energizing, exhilarating and fulfilling even when it is also full of apprehension and fear. It seems that one of the effects of enlargement of the perceptual field is a combination of sheer joy combined with a frightening feeling of sadness and longing. This is apparently because a full field of awareness includes all the opposites in perfect balance.

But, even on the level of the unknown that is ultimately accessible to human perception, Seers who truly See often go to pieces on finding out that existence is incomprehensibly complex and that our normal awareness distorts all and perverts with its limitations.

Don Juan remarked that:

"In the life of warriors it was extremely natural to be sad for no overt reason. ...Whenever the boundaries of the known are broken, a mere glimpse of the eternity outside is enough to disrupt the coziness of our controlled awareness. The resulting melancholy is sometimes so intense that it can bring about death. ... The best way to get rid of melancholy is to make fun of it." (Castaneda, 1984)

But, to interact with the unknowable is to become drained or confused, open to oppression and possession. The bodies of such seers lose tone, their reasoning becomes flawed, and their sobriety wanders aimlessly.

The Cassiopaeans have said:

A: The bottom line is this: You are occupying 3rd density. You are by nature, STS. You can be an STO candidate, but you are NOT STO until you are on 4th density. You will NEVER grasp the meaning of these attempted conceptualizations until you are at 4th and above.

To make this point a little clearer, let me add that, before the "Fall," human beings were 3rd density STO, which means that they were ALIGNED with 4th density STO. We have already discussed what this reality must have been like in terms of the megalith builders who were able, by their interaction with Celestial forces, to manifest all that was needed without assault on the environment of Earth.

Don Juan tells us that the Seers of ancient times were "men capable of inconceivable deeds. They were powerful sorcerers, somber and driven, who unraveled the secrets" of existence at our level. They were able to "influence and victimize people by fixating their awareness on whatever they chose." This is an important key in terms of Frequency Resonance Vibration that cannot be overstressed.

There are two positions in the study and understanding of awareness: Sorcerers vs. The Warrior Who Sees. They Both practice the same Seeing, the difference is Intent. The Sorcerer practices to control others. The Warrior practices to become Free.

The Cassiopaeans designate these two positions as "Service to Others," and "Service to Self." Those who wish to control others are Serving Self, those who wish to become free and help others who wish to become free are Serving Others.

Shaman is another way to describe the Warrior who practices to be free. A Shaman is not a magician or a sorcerer although he CAN play those roles if he chooses. He is not a healer, though he can play that role also. A Shaman is far more; he is a psychopomp, a priest, a mystic and a poet. Shamanism is NOT a religion, it is a function, a role, a magico-religious phenomenon specific to certain individuals who have ecstatic capacity permitting "magical flight" to higher realms, descent into the underworld to battle dark forces, mastery over fire, matter, time and space. Unfortunately, as Don Juan noted, in the present time, the Shamanic acts are acts of great laxity, distortion and aberration.

The word "shaman" comes to us through Russian from the Tungusic "saman." The word is derived from the Pali samana, (Sanskrit sramana), through the Chinese sha-men (a transcription of the Pali word).

The word shaman, may be related to Sarman. According to John G. Bennett, Sarmoung or Sarman:

"The pronunciation is the same for either spelling and the word can be assigned to old Persian. It does, in fact, appear in some of the Pahlawi texts...The word can be interpreted in three ways. It is the word for bee, which has always been a symbol of those who collect the precious 'honey' of traditional wisdom and preserve it for further generations. A collection of legends, well known in Armenian and Syrian circles with the title of The Bees, was revised by Mar Salamon, a Nestorian Archimandrite in the thirteenth century. The Bees refers to a mysterious power transmitted from the time of Zoroaster and made manifest in the time of Christ."

"Man" in Persian means "the quality transmitted by heredity and hence a distinguished family or race. It can be the repository of an heirloom or tradition. The word sar means head, both literally and in the sense of principal or chief. The combination sarman would thus mean the chief repository of the tradition..."

"And still another possible meaning of the word sarman is... literally, those whose heads have been purified." [John G. Bennett, Gurdjieff: Making of A New World]

Those whose heads have been purified! What an interesting idea! Especially when you consider the concept of Frequency Resonance Vibration and Orientation/Polarization.

We already suspect that these ideas are far older than Zoroaster. And for those who have supposed that the concept of the shaman was stimulated by Buddhism, I will point out that other studies have shown that, even before the intrusion of Buddhism into Central Asia, there was the cult of Buga, god of the sky, a celestial worship that antedates Sun and Moon worship.

The central theme of Shamanism is the "ascent to the sky" and/or the "descent" to the underworld. In the former, the practitioner experiences Ecstasy, in the latter, he battles demons who threaten the well being of humanity. There are studies that suggest evidence of the earliest practices are in the cave paintings of Lascaux with the many representations of the bird, the tutelary spirits, and the ecstatic experience (ca, 25,000 B.C.). Animal skulls and bones found in the sites of the European Paleolithic period (before 50,000 - ca. 30,000 B.C.) have been interpreted as evidence of Shamanic practice.

The "ecstatic experience" is the primary phenomenon of Shamanism, and it is this ecstasy that can be seen as the act of merging with the celestial beings. And merging results in Forced Oscillation that changes Frequency. Continued interaction with Celestial beings is a form of Frequency Resonance Vibration.

The idea that there was a time when man was directly in contact with the Celestial Beings is at the root of the myths of the Golden Age which have been redacted to the Grail stories of the 11th and 12th centuries. During this paradisaical time, it is suggested that communications between heaven and earth were easy and accessible to everyone. Myths tell us of a time when the "gods withdrew" from mankind. As a result of some "happening," i.e. "The Fall," the communications were broken off and the Celestial Beings withdrew to the highest heavens.

This is exactly what the Cassiopaeans have told us regarding our former alignment with 4th density STO and our present alignment with 4th density STS, and which we have examined to some extent in earlier sections of the present work.

But, the myths also tell us that there were still those certain people who were able to "ascend" and commune with the gods on the behalf of their tribe or family. Through them, contact was maintained with the "guiding spirits" of the group. The beliefs and practices of the present day shamans are a survival of a profoundly modified and even corrupted and degenerated remnant of this archaic technology of concrete communications between heaven and earth.

And, again, the Cassiopaeans suggested this perspective, which was confirmed in later studies. But we will come to that later.

The shaman, in his ability to achieve the ecstatic state inaccessible to the rest of mankind, was regarded as a privileged being. More than this, the myths tell us of the First Shamans who were sent to earth by the Celestial Beings to DEFEND human beings against the "negative gods" who had taken over the rule of mankind. It was the task of the First Shamans to activate, in their own bodies, a sort of "transducer" of cosmic energy for the benefit of their tribe. This was expressed as the concept of the "world tree," which became the "axis" or the Pole of the World and later the "royal bloodlines."

It does seem to be true that there is a specific relationship between this function and certain "bloodlines." But, as with everything that has been provided to help mankind, this concept has been co-opted by the forces seeking to keep mankind in darkness and ignorance. The true and ancient bloodlines of the First Shamans have been obscured and hidden by the false trail of the invented genealogies of the Hebrew Old Testament supposedly leading to certain branches of present day European royal and/or noble families, which seek to establish a counterfeit "kingship" that has garnered a great deal of attention in recent times.

As we have already noted, BEFORE the Fall, every human being had access to communication with the higher densities via the "Maidens of the Wells," or the union between the right and left hemispheres of the brain and alignment with the 4th density STO. Because of their alignment, their frequency, and the lack of STS dampers, it was a simple matter to amplify Frequency Resonance Vibration.

AFTER the Fall, it seems that a specific genetic variation was somatically induced by the incarnation of certain higher density beings who "gave their blood" for the "redemption of man." That is to say that they changed the body and DNA by Forced Oscillation. It is likely that this was done through the female incarnations because of the role of the mitochondrial DNA, but I don't want to get ahead of myself here, so we will leave that for the moment.

Nevertheless, the presence of this DNA, depending upon the terms of recombination, makes it very likely that there are literally millions of carriers of this bloodline/Shamanic ability on the earth today. And it is for all of YOU that these pages are being written.

In this present time, there are indications that Cosmic changes of monumental proportions are "in the wind." There are also indications that a particular "time element" is involved, and all the forces of darkness seek to deceive and obfuscate at levels never before achieved in order to distract, confuse, dilute and defuse the abilities of those who may be the bearers of the "circuits of change" for all humanity.

The Sufis have kept the "Technician of Ecstasy" concept alive in their tradition of the "Poles of the World." The kutub or q'tub (pole of his time) is an appointed being, entirely spiritual of nature, who acts as a divine agent of a sphere at a certain period in time. Each kutub has under him four awtads (supports) and a number of abdals (substitutes) , who aid him in his work of preserving and maintaining the world. The interesting thing about this idea is that the individual who occupies the position does not even have to be aware of it! His life, his existence, even his very physiology, is a function of higher densities extruded into 3rd density. That this has a very great deal to do with "bloodlines," as promulgated in recent times is true, but not necessarily in the ways suggested. Again, we will come to that soon enough.

Q: (L) But isn't the nature of a person determined by their soul and not the physical body?

A: Partially, remember, aural profile and karmic reference merges with physical structure.

Q: (L) So you are saying that particular genetic conditions are a physical reflection of a spiritual orientation? That the soul must match itself to the genetics, even if only in potential?

A: Yes, precisely.

Q: (L) So a person's potential for spiritual advancement or unfoldment is, to a great extent, dependent upon their genes?

A: Natural process marries with systematic construct when present.

[Cassiopaeans]

In the present time, it seems that those with the "bloodline" are awakening. It is no longer feasible to be a "Pole of the World" who is asleep, because, as we will soon examine, there are some very serious matters of choice and action that may be incumbent upon the awakened Shaman. The first order of business seems to be to awaken and accumulate strength of polarity.

Shamans are born AND made. That is to say, they are born to be made, but the making is their choice. And, from what I have been able to determine, the choice may be one that is made at a different level than the conscious, 3rd density linear experience. Those who have made the choice at the higher levels, and then have negated the choice at this level because they are not able to relinquish their ordinary life, pay a very high price, indeed.

A shaman stands out because of certain characteristics of "religious crisis." They are different from other people because of the intensity of their religious experiences. In ancient times, it was the task of the Shamanic elite to be the "Specialist of the Soul," to guard the soul of the tribe because only he could "see the unseen" and know the form and destiny of the Group Soul. But, before he acquired his ability, he was often an ordinary citizen, or even the offspring of a shaman with no seeming vocation (considering that the ability is reputed to be inherited, though not necessarily represented in each generation.)

At some point in his life, however, the shaman has an experience that "separates" him from the rest of humanity. This Native American "vision quest" is a survival of the archaic understanding of the natural initiation of the shaman who is "called" to his vocation by the gods. A deep study of the matter reveals that those who seek the magico-religious powers via the vision quest when they have not been "called" spontaneously, generally become the "Dark Shamans," or sorcerers; those who, through a systematic study, obtain the powers deliberately for their own advantage.

(Again, Don Juan's distinction between the Sorcerer and the Warrior who practices to be Free.)

The true Shamanic initiation comes by dreams, ecstatic trances combined with extensive study. A shaman is expected to not only pass through certain initiatory ordeals, but he/she must also be deeply educated in order to be able to fully evaluate the experiences and challenges that he/she will face. Unfortunately, until now, there have been precious few who have traveled the path of the Shaman, including the practice of the attendant skills of "battling demons," who could teach or advise a course of study for the Awakening Shaman.

The future shaman is traditionally thought to exhibit certain exceptional traits from childhood. He is often very nervous and even sickly in some ways. (In some cultures, epilepsy is considered a "mark" of the shaman, though this is a later corrupt perception of the ecstatic state.) It has been noted that shamans, as children, are often morbidly sensitive, have weak hearts, disordered digestion, and are subject to vertigo. There are those who would consider such symptoms to be incipient mental illness, but the fact is extensive studies have shown that the so-called hallucinations or visions consist of elements that follow a particular model that is consistent from culture to culture, from age to age, and is composed of an amazingly rich theoretical content. It could even be said that persons who "go mad," are "failed shamans" who have failed either because of a flaw in the transmission of the genetics, or because of environmental factors. At the same time, there are many more myths of failed Shamanic heroes than of successful ones, so the warnings of what can happen have long been in place. Mircea Eliade remarks that:

... The mentally ill patient proves to be an unsuccessful mystic or, better, the caricature of a mystic. His experience is without religious content, even if it appears to resemble a religious experience, just as an act of autoeroticism arrives at the same physiological result as a sexual act properly speaking (seminal emission), yet at the same time is but a caricature of the latter because it is without the concrete presence of the partner.
[Eliade, Shamanism, 1964]

Well, that's a pretty interesting analogy! It even suggests to us the idea that one who attempts to activate a Shamanic inheritance within the STS framework of Wishful Thinking, has an "illusory" partner as in the above described activity, with similar results. In other words, Sorcery is like masturbation: the practitioner satisfies himself, but his act does no one else any good. And, by the same token, a Shaman who operates without knowledge is like the proverbial premature ejaculation: he gets everybody all excited, and then leaves them hanging!

But, such amusing vulgarities aside (even if they DO make the point remarkably well) the thing about the shaman is that he/she is not just a sick person, he is a sick person who has been CURED, or who has succeeded in curing himself!! This point can't be overemphasized! Those who aspire to mysticism, to the Shamanic path, and who still remain frail or sickly in physical, material or spiritual terms, may not yet have been presented with the initiation, or, if they have, may have failed to pass. The possibility of achieving the Shamanic powers for Service to Self also exists, so great care has to be used in trying to "see the unseen."

In many cases, the "election" of the shaman manifests through a fairly serious illness which can only be cured by the "ascent to the sky." After the ecstatic vision of initiation, the shaman feels MUCH better! After the response to the calling of the gods, the shaman shows a more than normally healthy constitution; they are able to achieve immense concentration beyond the capacity of ordinary man; they can sustain exhausting efforts and, most importantly, they are able to "keep a cool head" in the face of experiences that would break an ordinary person.

Another point that should be emphasized is that the Shaman must be able to be in full control of himself even when in the ecstatic state! (Trance channelling with no memory of what transpired is NOT the activity of a fully fledged Shaman!) This ability to "walk in two worlds simultaneously" demonstrates an extraordinary nervous constitution. It has been said that, the Siberian shamans show no sign of mental disintegration well into old age; their memories and powers of self-control are WELL above average.

Don Juan calls this state being "impeccable." This idea is also reflected in the archaic systems of the Yakut, where the shaman must be "serious, possess tact, be able to communicate effectively with all people; above all, he must not be presumptuous, proud, ill-tempered." The true shaman emanates an inner force that is conscious, yet never offensive. At the same time, it should be noted that a true shaman may evoke very negative responses from those who are under the domination of the STS polarity.

Getting back to the infirmities, nervous disorders, illness of crisis and so forth that are the "signs of election," it is also noted that, sometimes an accident, a fall, a blow on the head, or being hit by lightning are the signs from the environment that the shaman has been elected. But, being "called" is not the same as being "chosen," or, more precisely, choosing. "Many are called; few choose to respond."

But, this choosing is a process. And it is a process of struggle and pain and suffering because, in the end, what is being killed is the ego.

So, in the Cosmic scheme of things, which is TRUE Love and Giving? To support and sustain a person in illusion with all the attendant "food" that is implicit in the marriage relationship, to continue to amplify their STS frequency, or to RELEASE them to lessons - the giving of what is truly appropriate to their actions/asking - that may eventually facilitate their own growth and/or initiation, if not in this life - in the next?

Of course, the question then becomes: can you withdraw support from the dynamic and still support the person? The fact is, in terms of soul choices, it is impossible to intimately support a person who is aligned to a certain soul choice without also supporting that person's choices.

But, it is here that a very hard look has to be taken at the self to inquire WHY you would want to continue to support and sustain a person who is part of a dynamic that you have chosen NOT to feed any longer? (Again, I repeat that what I am saying here is ONLY for those who have taken the step toward full initiation!)

Are you staying in the relationship because of financial considerations? Is it "for the children?" Or because you don't see how you could continue your path of learning without the financial backing of the marriage? If it is for financial considerations relating to yourself, it is easy to see that YOU are the vampire. You are offering an "illusion" of love and support in order to obtain something that YOU want or need. If you are staying for the sake of the children, you need to be very careful how you think this is going to benefit them. In the first place, at some soul level these children are learning by observing and experiencing. They observe and experience a vampire dynamic and they grow up to emulate it in their own lives. Is that what you want for your children? In another sense, if you are in a relationship where there is "feeding" going on, one or both of the marriage partners is going to HAVE to obtain energy from somewhere, and the most likely sources are going to be the children. Is THAT what you want?

The key is, can you stay in the relationship without EXPECTATION of ANYTHING being changed or made better by your presence and/or support?

The essential thing about the STO Shamanic path is to give only when ASKED. And then, to give ALL that is asked. This pretty much excludes giving to those of the STS orientation because they NEVER ask! They manipulate, they demand, they beg, they even ask with their words but not their actions. This issue of "asking" is a thing you can only see by seeing the unseen. Perhaps one way to think about it would be that you can tell if someone is really "asking" if there is NO expectation on their part that you will give to them what they are asking! And, there is no condition placed upon YOU as to whether or not you say yes or no. In other words, if you say "no," (because you cannot say yes for whatever reason) you are certain that there will be no break or decline in your relations. And the same thing applies to the self. If you "ask," are you really asking? Or, is there some string attached such as "if you love me you will say yes," or "see what I have done for you; now it's your turn," whether implied or not?

The essential thing to know is that Service to Others is the path of spiritual love, which is entirely distinct from the love of the world and self-love. The whole secret of True Magic lies within the laws of the divine proximity. As you grow closer to Love as God the creator expresses it, you grow closer to God. And God loves everything exactly as it is. That is WHY it IS!

The more a person becomes assimilated to the Service to Others orientation, the more effective his choices become, but, at the same time, to others his existence becomes incomprehensible.

Now, it is pretty easy to practice these terms when giving to strangers or associates that are not intimately involved in your life. It's a lot harder to do it in close, personal relationships! But that is where it is most essential for the Shaman!

The reason for this is the particular role the Shaman plays in the Cosmic dynamics of all times, and most especially the present - that of the Spiritual Warrior.

...Shamanism is important not only for the place that it holds in the history of mysticism. The shamans have played an essential role in the defense of the psychic integrity of the community. They are preeminently the antidemonic champions; they combat not only demons and disease, but also the black magicians. The exemplary figure of the shaman champion is the mythical founder of Nakhi shamanism, the tireless slayer of demons. The military elements that are of great importance in certain types of Asian shamanism are accounted for by the requirements of war against the demons, the true enemies of humanity. In a general way, it can be said that shamanism defends life, health, fertility, the world of "light," against death, diseases, sterility, disaster, and the world of "darkness." [Eliade, 1964]

The fundamental and universal function of the Shaman is to have the force necessary for what we call the struggle against "the powers of evil." This does NOT mean going and duking it out with a demon or arguing over which channeled information is right or wrong or praying for World Peace or sending Love and Light to war-torn Bosnia. It doesn't mean doing spirit release or exorcism (though it could include such things in certain circumstances).

What it DOES mean is the constant and ever present need to sustain a very particular Frequency Resonance. What the Shaman represents is a "Pole of the World," through which the energies of Creation can be transduced into 3rd density. They are required to manifest in their bodies certain frequencies that can only be developed in relationships where the life force of the Shaman is ENHANCED by the interaction, not drained.

And, the "battling of demons" is clearly a clue that the STO Shaman must amplify the STO frequency and avoid amplification of the STS dynamic. That is where the true battle is being fought.

In the stories of the ancient Shamans of great power, it is often noted that, if they become a Shaman at a point in their life when they have a spouse and family, very often the Shaman is given a new "spirit spouse" whose most important function is to prepare special food for the Shaman so that he/she can do the special work. Sometimes this "spirit spouse" was an actual "second wife" or husband, who moved in with the family. In cultures where Shamanism was understood, if the original wife was not "suitable," she at least understood the necessity for a "special wife" to fulfill the function of "feeding the shaman." Of course, there are some stories of first wives who did NOT take well to having a second wife, even if it was only a spirit and not embodied in another woman, and the result was generally a conflict that ended in the death of the first wife. (Or husband if the shaman was a woman.)

The point of this is not that it tells us something in a literal sense, but that it is symbolic of the the Shaman's spiritual need to interact with beings that "feed" rather than drain. A conclusion could be drawn that the STO Shaman must be in direct interaction, on an intimate level, only with someone who is "alike." In such a case their energies will exchange, commutate, and expand from the interaction. They will "push each other's swing." They will set up a Frequency Resonance Vibration between them that is so powerful that they will naturally "grow."

And, of course we know by now that the forces of darkness will bring forward many of their own candidates for this intimate interaction who are NOT alike for the purpose of making sure that the Shaman never gains sufficient strength. At the same time, the presence of the such persons in the Shaman's life CAN serve the all-important function of assisting in the "breaking down" and stripping of the flesh from the bones in preparation for the initiation. But, once the initiation has occurred, it is CRUCIAL for the Shaman to ACT in order to immediately strengthen his polarity. It is better to be in NO relationship than to be in one that both drains and damps the self and feeds and amplifies the STS frequency.

And by acting based on the subtle clues in his environment, including his own body, his ability to SEE grows as well. And when his ability to see increases, he is better able to make choices based on seeing the unseen which act in a beneficial way for the entire STO polarity. The more the Shaman exercises Free Will and ensures the Freedom of Will of others, the more available the energy of Free Will becomes to the entire planet. And this has a huge implication: the more Free Will is available, the more the STS domination will NATURALLY

DECREASE! The fewer people who are "available" for feeding, the less the STS orientation can grow!

The Shaman is a "specialist in the sacred." They are able to "see" the spirits, to go up into the sky and meet the gods, to descend to the underworld and fight the demons, sickness, and death. The shaman's essential role in the defense of the psychic integrity of the community depends above all on his ability to SEE what is hidden and invisible to the rest and to bring back direct and RELIABLE information from the supernatural worlds.

So, perhaps we have some better idea of the function of the Shaman-Knight... the Knighted Ones: Incarnations of the archetype/Thought Centers of Perseus, the hero who cut off the head of the Gorgon, who freed the spirit of limitations, those of a particular Frequency Resonance Vibration of sufficient strength and purity to be able to create a bridge between man and the gods, to open the doorways of time.

Not a bad day's work, I think!
