

Strong smell
Like urine
Like a room with a big window

Mould on the walls
Like old wallpaper in tatters
Quite small
Like fairly thin partitions
Noise filters from outside
Rudimentary furniture
Dirty sheets
Shabby blankets
She coughs in her bed
Headaches
Difficult breathing

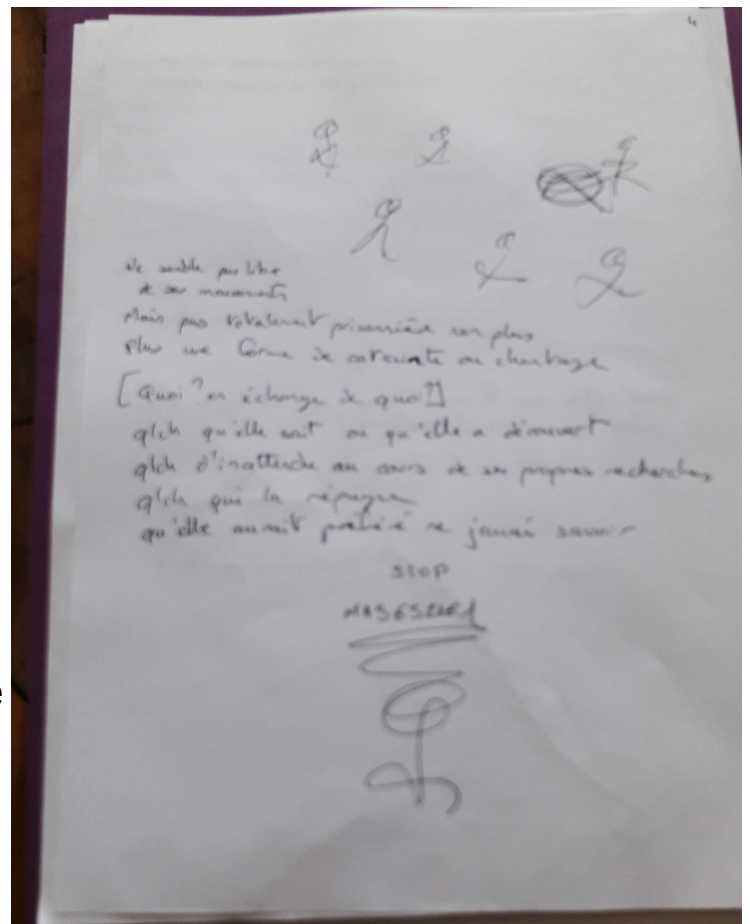

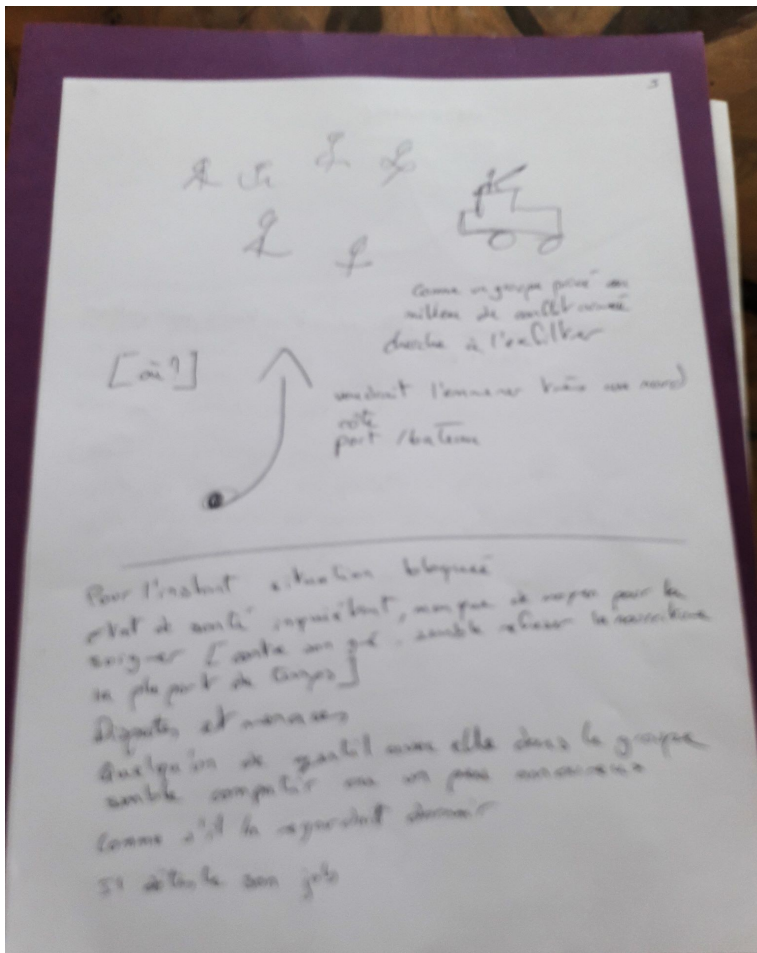

Like a urban area near a river

Maybe a railway or subway line (vibrations)

Note: I have excluded the metro line with the following details ( A close border). If you search on google earth, there are potentially along the Donets river north of Lugansk urban areas that could match but there seems to be few large buildings. The diagram on page 2 could possibly correspond to the particular alignment of houses in this area. )

Does not seem free of its movements but not totally prisoner either
Plus a form of coercion or blackmail [what? In exchange for what? ]
Something she knows or has discovered
Something unexpected in his own research Something she abhors, that she would preferred never to know

As a private group in the middle of armed conflict.
Seeks to exfiltrate it

Would take it far north
Coast
Port / boat

For the moment situation blocked

Worrying health condition, lack of means to treat her [against her will, seems to refuse food most of the time]

Disputes and threats

Someone nice to her in the group

Seems to be sympathetic or a little in love

As if he watched her sleep

He hates his job

Future : As if she takes a train to go home

