They can't hurt. Too be honest I am surprised that the moderator has not stepped in at this point. Agricultural issues are handled under the Cartagena Protocol mostly and this discussion is supposed to be dealing with things outside that realm but it allows people to re-hash arguments.

Hi Fred

I saw your postings on the synthetic biology forum. I communicated with Mark Tizard today, who also posted. I am considering posting an article on agriculture's impact on biodiversity (resource use). I know your NAS report references this, but do you think separate references, that are not in the report, would be helpful to the discussion?

Copying Todd for comment as well.

Thanks
Royden
