How about Wednesday August 2nd @ 4pm EST?

Sounds like you could be the first investor as long as absolute anonymity is kept. I have always envisioned there would be anonymity requirements about babies-- we can't publicly identify who these are or their parents or benefactors, it would brand the child as (essentially, and sadly) a freak for life in the media. So I had always assumed the investor would need absolute anonymity, for these kinds of products. So the financial structure needs to be designed with these details in mind.

Let's discuss these issues in early August when you're back in the game.

Austin has been advising me on this, and it's an open question whether he will be involved in designer babies in terms of his personal interest, happy to do our next call with or without him. Noticed he wasn't cc'd.
