

The Constitution Con

(A Sad Tale of Parchment Idolatry)

by Michael Tsarion

The first function of the founders of nations, after the founding itself, is to devise a set of true falsehoods about origins - a mythology - that will make it desirable for nationals to continue to live under common authority, and, indeed, make it impossible for them to entertain contrary thoughts - Forrest McDonald (E Pluribus Unum)

The US Constitution was created on September 17, 1787, and ratified behind closed doors on June 21, 1788. Thirty nine of the fifty five delegates attending the Philadelphia Convention signed the document. Their con job is evident from the very first line penned. Legally, the "People" mentioned are not sovereign beings, but willing slaves who have been granted the illusion of freedom.

From an occult point of view the Constitution was ratified on an Atonist festival day. It is, therefore, a patently Solar Cult document. This is because the date of ratification - June 21st - is the day the sun ascends to its highest point in the zodiac.

Washington presided on a low rostrum in the Assembly Hall (where the Declaration of Independence had been approved) from his "rising sun chair." The top of the chair showed half a sun with two eyes and a nose and thirteen rays like hair. Above it on a stem hung a pyramid-shaped plant. The whole is a Templar image. As the delegates sign the new Constitution, Benjamin Franklin told them that the sun on Washington's chair was rising, not setting on the new union - Nicholas Hagger (The Secret History of the West)

Benjamin Franklin, James Madison and Alexander Hamilton were three of the men who framed the infernal Constitution and pushed for its ratification. Their document served the American aristocracy, not the people. In fact the document was never put before the people for ratification, and was openly opposed by the majority of men and women in the original thirteen states, who resisted coming together to form any kind of unified nation. Facts of this sort have been deliberately concealed through the decades, but are now openly accepted by some mainstream American historians, such as Joseph Ellis, Thomas DiLorenzo, and others.

The Constitutionlists were guileful traitors whose attendance at the Philadelphia Convention was kept secret for an entire generation. Their document served to leave the "door" of America unlocked and ajar, so the country's foreign enemies could surreptitiously re-enter in the days and years following the supposed War of Independence.

Benjamin Franklin, James Madison and Alexander Hamilton - architects of monarchy in disguise

The hypocrisy and duplicity of the Federalists is responsible for modern neo-imperialism and advent of the so-called New World Order. In our opinion these men were little more than British agents, because King George himself - who declared eternal war on America - could not have done as much damage to America as their actions wrought.

Such a tyrannical future where property rights would be ignored, where a massive standing army would lurk unchallengeable, where Congressmen would hold office for life, where ruinous treaties would be commonplace, where Presidential powers would make Nero jealous, where gold and silver would vanish from circulation to be replaced by the worthless "notes" of a private banking conglomeration, where the States would be reduced to mere administrative departments of the feds, and where the grasp of taxation would actually reach into the common laborer's paycheck - all this was too fantastic to be even theoretically contemplated during the ratification debates - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

When the duplicitous Hamilton was asked why he helped draft the Constitution, he guardedly replied:

My motives must remain in the depository of my own breast.

He was but one member of the Philadelphia Convention who secretly resented the independence of America. One perceptive dissenter realized this and wrote:

The Continental convention...was composed of some men of excellent characters; of others who were more remarkable for their ambition and cunning, than their patriotism; and of some who have been opponents to the independence of the United States - (Dissenting Address of the Pennsylvanian Convention, 18 December 1787)

Hamilton was a member of the traitorous Society of the Cincinnati, named after the Roman dictator. This elitist order included George Washington as head and Major General Henry Knox as secretary. Both men were card-carrying Freemasons and Federalists. They and their cohorts planned to subvert and destroy the American Republic, replacing it with an oligarchy.

...this Constitution was a strange occurrence. Before that time, there was no such thing as a nation being ruled by a constitution. Countries were ruled by kings who granted some rights to the people. Yet governance by constitution had existed in Masonic lodges for hundreds of years - Sanford Holst (Sworn in Secret: Freemasonry and the Knights Templar)

James Madison is considered the "father" of the US Constitution. He was heavily influenced, as were many American politicians, by the philosophy of French aristocrat Baron de Montesquieu who believed in monarchy. Madison was also influenced by the writings of British empiricist philosopher John Locke, himself "a major investor in the English slave trade through the Royal Africa Company." Madison was vehemently opposed to state independence and pushed the Constitution to keep power out of the hands of ordinary Americans. He openly advocated an anti-Republican ideology and commented on how illiterate masses should be divided and controlled:

Where a majority are united by a common sentiment, and have an opportunity, the rights of the minor party become insecure. In a republican government the majority, if united, have always an opportunity. The only remedy is to enlarge the sphere and thereby divide the community into so great a number of interests and parties that, in the first place, a majority will not be likely, at the same moment, to have a common interest separate from that of the whole, or of the minority; and, in the second place, that, in case they should have such an interest, they may not be so apt to unite in the pursuit of it - (Elliot's

Madison was the only delegate to keep records of proceedings at the Convention. However, his notes were not made public until four years after his death. Prior to their public release the notes had been thoroughly edited.

The con is evident from the Constitution's Preamble, as we said. In fact the "People" referred to are not citizens of America, No! They are the elites who rule from within a legally separate precinct known as the District of Columbia. This district is under federal control and the government operating from within it is, legally speaking, a foreign institution. The term "We the People" denotes this separate ruling elite. It refers to the imperious overlords who have granted the Constitution to the masses within the "United States of America" - the non-sovereign nation under their control. Therefore, the entity mentioned in the first line of the Preamble is not the same entity mentioned in the last line. Let's read it again and uncover the cunning artifice of its authors:

We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, ensure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

This is what the Preamble subtextually infers:

WE THE RULING ARISTOCRACY, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, ensure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution FOR THE SLAVES WITHOUT RIGHTS, UNDER OUR FEDERAL CONTROL.

Because "People" is capitalized it is a proper noun referring to a specific body of people - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

These facts explain why the word "for" is found in the last line, not the word "of." Legally, there is a big difference between:

...do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

and:

...do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States of America.

The first rendering implies the Constitution has been granted to one body by another. Ergo the Constitution is nothing more than a totalitarian document, ratifying aristocratic control over the "United States of America" and its inhabitants. The elites are literally saying: "This document and its articles are for you." The point being that it is not of you, meaning, it is not yours by natural right. The word "for" indicates that the matter of the document is bestowed or imposed by others. And of course when a person gives someone something, they presumably want something in return. This was certainly the case for the cunning Federalists who conceived the Constitution.

Suggestively, the word "of" does appear in a meaningful legal declaration. It appears in the text of the Presidential Oath:

I solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my Ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States.

In this instance, the word "of" designates the President as a member of the aristocratic elite - denoted by the words "United States." He is, therefore, a ruler separate from the citizens in the various states. The "for" does not apply to the President because, unlike the masses, he is not an outsider. He is part of the inner sovereign cadre referenced by the word "of." The Constitution is "of" the ruling elite, but is "for" the masses. In effect the Constitution is a schizophrenic document. There are two Constitutions; one for the serving masses, and one for the served oligarchs ruling from within the legally sacrosanct District of Columbia. This is why the Preamble contains two different terms: the "United States" (denoting the oligarchy and their authority), and "United States of America" (denoting the non-sovereign masses on the receiving end).

If the Presidential Oath read as follows, there would be less cause for concern:

I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States of America, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States of America.

Then again, pigs might fly. Alarming, before it was dropped, the President's original title was "His Excellency."

Many critics and authors have pointed out these disturbing facts and rightly insist that the so-called "United States" is not the same thing as the so-called "United States of America." Nevertheless, due to deliberate misinformation and conditioning, most people do believe the terms refer to one and the same entity. They are certainly not inclined to think of the "United States" (or U.S.) as a foreign corporation. Furthermore, the drafters of the Constitution intentionally saw to it that the term "United States" had more than one meaning. Specifically, they knew the term did not refer to citizens of a state. Once-upon-a-time an American could have been a citizen of a state without being a citizen of the nation. This political idiosyncrasy did not suit the Federalists who ingeniously manipulated the words and terms we are familiar with. It is a old trick that serves the cause of totalitarians everywhere.

...not only were the poly meanings of "United States" intentionally and expressly used within the Constitution, but often in ways as to actually invite confusion. For such brilliant men to explain three jurisdictional concepts would, on its face, pose a great mystery - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

When members of the police or military swear to serve, uphold and protect the Constitution and "United States," they probably imagine their oath is sworn to the American people. Nothing could be further from the truth. They are in fact swearing to give their labor, and possibly their lives, for the diabolical corporate executives of Washington D.C.

Oaths of allegiance are fine, as long as you know who or what your swearing them to.

In short, the U.S. and the U.S.A., are not the same entity. The alleged "People" are not, therefore, free and sovereign members of a country, as they would have been under the Articles of Confederation drawn up after the War of Independence. No, they were and still are merely employees of a privately run corporation. They do not have rights, they have provisionally granted privileges. They have liberty, but do not have permanent and inviolable sovereignty or freedom.

The Constitution, as currently interpreted, now resembles what the Founding Lawyers truly desired in their aristocratic heart of hearts. Two centuries of history have lifted the veil from that picture of Dorian Gray, leaving us with the Hag of Hegemony - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

The State...both in its genesis and by its primary intention, is purely anti-social. It is not based on the idea of natural rights, but on the idea that the individual has no rights except those that the State may provisionally grant him - Albert Jay Nock (Our Enemy: the State)

Hologram of Liberty, by K. W. Royce. Probably the best book dealing with the con of the Constitution.

The duplicity served to strengthen Federal power. Because of the Constitution, the populace have been intentionally stripped of their sovereign rights. It is also because of this particular chicanery that Americans presently find themselves politically and economically undermined. The Federalist plan was nothing less than an act of war. It was the plan of agent provocateurs and fifth columnists. Only a very few authors have stated this in so many words. However, we are convinced that the early Federalists were ministers of the Crown. They accomplished with their pens what armed legions failed to do by open war.

We believe that after the Constitution was ratified, Americans became, in effect, subjects of an American-based aristocracy. Their boss, King George, did not resend his physical army to attack with force of arms. He and his advisers knew that America could be conquered and brought under their control by more subtle means:

The phrase "direct and immediate allegiance" is something right out of feudal law...Americans who became "U.S. citizens" have transposed themselves from one system into another fundamentally different from the first...Americans have unknowingly joined a modern feudal system in which they must render a percentage of their toil to their federal master - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

The non-federal state Citizenship became virtually unknown as millions of state Americans were tricked out of their sovereignty and into federal citizenship - and thus into federal jurisdiction. Today, the states have been all but replaced by corporate, federal overlays...There's probably not enough left of the original states for Americans to resume state Citizenship - ibid

These facts show that the Constitution was not a progressive document. On the contrary, its cunning drafters concocted it knowing that it would help to usher in the kind of Merchant State system that flourished earlier in America, before the War of Independence, and shortly after the first settlers arrived, with their British systems of law. As Albert Jay Nock explains:

The fundamental fact to be observed in any survey of the American State's initial development is the one whose importance was first remarked, I believe, by Mr. Beard; that the trading-company - the commercial corporation for colonization - was actually an autonomous State. "Like the State," says Mr. Beard, "it had a constitution, a charter issued by the Crown...it had a territorial basis, a grant of land often greater in area than a score of European principalities...every essential element long afterward found in the government of the American State appeared in the chartered corporation that started English civilization in America" - (Our Enemy: the State)

Nock goes on to emphasize the connections between the "Old World" system of control and so-called "New World" system:

...the system of civil order established in America was the State-system of the "mother countries"...the only thing that distinguished it was that the exploited and dependent class was situated at an unusual distance from the owning and exploiting class. The headquarters of the autonomous State were on one side of the Atlantic, and its subjects on the other.

The elites of Britain and Europe knew that remote control was only feasible for a short time. They knew they had to have their agents on site in order for the engines of exploitation to work efficiently. Consequently, in 1628, during the reign of Charles I, the oligarchs established the Massachusetts Bay Company in America. Many of the Constitution's most illustrious signers became wealthy from their memberships of corporations such as the Massachusetts Bay Company which overflowed with agents of the British Crown. Business the American way is, it seems, business the British way.

While it is not surprising that America's Founding Fathers were mostly slave owners, a legal activity, it may be surprising to discover that they were often smugglers as well. Profits from drug running, smuggling, slave trade directly responsible for the founding of several of the country's most important banks, which are still in operation today insurance business was born and prospered through profits earned from insuring opium and slave ships. The large railroads throughout the continental United States in the nineteenth century were funded with profits from illegal drug smuggling fortunes would provide seed money for the telephone and communications industry - Steven Sora (Secret Societies of America)

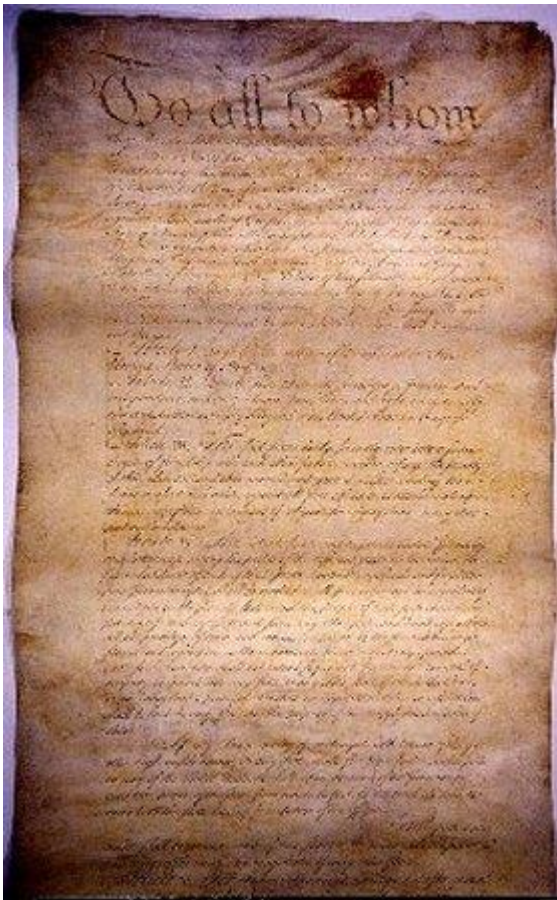

Left: The flag of the British East India Company. Right: The Flag of the "United States" Corporation. Red, White and Blue are known as the Colors of the King. Does this mean that the "States" are in fact "Estates" of the Crown?

Of course there were clever men who knew what was going on. Even before the Constitution - the document of servitude - was signed and ratified, the warnings went out:

That investigation into the nature and construction of the new constitution, which the conspirators have so long and zealously struggled against, has, notwithstanding their partial success, so far taken place as to ascertain its criminality. That system which was pompously displayed as the perfection of government, proves upon examination to be the most odious system of tyranny that was ever projected. It is a system of despotism, whose complicated and various evils would be infinitely more oppressive and afflictive than the scourge of any other system.
12, 23 January 1788)

The anonymous author of this diatribe would not be in the present state of decay, and neither would Thomas Paine, Jefferson or Andrew Jackson. They would simply realize they were justified.

As we said, the rise of imperialism in America is the result of the system deliberately left ajar, so to speak. The enemies of America knew whenever they chose. And creep in they did, confident they would fall into their unworthy hands. They knew their agents would be in the country to misuse their positions of authority within government and to gradually undermine the Articles of Confederation that gave the American the rights they deserved. They knew they simply used the "divide and rule" tactic to further globalist interests.

During his reign King George III adamantly proclaimed his opposition to American rebels and American experiment. He openly declared his disapproval of America, and his word was law to his many loyal and independent subjects. In fact, agents of the British Crown have been waging eternal war against America since the day of their lunatic master.

The Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union was America's true constitution before it was unnecessarily derided and overruled by cunning self-serving traitors desperate to create an American monarchy in disguise. Today these men would be referred to as Globalists or Internationalists.

The men who undermined the Articles of the Confederation and hustled the Constitution have had statues and portraits raised in their honor. Volumes have been written about their deeds, but rarely has the truth been told, except in alternative circles. Throughout America and the world the traitors are lauded as great revolutionaries, reformers and humanitarians. Their ideological descendants openly and unashamedly work hand in hand with British and European oligarchs, using fear and panic to further their agendas. They continue to erode whatever is left of the privileges once bestowed upon their slaves.

We have "federal sheriffs" beyond imagination. There are forty six civilian agencies of the Federal Government whose power to make arrests. These "great insults on the people" have been allowed because there is little we can do about them. And by the way, no laws authorizing "civil forfeiture" or other related measures of tyranny have been struck down by the courts.
Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

We have plenty of rights in this country, provided you don't get caught exercising them - Terry Mitchell (Editor of The Independent)

Patrick Henry was one patriot who understood what was going on. He did not attend the Convention in Philadelphia, and said: "I smell a rat." He was dead right. But there was more than one stinking human rat loose at the Convention. The traitors referred to themselves as "Federalists" because they knew the people would think of them as servants of America. And they were right. Their smokescreen worked wonderfully. Today the misuse of words and terms continues. George Bush's "Patriot Acts" dupe the uninformed masses and give them the impression it is patriotic to give up hard won rights in turn for government protection.

For centuries, pillage by invading armies was a normal part of warfare...Nowadays, at least in more civilized countries, pillage is for booty. We leave the pillaging to men in suits, and we don't call it pillaging anymore. We call it economic development - Brian Whitaker (The Guardian)

The Bushes did as their predecessors had done two hundred years ago. The Federalist traitors hurried the ratification process along and gave the Convention delegates and American people little time to scrutinize the Constitution's articles. George W. Bush did likewise when it came to his scurrilous Patriot Acts. Moreover, he personally saw to it that the investigations into the causes of the September Eleventh tragedy were hampered and limited:

President Bush personally asked Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle...to limit the Congressional investigation into the September 11 attacks. Congressional and White House sources told CNN...The request was made at a private meeting with Congressional leaders.
(War)

George W. Bush's lack of regard for the Constitution is not unique. As a Globalist he does not serve America or the interests of American people. He is one of many men who have used the Constitution as a stepping stone toward what might be described as a world super state. Nowadays the conspirators who labor toward this utopian wet-dream appear to be less inclined to conceal the reasons for their intrigue. As George W. Bush himself put it:

It is the sacred principles enshrined in the United Nations Charter to which the American people will henceforth pledge their allegiance.
(the UN General Assembly, February 1 1992)

The world can therefore seize the opportunity (the Persian Gulf crisis) to fulfill the long held promise of a New World Order where diverse nations are drawn together in common cause to achieve the universal aspirations of mankind.
(Union Address, January 29 1991)

Author Forrest MacDonald clarified the issue concerning the undermining of the Articles of Confederation. In his book entitled Alexander Hamilton: A Biography, he wrote:

What did determine the outcome were the rules of the contest, which Hamilton played an important part in formulating. He disregarded the amendment procedures prescribed in the Articles of Confederation and instead provided that each state should have one vote.

delegates to a ratifying convention...Had the rules of the Articles of Confederation been adhered to, the Constitution would

The dissenters knew what lay in store and were worried. Their warnings went largely unheard and the ratification of the Constitution hurriedly commenced regardless of the warnings of perceptive critics:

It is insisted, indeed, that this constitution must be received, be it ever so imperfect. But remember, when the people once have accepted it, they seldom or never resume it again by force. Many instances can be produced in which the people have voluntarily increased their liberties, but few, if any, in which rulers have willingly abridged their authority - "Brutus" (Essay 1, 18 October 1787)

Consider what you are about to do before your part with this Government. Take longer time in reckoning things: Revolution has almost every country in Europe: Similar examples are...ancient Greece and ancient Rome: Instances of the people losing their liberties through carelessness and the ambition of a few - Patrick Henry (Speech of 5 June 1778)

Does it not insult your judgment to tell you, Adopt first, and then amend?...Is your rage for novelty so great, that you are ready to retract?...agree to bind yourself hand and foot - for the sake of what? of being unbound?...to go into a dungeon - for what? of being free? danger, when you go in, that the bolts of federal authority shall shut you in? - Patrick Henry (Speech to the Virginia ratifying convention)

I look upon the Constitution as the most fatal plan that could possibly be conceived to enslave a free people - ibid

No sooner was the Constitution ratified than the oligarchs began acting tyrannically toward the American people. British agent President George Washington - who presided over the signing of the Constitution and who was a member of the Ohio Company of Virginia, the Mississippi Company, and the Potomac Company - sent thirteen thousand armed troops to violently stamp out the so-called Whiskey Rebellion of 1794. This rebellion was against heavy taxation.

The victims of government oppression soon discovered they could not use the Constitution to receive justice. It contained little provision for the underclasses. It gave complete suzerainty to the courts and judges, not to the people or states. To all intents and purposes it was as if the War of Independence had never been fought.

The Constitution merely made it possible for agents of the British Crown to operate as if they served the citizens of America. In this regard, nothing has changed.

The facts about the American Revolution show that in the early days, in the mid 1770's, the colonialists suffered a series of defeats while the British were being passed to the British. The facts also show that an American army general, Benedict Arnold, was a traitor who turned at West Point to the British and turn the tide of war against his own side. The facts link Washington with Arnold when the facts show that the day the plot was discovered, Washington was due to meet Arnold at West Point...Washington has been passing secrets to the British - Robert Cooper (Interview on Dan Brown's The Lost Symbol)

The tyranny continued in 1798 with the Alien and Sedition Acts. These Acts made criticism of federal officials a punishable offense. The Constitution served to strengthen the powers of the wealthy aristocratic class in America. It possessed few benefits for the average citizen and ultimately legalized widespread acts of confiscation and extortion. As Thomas Jefferson once remarked: "The natural progress of things is for liberty to yield and government to gain ground." The point is emphasized by Constitutional scholar and author Kenneth W. Royce:

If analyzed in contrast to history since 1787, it appears that the Constitution was purposely laden with several components designed to nearly guarantee the gradual expansion of the Federal Government - at the expense of liberty (Hologram of Liberty)

The Founding Fathers may have referred to themselves as Federalists. But this was, as we said, yet one more cunning play on words. Master propagandists such as Vladimir Lenin probably learned tactics from America's faux Federalists.

Patrick Henry is known for his "Give me Liberty or give me Death!" speech. Along with Samuel Adams and Thomas Paine, he is remembered as one of the most influential and radical advocates of the American Revolution and of Republicanism, especially in his denunciations of corruption of government officials - (Wikipedia Online Encyclopedia)

The original Federalists demanded a government of limited powers and were for a time met by the Articles of Confederation ratified in 1781. After the War of 1783, Americans had the Constitution forced upon them. Ever since then America has maintained the prestige of the document. The people and representatives of the original thought they had enough time to decide whether the document was sound or not. Patrick Henry warned of the consequences of accepting the Constitution without due consideration that State representatives needed at least a year to mull over the articles of the Constitution. He said:

Why then tell us of dangers to terrify us into an adoption of this new Government? The dangers that this new system may produce; they are out of sight of the people: I cannot foresee latent consequences: I dread the operation of it on the minds of the people: It is for them I fear the adoption of this system...I see jeopardy in the new system none from our present one.

As we said, the Constitution's articles scandalously allowed the Supreme Court extraordinary legal powers:

No country has given its courts such extraordinary power. Not Britain, which binds the courts. Not India...Not even West Germany or Ireland, where the courts are established but exercised on a narrower scale. The President is elected. State judges are elected. Supreme Court Justices are not elected: they are appointed for life (Court and the Constitution)

Despite widespread resistance and a spirit of animosity toward the Constitution's articles, its cheerleaders Madison, Hamilton, Franklin and Washington relentlessly pressed on. They ensured that resistance to their will was summarily suppressed.

Most troublesome to the framers of the Constitution was the increasing insurgent spirit evidenced among the people. Fear

George Washington addressing the delegates during the signing of the US Constitution. Benjamin Franklin (a member of the English Hell Fire Club) is shown in the center of the canvas. His design for the Seal of the United States depicted Moses leading the Children of Israel across the Red Sea. Franklin's nickname among his elite secret society chums was "Moses." Like his many Masonic associates in America, England and France, he was an Atonist or in conventional parlance a Luciferian. His backers were powerful royal figures such as Charles de Lorraine and the Duke d'Orleans. The last thing on his mind was freedom for the American people. He was a wealthy speculator in land, and a member of the Vandalia Company, whose land grant happened (coincidentally of course) to have been awarded by the British Crown.

The secretiveness of the proceedings at the Convention reinforced the suspicions of many critics of the Constitution. Kenneth W. Royce tell us:

Little wonder why the Constitution operated under such extraordinary secrecy. Held on the second floor, windows shut, delegates were sworn to strict silence. Not until 32 years later (a generation, you see) were the proceeding's Journals published (thoroughly edited) weren't published until 53 years later, in 1840.

Royce also comments on the measures taken by the Federalists to conceal the infighting that took place among delegates at the Convention:

Great propaganda measures were employed to conceal the Convention's true atmosphere of acrimonious dissent.

The state of affairs was noted by a journalist, who wrote:

So great is the unanimity, we hear, that prevails in the Convention, upon all great federal subjects, that it has been proposed they assemble - Unanimity Hall - (Pennsylvania Packet and Daily Advertiser, 19 July 1787)

Fifty five delegates attended the Philadelphia Convention - forty one politicians and thirty four lawyers. Not a single person from the working class was present. Those men who attempted to delay proceedings by boycotting the Convention were sought out by troops and forcibly dragged to the Convention hall.

Electing the respected General George Washington as Convention president, with the added presence of Benjamin Franklin, was a move to win over the public's "false confidences." Of the 55 delegates, 41 were politicians and 34 were lawyers...According to delegate James Wilson, the 55 delegates favored some form of monarchy - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

...in 1782 (Washington) received a letter from Colonel Lewis Nicola urging him to use the army to make himself King. He felt great indignation. Washington, it seems felt that America would eventually become a monarchy; indeed, he admitted that he favored monarchy. But it seems he could not reconcile this view with his Templar philosophy, which demanded a republic - Nicholas Carr (History of the West)

Prime mover in the conspiracy to undermine the Articles of Confederation was the traitor Alexander Hamilton. In The Federalist Papers, Douglas Adair comments on Hamilton's dilemma:

Hamilton's disillusion with the workings of the Confederation and his fear of democracy, especially after Shay's Rebellion, would be almost impossible to set up a stable republic in a country as large as the United States. As he informed the Convention, political power was vested in the hands of all the people would be continually torn by the class struggles of the rich and the poor. This class war the Hobbesian expedient of setting up a leviathan state to impose order upon the American People from above was the only alternative to social anarchy was the establishment of a consolidated government capable of maintaining itself by its own will.

Hamilton's tactics worked. He knew the mindset of the men he represented. He knew all he had to do was instill enough fear into the delegates to achieve the desired result. Federalists and Globalists continue to employ this ruse to further agendas. It is little more than conflict control.

That was the genius of the Constitution: To 1. utterly transform political reality without the people understanding it; 2. to use sound or smoke and 3. to foist a government destined to become, over the distant horizon, fully national in scope and authority. If the people would realize they'd been trumped, it would be too late - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

Hamilton, Madison and their Federalist gang of conspirators were ecstatic over the success of their "divide and rule" tactics. After the damage was done Madison bragged about the debacle he had deliberately helped foment:

One anti-federalist opinion tell us that the proposed constitution ought to be rejected because it is not a confederation of states but a government over individuals. Another admits that it ought to be a government over individuals to a certain extent but by no means to the extent of a government over individuals but to the want of a bill of rights. A fourth concurs in the absolute necessity that it ought to be declaratory, not for the personal rights of individuals, but of the rights reserved to the States in their sovereignty. The opinion that a bill of rights of any sort would be superfluous and misplaced and that the plan would be unexceptionable in regulating the times and place of elections.

Thomas Jefferson (principle author of the Declaration of Independence) was appalled at the liberties taken by Hamilton and those he continued taking in the years following the Constitution's ratification. He noticed Hamilton was contemptuous of the Constitution he himself cheered, and as ambitiously attempting to obtain broader powers for central government. Hamilton soon proposed changes well outside the scope of the Constitution's precepts. Obviously, the Constitution was merely one means to many ends for Hamilton and his self-serving aristocratic cronies. Incensed by Hamilton's scheming Jefferson wrote:

I will not suffer...the slanders of Hamilton whose history, from the moment at which history can stoop to notice him, is a record of the liberty of the country which has not only received and given him bread, but heaped honors on his head - (Jefferson to Madison)

Eventually even Hamilton's colleague James Madison began to chafe at his obvious disdain for the people and Constitutional provisos:

As Madison watched Hamilton's program develop, he became disillusioned and bitter. In the Convention he had fought for which 'the interests and rights of every class of citizen should be duly represented and understood.' Now he saw the machinery being used to exploit the mass of the people in the interest of a small minority - Douglas Adair (The Federalist Papers)

Among Hamilton's most insidious programs was the creation of the first private bank. He pushed for the establishment of this scurrilously extortionist organization. His co-conspirator, arch-traitor Robert Morris, was undoubtedly an agent of European aristocracy.

Financial genius Robert Morris organized the first bank. He and his associates believed that the bank should be modeled after the Bank of England...Secret investors put up $400,000 to start this bank. This attempt failed after two short years...Secretary of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton, submitted a proposal to Congress in 1790 for a central bank. Interestingly enough, Hamilton had been an apprentice to the initial experience of central banking in North America - Bill Hughes (The Secret Terrorists)

Financier Nicholas Biddle was president of the Second National Bank of the United States, a servant of the Jesuits, and may have been in contact with the Rothschilds or their predecessors, all of whom were directed by powerful European royals (see references below).

Jewish financier Haym Solomon. A precursor to the Rothschilds, he was a close colleague of Alexander Hamilton. A history of affluent Jewish financier families has been tracked and detailed by several authors (see references below).

The insidious pirate, slave-trader and arch-traitor Robert Morris was the buddy of Alexander Hamilton. In 1791 he was appointed U.S. Superintendent of Finance.

Arch-traitor Aaron Burr. Relatively unknown to most Americans, Burr was a p that worked to undermine American sovereignty. This truly insidious character Anton Chaitkin's masterly work Treason in America.

Norman Dodd, Research Director of the 1950s Reese Commission - which investigated America's tax-exempt foundations - finally uncovered the dirt on Morris:

Robert Morris (signer of the Declaration of Independence) was the personality in this country who used his fortune to fi at the end of the revolution, Mr. Morris found himself diluted of his fortune. So after the revolution was over he then turn individual, of rebuilding a fortune and his area of activity was in land speculation. At that time he was contacted by an c and this wealth was represented by an entity which is historically referred to as the "House of Orange." However, we did Orange who contacted Robert Morris after he began to rebuild his fortune, and that personality was a man by the name an agent of the House of Orange in this country, and it was through him that Mr. Morris was offered considerable financ would enable him to, working capital, you might say, to rebuild his fortune.

Haym Soloman was, of course, a servant of the Jewish Kahal and Jesuit Order. Like the Rothschilds who rose to power shortly after his time, Solomon was a lackey of European royalty - the Hanoverians, Hapsburgs, Stuarts, and related houses. King George III (America's arch-enemy) was a senior member of the Dutch House of Orange or Hanover.

These royal dynasties own corporations and businesses all over the skill to purchase and use men as easily as they do companies. Of cou their colors. They are discreet and prefer to exercise control by way agents, faceless companies and shadowy banking houses. One of the aristocratically controlled engines is the Société Générale de Belgique (Belgium). From 1840 to 1870 (before the Rothschilds were handed consortium was directly controlled by Belgium's King Leopold II, gr member of the powerful Saxe-Coburg-Gotha dynasty. The Society w other than King William I of the House of Orange. America's number was of the same royal line as William I. Their ancestor, Duchess Sop English throne. Her son became George I of Great Britain. His grands III. These monarchs were members of the so-called "Black Nobility" of their financial consortiums they and their relatives maintained co that included America.

The royals maintain control over their disposable lieutenants by way of Masonic societies such as the Skull and Bones and Bohemian Club. The double-headed eagle (emblem of Scottish Rite Masonry) is identical to the royal arms of European dynasties such as the Hapsburgs.

The corporate name that is assigned to that entity, as the 18th turned into the 19th century, is called Societie Geneareale largest accumulation of privately controlled tangible wealth in the world - Andrew Power (Ireland: Land of the Pharaohs)

William of Orange it was...who established the original SGDB which was to finance the growth of a great part of Belgian remains by far the most important single force in the country's economic life. La Generale list the Belgian royal family as shareholders in addition to that all-powerful family alliance behind Belgian finances – the Solvays, the Boels and the Janssens. The Banque de Belgique succumbed to the general crisis in Europe and closed its doors but the SGDB, supported by the Rothschilds, put out coin against the notes issued by its competitor - ibid

Prince Bernhard is known to be an influential member of the SGDB, a mysterious organization that seems to be an association of interests from many countries. American firms associated with this society are said to be among the large corporations on the Council on Foreign Relations and related organizations - Dan Smoot (The Invisible Government)

Because of the intervention of men such as Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson, the Federalist program to socially and economically undermine America temporarily failed. But time was on the side of the conspiring Nationalists. The second Federal Bank was established six years later, in 1816. President Monroe appointed Jesuit agent Nicholas Biddle as its first president.

Nicholas Biddle, another one of their agents, carried out phase two of the Jesuit attack. Biddle was a brilliant financier, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania at the age of thirteen. He was a master of the science of money. By the time that Jackson had come to the Presidency in 1828, Biddle was in full control of the central bank. This was not the first time that a central bank had been established. Twice before, first under Robert Morris and then Alexander Hamilton, had a central bank been tried, but in both cases it had failed because of fraudulent actions on the part of the bank. After the war of 1812, a central bank was tried again, and it was in this third attempt that we find Mr. Biddle - Bill Hughes

The scandalous intrigue of affluent, influential Jewish financier families, such as Rothschild, Oppenheimer, Lazard, Warburg, Schiff, Kuhn, Loeb, Goldman, Sachs, and so on, has been tracked and delineated by several authors.

Under the surface, the Rothschilds long had a powerful influence in dictating American financial laws. The law records show the old Bank of the United States - Gustavus Meyers (History of the Great American Fortunes)

The evidence clearly shows these families were no friends of America. The Rothschilds in particular received prestigious awards from America's deadliest enemies. For services rendered leading members of the Rothschild family have been endowed with elite status by royals and popes. Amschel Mayer Rothschild, for example, was a Knight of Malta.

The Holy Roman Emperors from the House of Habsburg kept a considerable number of court Jews. Among those of Emperor Joseph II mentioned the following: Solomon and Ber Mayer...Joseph Pincherle of Görz; Moses and Joseph Marburger (Morpurg) of Trieste; the physician Elijah Chalfon of Vienna; Samuel zum Drachen, Samuel zum Straussen, and Samuel zum Weissen Drachen and Mordecai Meisel, of Prague. A specially favored court Jew was Jacob Bassevi, the first Jew to be ennobled, with the title "von Treuenberg" - (Wikipedia Online Encyclopedia)

Wilhelm IX, Elector of Hesse-Kassel.
He employed Mayer Amschel

Undoubtedly the Rothschild brothers financially backed the Federalists in a similar manner. The Duke of Wellington, Cecil Rhodes, Vladimir Lenin, Leon Trotsky, Adolf Hitler, and other megalomaniacs. But they were not the first to do so. Agents of the Jesuit Order, like Salomon, had clearly been active in Federalist circles before the Rothschild dynasty took over financial control. In any case, the Rothschilds and their agents - the Schiffs, Barons - were unquestionably instrumental in formulating the so-called Jekyll Island Agreement and the creation of the private Federal Reserve Bank. The Federal Reserve Act was passed in 1913. Interestingly, this is the time of the Winter Solstice, an important day on the Lunar

In 1781, Congress established the Office of Finance to save the United States. Salomon allied himself with Superintendent of Finance William Morris and became the author of bills of exchange to meet federal government expenses. Salomon also persuaded members of the Continental Congress and other federal officers, charging interest below the market rates - Michael Feldberg (Haym Salomon: The Rest of the Story)

Rothschild. We must inquire why a royal personage, occupying the highest strata of society, would employ and promote a Jewish ghetto-dweller.

James Madison confessed that "I have for some time...been a pensioner on the favor of Haym Salomon, a Jew broker" - ib

Solomon supposedly wrote the first draft of the United States Constitution according to some historians. Some claim that the United States, which is why it has what some believe resembles a Jewish Star above the eagle's head design, and it is on the American one dollar bill. He believed the United States would become a world power - (Hyam Solomon Bio, indopedia.c

The blunt reality is that the Rothschild banking dynasty in Europe was the dominant force, both financially and politically, of the United States - G. Edward Griffin (The Creature from Jekyll Island)

The Rothschilds were Jesuits who used their Jewish background as a façade to cover their sinister activities. The Jesuits, and Biddle, sought to gain control of the banking system of the United States - Bill Hughes (The Secret Terrorists)

Over the years since N. M. Rothschild...had been, for a time, the official European banker for the U.S., government and was the Bank of the United States - Derek Wilson (Rothschild: The Wealth and Power of a Dynasty)

He was lord and master of the money-market of the world, and of course virtually lord and master of everything else...His influence in Southern Italy in pawn, and monarchs and ministers of all countries courted his advice and were guided by his suggestions. The Minister of England writing on Lord Rothschild)

Aware that the Rothschilds are an important Jewish family, I looked them up in Encyclopedia Judaica and discovered that they bear the title "Guardians of the Vatican Treasury"...The appointment of Rothschild gave the bank power and secrecy. Who would ever search a family of orthodox Jews for the key to the wealth of the Roman Catholic Church? (Rulers of Evil)

The Hofjuden (Court Jews)

Amschel Mayer Rothschild fathered five sons who jointly formed one of the most powerful banking families in history. And this means he may have actively conspired with the Federalists who attempted to found the first US federal bank in 1791. By 1806, the House of Hesse and British Crown with their attempts to undermine Napoleon.

Mayer Amschel Rothschild took over the reigns from his father. He was a Knight of Malta. Elite Masonic Jews have long worked as money men and advisers to Turks, Huns, and Church of Rome. Mayer died in 1855, which means he was in a position to involve himself in the conspiracy to open the second US Federal bank.

Nathan Mayer Rothschild was in charge of the London branch of his family's banking cartel. He was already working in the Stock Exchange from 1804. He established his London bank in 1811. He died in 1836. Of course, long before Nathan's time, Jewish financiers had been active in England. For example, during the Civil War (1642–1651), Manasseh Ben Israel, funded the tyrant Oliver Cromwell. Cromwell personally overturned the legislation banning Jews from England. (Here for more.)

James Mayer Rothschild was adviser to two French kings. Highly decorated, he and his four brothers were bestowed the hereditary title of Baron by Austria's Francis II (the Holy Roman Emperor). James was also appointed consul-general of the Austrian Empire and, in 1823, he was awarded the French Legion of Honor. The predecessors of the Rothschilds were the Hahn family. The Rothschilds are related to the Bauers, Oppenheims, Warburgs and Schiffs. These Khazarian crime-families were able lieutenants of royalty, not the architects of control, as many misinformed authors believe. They exercise enormous influence over the American government by way of Masonic lodges and Federal orgs such as the Federal Reserve Banks.

The facts show that traitorous Nationalists (or should we say Internationalists), such as Hamilton, Morris, Solomon, Burr and Biddle did not have the best interests of ordinary Americans at heart. On the contrary, by way of their Constitution, and later by way of their banks and credit houses, they sought to subjugate and impoverish the citizens of America. In his excellent books The Secret Terrorists and Enemy Unmasked, Bill Hughes details the strong-arm methods used by Biddle to force wary President Andrew Jackson into commissioning the founding of the Federal Bank:

Biddle responded to Jackson refusing to allow him to re-establish the central bank by shrinking the nation's money supply and making loans. By so doing, he upended the economy and money disappeared. Unemployment ran high. Companies went bankrupt and could not pay their loans...So confident was he that he publicly boasted that he had caused the economic wars in America.

Is there no danger to our liberty and independence in a bank that in its nature has so little to bind it to our country? Is there not cause to tremble for the purity of our elections in peace and for the independence of our country in war? The currency, receiving our public monies, and holding themselves in dependence, it would be more formidable and dangerous than the power of the enemy - President Andrew Jackson

Because Andrew Jackson persistently resisted the threats and devices of the bankers, he was the victim of an attempted assassination. The gunman was a certain Richard Lawrence. G. Edward Griffin wrote:

...Lawrence...boasted to friends that he had been in touch with powerful people in Europe who had promised to protect him if he was ever caught - (The Creature from Jekyll Island)

The Federal bankers caused the Depression of 1929, and saw to it that thousands of American businesses were ruined. They funded Adolf Hitler, and financed Lenin's murderous Bolsheviks. Avaricious financial organizations that plague the planet, such as the World Bank and IMF (International Monetary Fund), are merely tentacles of the Federal System.

Immense sums belonging to our national depositors have been given to Germany on no collateral security whatsoever... money has been pumped into Germany by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Banks - H. S. Kenan (The Money Game)

Sir Joseph Stamp was director of the Bank of England from 1928 to 1941. He openly addressed the colossal power of the Bankers:

The modern banking system manufactures money out of nothing. The process is perhaps the most astounding piece of sleight of hand ever invented. Banking was conceived in iniquity and born in sin. Bankers own the Earth. Take it away from them, but leave them their power, and with the flick of a pen they will create enough money to buy it back again...Take this great power away from them, and the world like mine will disappear, and they ought to disappear, for then this would be a better and happier world to live in. But if you give slaves of the banks and pay the cost of your own slavery, then let the bankers continue to create money and control creation.

President Thomas Jefferson was not a Freemason, and not the least bit interested in amassing personal wealth. He had no love for the Federal bank and made his position clear:

A private central bank issuing the public currency is a greater menace to the liberties of the people than a standing army. It loads us with perpetual debt.

I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. If the American people ever the issue of their currency, first by inflation, then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around the banks will deprive the people of all property until their children wake-up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered.

Nevertheless Jefferson's reputation is marred on several accounts, not least by his appointment of British agent Albert Gallatin as Secretary of the Treasury in 1801. In the same year Gallatin was also appointed Vice President. Regrettably, a statue of the duplicitous Geneva-born Gallatin stands to this day outside the United States Treasury building in Washington DC.

It is interesting and suggestive to note that Alexander Hamilton's banking system precisely paralleled that used by British bankers. He favored what is known as the tontine capitalist system:

His tontine scheme, fashioned after the British tontine of 1789, involved a system of rights of annual payments to survivors becoming the means of creating a permanent investment class - Frank Bourgin (The Great Challenge: The Myth of Laissez-Faire)

Political figures of intelligence and cunning knew the real reason for the War of Independence. They knew it had to do with money and usury, and with nationwide colonization, confiscation, and extortion. They knew the conflict was fomented by British and European banks, eager to establish control over America, as they had throughout the world. This fact is admitted by British agent Benjamin Franklin whose comment takes us to the heart of the matter:

The inability of the Colonists to get power to issue their own money permanently out of the hands of King George III and the international bankers, was the prime reason for the revolutionary war

The Colonists were not able to free themselves from the clutches of the international bankers and royal overlords. The War of Independence was not a victory for the citizens of America. On the contrary, it was yet one more victory for the aristocracy that has controlled America from the beginning.

As with the real first bank, the government had been the only depositor to put up any real money, with the remainder being loaned to investors made to each other, using the magic of fractional reserve banking. When time came for renewal of the charter, the government had bad times ahead if they didn't get what they wanted. The charter was not renewed. Five months later Britain had attacked America of 1812 - (Money as History)

Few people are aware today that the history of the United States, since the Revolution in 1776, has been, in large part, the story of an epic struggle to get free, and stay free, of control by the European international bankers. In 1913, when President Woodrow Wilson signed into effect the Federal Reserve Act, putting the International Bank of America in charge of America's money - Paul Grignon (Money as Debt)

Thomas Jefferson mentioned the nefarious power of the bankers directly, saying desperately:

I wish it were possible to obtain a single amendment to our Constitution - taking from the federal government their power

After Alexander Hamilton's gang had established the Federal Bank, and the Judiciary with its unlimited power, Jefferson's illusions concerning America's fate were gone. In 1821, five years before he died, he recorded his misgivings and foreboding:

It has long...been my opinion...that the germ of dissolution of our federal judiciary is in the constitution of the federal judiciary, working like gravity by night and by day, gaining a little today and a little tomorrow, and advancing its noiseless step like a giant, until all shall be usurped from the states, and the government of all be consolidated into one. To this I am opposed. If the government...shall be drawn to Washington as the center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of other parts of the government...will become as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated.

Our government is now taking so steady a course as to show by what road it will pass to destruction, to wit, by consolidation first, and then corruption, its necessary consequences.

The following year Jefferson's insight sharpened all the more. His words reveal the accuracy of his foresight:

If ever this vast country is brought under a single government, it will be one of the most extensive corruption...

In fact Jefferson had misgivings about the state of affairs in America many years before he wrote these words. Between 1784 and 1789 he had been living in France as minister to that country. Upon his return to America he was horrified to see how little effect the grand precepts and provisos of the Declaration of Independence, which he had chiefly formulated, had made. Alfred Jay Knock explains:

On arriving in New York and resuming his place in the social life of the country, he was greatly depressed by the discovery that the Declaration had gone wholly by the board. No one spoke of natural rights and popular sovereignty, it would seem actually the opposite of them. On the contrary, everyone was talking about the pressing need of a strong central coercive authority, able to check the "democratic spirit" was likely to incite upon "the men of principle and property"...Clearly, though the Declaration might have been the charter of American independence, it was in no sense the charter of the new American State - (Our Enemy: the State)

Thomas Jefferson. Along with William Paterson, Thomas Paine, Patrick Henry and Samuel Adams, he put state demands of insatiable tyrannous Federalists. He understood that the Constitution works on a state level, but d when it is interpreted and implemented on the Federal level, by men who can not only force states to submit t but who print money to thereby cover up their failures and perpetuate their unsustainable policies that would the state level.

Patrick Henry, long time critic of the Constitution's drafters, also clearly foresaw the totalitarianism of the Federalists:

My great objection to this Government is, that it does not leave us the means of defending our rights; or of waging war a means of resisting disciplined armies, when our only defense, the militia, is put into the hands of Congress? - (Speech of

Did you ever read of any revolution in any nation, brought about by the punishment of those in power, inflicted by those who had no power at all?...Will your Mace-bearer be a match for a disciplined regiment?...Will oppressed? Was there ever an instance? Can the annals of mankind exhibit one single example, where rulers, overcharge of the oppressed? - ibid

A standing army we shall have also, to execute the execrable commands of tyranny - ibid

Alfred Jay Nock summarizes the travesty and the tragedy in these words:

Nowhere in the history of the constitutional period do we find the faintest suggestion of the Declaration's doctrine of na doctrine of popular sovereignty not only continuing in abeyance, but constitutionally estopped from ever reappearing. I a trace of the Declaration's theory of government, on the contrary, we find it expressly repudiated. The new political mechanism was a faithful replica of the old disestablished British model, but so far improved and stre more close-working and efficient...presenting more attractive possibilities of capture and control - (Our Enemy: the Stat

Nothing that governments do is new. Despots within government operate according to plans that are repeated in various ways over generations. Their control is aided and abetted by their co-conspirators in the media. The politicians and media spin doctors are instructed by overlords who control the private banks and "philanthropic" foundations.

Public sentiment is everything. With public sentiment nothing can fail. Without it nothing can succeed. He who molds opinion enacts laws - Abraham Lincoln

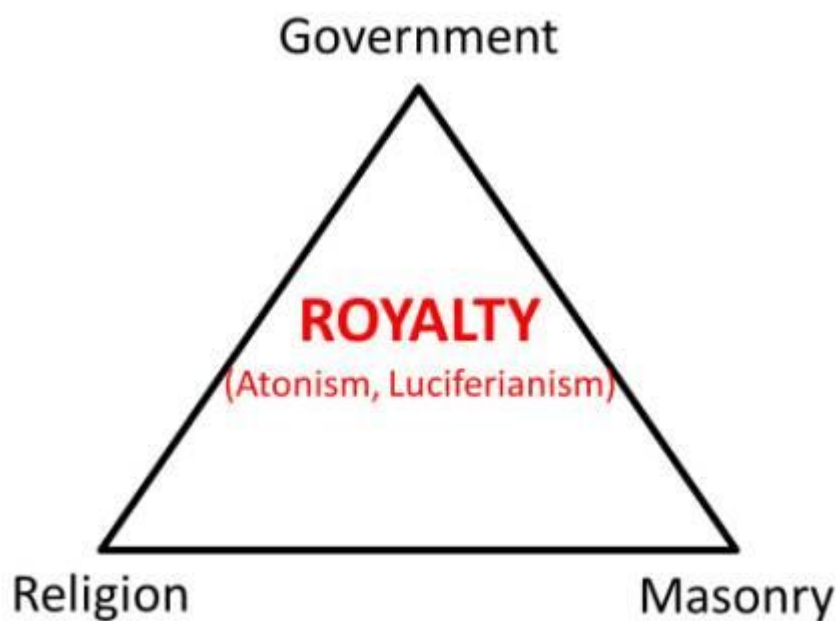

In many cases the politicians, media men and bankers are themselves under the tutelage and direction of British and European aristocracy who have made the "board," so to speak, on which the great geopolitical games are played.

The conspirators who organize the geopolitical game are cautious and do not want their true allegiances or diabolical schemes to be publicly exposed. Each group and individual conspirator knows how vulnerable they are. They know the facts about their true allegiances and agendas must never leak out to the masses at large. Their success depends upon human apathy and ignorance.

In "Red Dusk and the Morrow"...by Sir Paul Dukes, formerly Chief of the British Secret Service in Russia, we read that a L Bolshevik how the regime was maintained. The answer was: "Our power is based on three things: first, on Jewish brains, Chinese bayonets; and thirdly, on the crass stupidity of the Russian people - Denis Fahey (The Rulers of Russia)

The elitist conspirators also know that should civil unrest occur, the masses can be forced back into line by threats to their material and emotional security. The strategy is tried and true, and usually works wonders. As Ernest Hemingway explained:

The first panacea for a mismanaged nation is inflation of the currency; the second is war. Both bring a temporary prosperity and both bring a permanent ruin. But both are the refuge of political and economic opportunists

The Trinity of Slavery. This basic diagram delineates how Atonist royals maintain world control. By way of theology and politics are human hearts and minds enslaved. Through secret societies the hierarchy of control is perpetuated and monitored. As French poet Charles Peguy wrote: "Tyranny is always better organized than freedom."

Because of the confessions and evidence provided by intelligent, informed whistle-blowers from within religion, politics, royalty and masonry, we know a great deal about how the engines of world and mind control operate. However there are pitfalls when insiders with myopic insight and inflexible allegiances and prejudices attempt to instruct the masses as to the intricacies of oligarchic control. When it comes to exposing the dirty little secrets, and dirty big secrets of those occupying the highest levels of the Atonist power-pyramid, objectivity is essential. Photographs of their hideous visages, taken from a rickety platform constructed by their agents, will be “blurred” and inadequate, to say the least.

An alternative schemata of the pyramid of enslavement shows that sociopolitical power descends from the highest unseen level to operatives making up the elusive College of Cardinals situated in Rome and elsewhere. This level of Solar Cult agents includes the infamous Jesuit Order and so-called Illuminati. Next, a measure of power flows down to the level of the many secret societies that plague the world. Although these denominations may have a Protestant or Catholic, liberal or conservative coloring, they are all controlled by the same nefarious Luciferian cadre. From here, when necessary, sociopolitical power is loaned to the world's ardent psychotic Kabalists, better known to the world as "Zionists." The highest echelon within this branch know that their ideology has little to do with official Judaism, as it has been put before us. They know they are the privileged descendents of ancestors who long served ancient imperial concerns, such as the Merovingians and Hapsburgs, etc. When necessary, this group lends a modicum of sociopolitical power to the lowest level of ill-informed but violent extremists of all persuasions to run amok with their fanatical ideologies, deliberately wreaking havoc and unrest, so higher agendas are not uncovered and thwarted.

Philosopher Ayn Rand frequently warned readers about the evils of big government:

Instead of being a protector of man's rights, the government is becoming their most dangerous violator; instead of guaranteeing freedom, it is establishing slavery; instead of protecting men from the initiators of physical force, the government is initiating physical force in the manner and issue it pleases; instead of serving as the instrument of objectivity in human relationships, the government is initiating a subterranean reign of uncertainty and fear...instead of protecting men from injury by whim, the government is arrogating to itself the right of unlimited whim, so that we are fast approaching the stage of the ultimate inversion: the stage where the government is while the citizens may act only by permission; which is the stage of the darkest periods of human history, the stage of ruin.

Rand laid it on the line when addressing the crimes of government:

Criminals are a small minority in any age or community. And the harm they have done to mankind is infinitesimal when compared to the harm done by government. Bloodshed, the wars, the persecution, the famines, the enslavements, the wholesale destruction - perpetrated by mankind - government is the most dangerous threat to man's rights - When unlimited and unrestricted by individual rights, a government is man's enemy.

Before her perceptive words were written, French philosopher Pierre Joseph Proudhon addressed the "people versus government" problem:

To be Governed is to be watched, inspected, spied upon, directed, law-driven, numbered, regulated, enrolled, indoctrinated, preached, controlled, checked, estimated, valued, censured, commanded, by creatures who have neither the right nor the wisdom nor the virtue to do so. To be governed is to be at every operation, at every transaction noted, registered, counted, taxed, stamped, measured, numbered, assessed, licensed, authorized, admonished, prevented, forbidden, reformed, corrected, punished. It is, under pretext of public utility, and in the name of order, to be placed under contribution, drilled, fleeced, exploited, monopolized, extorted from, squeezed, hoaxed, robbed; then, at the slightest word of complaint, to be repressed, fined, vilified, harassed, hunted down, abused, clubbed, disarmed, bound, choked, imprisoned, beaten, shot, deported, sacrificed, sold, betrayed; and to crown all, mocked, ridiculed, derided, outraged, dishonored. That is government, and its morality - (General Idea of the Revolution in the Nineteenth Century)

Victorian philosopher Herbert Spencer pondered whether man requires governments at all:

What, then, do they (Humans) want a government for? Not to regulate commerce; not to educate the people; not to teach morality; not to make roads and railways; but simply to defend the natural rights of man - to protect person and property against the powerful upon the weak - in a word, to administer justice. This is the natural, the original, office of a government. It ought not to be allowed to do more - (The Man Versus the State)

He also wrote:

The great political superstition of the past was the divine right of kings. The great political superstition of the present is the right of the State.

Father of the Anarchist movement, Mikhail Bakunin - who spent many years imprisoned in dungeons - knew all about government oppression. For him governments were unnecessary institutions that darkened the world:

The liberty of man consists solely in this, that he obeys the laws of nature, because he has himself recognized them as such, and not been imposed upon him externally by any foreign will whatsoever, human or divine, collective or individual - (God and the State)

German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche understood why governments exist, and how they maintain their malignant dominion:

...a fullness of state power such as only despotism had enjoyed...surpassed all the past because it strove for the formal and the individual...Once the earth is brought under all-embracing economic control, then mankind will find it has been reduced to a monstrous clockwork system of ever smaller, more finely adjusted wheels.

Spanish philosopher Jose Ortega Y Gasset explained State corruption in these words:

This is the gravest danger that today threatens civilization: State intervention, the absorption of all spontaneous social action, the suppression of spontaneous historical action, which in the long-run sustains, nourishes and impels human destinies.

His sentiments were shared by the American critic Henry L. Menken, who said the Federal State:

...has spread out its powers until they penetrate to every act of the citizen, however secret, it has begun to throw around it the net of its omnipotence.

dignity and impeccability of a State religion, its agents become a separate and superior caste, with authority to bind and unbind as it was in the beginning, the common enemy of all well-disposed industrious and decent men.

In his important book on State totalitarianism, Our Enemy: the State, Albert Jay Nock explained the motives of State officials:

It is unfortunately none too well understood that, just as the State has no money of its own, so it has no power of its own. Society gives it, plus what it confiscates from time to time on one pretext or another; there is no other source from which it draws. Therefore every assumption of State power, whether by gift or seizure, leaves society with so much less power; there is no strengthening of State power without a corresponding and roughly equivalent depletion of social power.

Nock understands that there is not a jot of difference between American Federalists and the diabolical Socialists who have plagued the world. He put the matter plainly:

The superficial distinctions of Fascism, Bolshevism, Hitlerism, are the concern of journalists and publicists, the serious root-idea of a complete conversion of social power to State power...The positive testimony of history is that the State is born of conquest and confiscation. No known State known to history originated in any other manner.

Freedom can go to hell, but apparently silly belief systems and fanatical prejudices are welcome to stay.

The men who profited from the Constitution's acceptance, expertly used their interests and to goad delegates into compliance with their will. They realized that Americans were traumatized and exhausted by war. They stage-managed the controlled media reportage of events in Virginia and Philadelphia.

If the people had the time to relax and educate themselves, if they had the leadership of Thomas Paine, Patrick Henry, and the other critics who suspected the Federalists' planning, the Constitution would never have been ratified.

The best the people belatedly received was the Bill of Rights drafted in 1791. It was expressly created to protect people against potential abuses of the ill-received Constitution. It was conceded to the American people by Madison, who by then had secured all that he and his Federalist colleagues demanded.

A number of states had accepted the Constitution with urgent recommendations for changes. At first, it seemed that Congress would heed to these suggestions. Patrick Henry and other then set up a clamor which had to be heeded, and Congress referred the proposals to the states. Nevins and Commanger (Pocket History of the U.S.)

The federalists delayed ratification of the Bill of Rights for over two years while they organized the new federal courts and gave powers to counter individual rights - Kenneth W. Royce (Hologram of Liberty)

The Federalists instigated virtual panic, and made sure the people were not able to take time to repair and think. Their representatives and delegates were harried into accepting and signing the Constitution. The same methods of "conflict control" have been used throughout the generations. They are still being put to good use by politicians and parties. In the 1960s, Ex-Communist Jerry Kirk discovered how the great game is played. He eloquently explained the process in these words:

The idea is to create a situation where the people are so frightened of the chaos all around them, that they will throw the "Federal Government, do something!" And the only choice open will be Martial Law...The Communists, black militants and others will succeed in overthrowing the government of the United States, but unless they are stopped, they will scare the American people from Washington, and status rule from the Establishment. This is what it is really all about.

Expert on the British takeover of America, G. Edward Griffin, explains the mechanics of conflict-control in these words:

...deliberately create problems, and then offer only those solutions which result in the expansion of government. Create a situation at home and abroad that the abandonment of personal liberties and national sovereignty will appear as a reasonable price for order and world peace - (The Capitalist Conspiracy)

Student Socialist agitator James S. Kunen also discovered how the upper echelon conspires to foment social unrest, so the true enemies of freedom remain undetected:

In the evening we went up to the University to check out a strategy meeting. A kid was giving a report on the SDS Convention men from Business International Round Tables...tried to buy up a few radicals...These men are the world's leaders who convene to decide how our lives are going to go. These are the guys who wrote the Alliance for Progress. They are the leaders who offered to finance our demonstrations in Chicago (1968). We were offered Esso (Rockefeller) money. They want us to move so they can look more in the center as they move to the left - (The Strawberry Statement: Notes of a College Revolutionary)

The scrapping of the US Constitution is essential. Americans must revise and update the Articles of Confederation and abolish the corrupt totalitarian Federal apparatus of control. Americans must wake up from their delirium and find out what kind of conspiracy has been occurring in their land. They must contemplate the words of Bertrand de Jouvenal, who said "A society of sheep must in time beget a government of wolves," and remember that it was mutineers and not conformists who founded America.

The traitors are still with us. Indeed their treachery is greater than ever. Hiding behind the Constitution and political process they see to it America's ports are sold and that schools are swamped and under-funded. Because of their scandalous policies America's heavy industry operates at a minimum. American businesses are throttled by legality and taxation, while foreign-made products fill the shelves. Companies and jobs are perpetually outsourced, prisons supersize and innocent men and women languish behind bars to be raped and tortured. Poisons fall from the sky in the form of chemtrails, and illegal aliens occupy like invading armies, enjoying the "fruits" they did nothing to cultivate or harvest. It all occurs in a country that came out of World War II richer than it went in.

Why is this the case? What has happened? Why have so few taken so much from so many for so long?

As of 2000, USA Today reports on its front page that 6.6 million adults (three percent of the adult population) are in prison, a society as ever done so deadly a thing to its people and on such a scale - Gore Vidal (Imperial America)

We have two million people in jail. Our country doesn't build hospitals, doesn't build schools and doesn't build day-care and it is not the hallmark of a free society, but of a police state - Steven Hager (High Times Editor-in-Chief)

Oriental countries prosper and rise economically. The Third World is fast becoming the First World, while the First World nose-dives into ruin. This was the plan from the outset. It is the result of tyranny not democracy. It is also the result of apathy. No truer words on the subject were stated than those by President Abraham Lincoln:

These United States of America can never be destroyed from forces outside its borders. If America falls, it will fall from within. When good people do nothing, Anarchy reigns - (Letter to Congress, 1854)

Lincoln also emphasized the despotism of wealthy oligarchs who prosper from the ignorance and apathy of the masses.

The money power preys upon the nation in times of peace and conspires against it in times of adversity. It is more despo insolent than autocracy, more selfish than bureaucracy.

Robert Maynard Hutchins also commented on the apathetic state brought on by over-stimulation and trauma:

The death of democracy is not likely to be an assassination from ambush. It will be a slow extinction from apathy, indifference

Senator from Nevada, George W. Malone, made the following statement before Congress in 1957:

I believe that if the people of this nation fully understood what Congress has done to them over the last 49 years, they would not wait for an election...It adds up to a preconceived plan to destroy the economic and social independence of the Ironically, during and after the War of Independence the eyes of the world were on America. The Czar of Russia, Nicholas Romanov II, admired what he saw taking place and, before his brutal assassination, was ready to emulate the scintillating American experiment. During the War of Independence he sent ships, money and troops to assist American rebels. Russia and many other countries would have changed for the better had Americans not been cajoled into adopting the Constitution.

The good news is that even the most oppressive tyranny cannot last forever. Once the tyrant and his heinous industry is exposed, the game is up. At that point they can be overthrown, and things can be put aright. It has happened in Ireland and the Congo, in Cuba and Nicaragua, and many other lands. But the enemy knows this only too well. He understands that he is vulnerable, and is aware of how he could be undermined. As a result, he is constantly on guard. He knows that his activities and methods must not be properly scrutinized. Consequently, he makes a point of keeping his subjects in fear for their lives. He prefers them to be limbic creatures unable to reason and discern good from bad and right from wrong. He makes sure their attention is focused elsewhere, and that strange, demented, and frightening "enemies" are always rattling the gates. Through his obedient agents, he funds and controls the supposed enemies, and instructs them how to operate.

In this manner is the great game of geopolitics and mass control played. It is simply chess on a global level. Should a pawn fall off the board or be sacrificed, the kings, queens and bishops do not turn a hair. The comfortably placed misleaders bang the drums of war and send dedicated men and women to fight and die for the "United States" corporation.

The U.S. is a business, and those who have given their lives for it died uselessly. Tragically they have been sacrificed at the behest of their country's true enemies. As Count Leo Tolstoy wisely said "Government is an association of men who do violence to the rest of us."

George William Frederick (George William Frederick, King of Hanover. He was a member of the House of Hanover - the so-called House of Orange. He was a demented tyrant who suffered from mental disease. According to George Trevelyan, he vowed "never to recognize the independence of the American colonies by the indefinite prolongation of the war which promised to be eternal." He was a tyrant who harassed, anxious and poor, and by a natural and inevitable process of disappointment were converted into remorse."

Military men are dumb, stupid animals, to be used as pawns for foreign policy - Henry Kissinger (January-February 2000)

It's not a number I'm terribly interested in - Colin Powell (reply when asked about the Iraqi casualties)

The men who committed this atrocity in New York, on September Eleventh 2001, mass murdered more people than the killer in the 228 year history of the United States - Anthony J. Hilder (The Greatest Lie Ever Sold)

Our point is simple. We insist that the predators and parasites of America and the world must be closely studied. Understanding them as they do provides us with the keys of worldly salvation.

Moreover, we must understand that the elite despots of the world enjoy repetition and their nefarious strategies are tried over and over. We must understand that these demagogues bank on one human weakness: forgetfulness. Historical amnesia hands them the power they need. As the philosopher Friedrich Schlegel appropriately said: "The struggle of man against power is the struggle of forgetting."

The answer to humankind's future lies in remembering what has happened. It lies in not repeating past mistakes, and not falling for the same traps. Furthermore, we must end our psychological dependence on the established despotic forms of government and who benefit from them. We must we consciously or unconsciously identify with the predator, the tyrant, of tyranny, regardless of the political action taken. It will raise its head again. Ultimately we must judge our misleaders by their deeds.

We must be on guard against their rhetoric and sophistry, and enact laws to prevent them doing their worst. We must not be afraid to stand up to degenerate, self-serving politicians - supposedly acting in our name - who have strayed astray.

President Andrew Jackson suffered terribly at under the British Crown. During the war he and his brother were captured, held prisoner and nearly starved to death. When Andrew refused to clean the boots of a Red Coat, he was slashed with a sword which left him with scars on his head and left hand. His brother Robert died from smallpox contracted while a captive. Jackson's immediate family died from wartime hardships. As a result of these horrific experiences Jackson never forgave the British oppressors.

Civil disobedience is not our problem. Our problem is civil obedience. Our problem is that numbers of people all over the world are obedient to the dictates of the leaders of their government and have gone to war, and millions have been killed because of this obedience. People are obedient all over the world in the face of poverty and starvation and stupidity, and war, and cruelty. Our problem is that the jails are full of petty thieves, and all the while the grand thieves are running the country. That's

Americans don't care about politics, only about politicians -
Anthony Wedgwood Benn

George W. Bush is for example a distant cousin of John Kerry, the presidential nominee who ran against him in 2004. Kerry's parents are not Irish but Jewish. On the matter of his aristocratic ancestry we read:

Senator John Kerry has blue blood from all the royal houses of Europe, with even more titled relations than President Bush. A researcher of the genealogy, said the Democratic presidential candidate traces descent through his mother, Rosemary Foran, to a family that includes the royal houses of Albania, England, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Russia, Byzantium, Persia (Iran) and France. Forbes was descended from a family that included many baronets...It is via this family that the Democratic candidate is descended from the royal houses of England and father of Richard the Lionheart, who was the leader of the third Crusade in 1189...By contrast, Bush is related to twenty British dukes and many European princes...President Bush, Princess Diana and Winston Churchill are distantly related to the same British oligarchs (Newspaper; September 2000 Edition)

George H. W. Bush and wife Barbara are related to the same British oligarchs. Additionally, George is:

...closely related to every European monarch on and off the throne – and has kinship with every member of Britain's royal family. He is the 13th cousin of Britain's Queen Mother, and of her daughter Queen Elizabeth, and is the 13th cousin once removed of Prince Charles. Bush's family tree can be documented as far back as the early 15th century. He has a direct descent from the royal family of France, through the VIII's sister Mary Tudor who was also the wife of Louis XI of France. He is also descended from Charles II of England - Da Vinci and the World Trade Center Disaster)

Father George and wife Barbara are both descendants of Godfroi de Bouillon who, in 1099, led European noblemen in the First Crusade to recapture Jerusalem from the Islamic faith and moved into the King's palace at Temple Mount...Godfroi de Bouillon was the Duke of Lower Lorraine, a major region for the Illuminati bloodline - ibid

The time has come for the veils of mystique to be torn away from the so-called "Fathers" of the Constitution. They were not champions of a free, sovereign nation, and their legacy is neither auspicious nor grand. They chose to subvert the Articles that guaranteed freedom to every American. They coveted power and made themselves fabulously rich by exploiting the gullibility and ignorance of the moral but illiterate, masses. In our time their villainous counterparts in government have shifted into overdrive. Their heinous acts of conquest, extortion and confiscation know no bounds. As long as ignorance of the enemy's nature persists, nothing will change, and the pirates of Capitol Hill will continue to ply their insidious trade. As King George once demanded, the war against America was to be waged eternally. His desire is being fulfilled as every day passes. Unless the Machiavellian

The Articles of Confederation worked to bring security to the new nation after the chaos of the War of Independence. Unlike the Articles of Confederation honored the rights of individual states.

The Articles did not distinguish between rich and poor. They were not "People," and did not permit an oligarchy to assume power. Those who drafted and ratified the US Constitution were hungry for power. They adamantly wanted to protect their own power. In their megalomania they knew what they wanted and how to get it. They were like proverbial wolves in sheep's clothing.

Their Constitution is deceptive in form and substance. It was designed to preside in America. The American-based aristocrats may not sit on thrones, but they are in many cases directly related or connected to the British and European thrones.

intrigues of his biological and ideological descendants are exposed and overcome, America's ruin is certain. The task is, however, impossible without knowledge of the adversary. Knowledge is the weapon we must use to eradicate the imperious predators that lurk behind the long grass. of history.

*"Conspiracy!" One of the darkest words in the language of man. Yet there is hardly a single page of History that does not show of Conspiracy at work. It was a conspiracy that led Brutus against Caesar in the Roman senate on the Ides of March...the Point by Benedict Arnold, during the American Revolution...that led John Wilkes Booth to the assassination of President Lincoln. The past record of man is burdened with accounts of assassinations, secret combines, palace plots and betrayals in war. In our day an amazing number of people have begun to scoff at the possibility of conspiracy at work today. They dismiss such an idea as a view - G. Edward Griffin (The Capitalist Conspiracy)*

Knowledge of the enemy is the golden key that opens the gate to a future free of tyranny and slavery. We not only owe our children a freer future - we owe it to our forebears. Those who fought and labored to create the elements of civilization we enjoy, but who were treacherously undermined and robbed, must be remembered and reverently toasted. It is their memory we honor, not that of their destroyers.

*Where other men have skimmed the surface, Beard has gone through to the core. He stayed months in Washington to go through the ancient papers and documents in the Treasury Department, he went into vaults that were so filled with dust that it was necessary to use papers with a vacuum cleaner. But when he came back to the surface he had damning evidence against a good many of our fathers. He knew why they were so anxious, not only for a new constitution, but for the particular kind of a constitution that was afterwards adopted. Benson (The Dishonest Constitution)*
