Cheney Taken Inside S-4 To View Flying Saucers & EBE Bodies by Michael Salla, Ph.D.

How credible is O’Ryan’s/Hennessy’s testimony? The most significant documentary evidence is the W-2 obtained by Stevens (see slide show). The control number (45851), Employer Identification Number (95-6593572) and Employers State ID (2464423P) were checked and confirmed by Stevens’ FBI contact. According to the FBI contact, O’Ryan/Hennessy had been “deprogrammed and reprogrammed” after being taken back in to covert programs by the CIA and Naval intelligence on various covert assignments. The W-2 and numbers can be investigated for independent confirmation.

Furthermore, O’Ryan/Hennessy revealed many details in his video testimony to Wendelle Stevens and Gem Cox about his background and events, that can also be investigated for corroboration. Finally, O’Ryan/Hennessy stayed for a month with supercomputer and photo analysis expert, Jim Dilettoso who along with Cox witnessed his photos and a duty roster that O’Ryan/Hennessy showed him.

Overview

A film by Under-Appreciated Science Productions, this six and one half hour long film was finished in late September 2009 after many long months of work by Rick Keefe. This documentary contains the first ever wide release of the Connor O’Ryan testimony, detailing the specifics of the above top secret laboratory installation within Area 51 known as S-4.

‘Connor O’Ryan’ is the pseudonym of an S-4 sentry, Derek Hennessy, who defected, and approached Wendelle Stevens in the fall of 1991 and gave testimony as to the activities of certain high officials at the S-4 facility. S-4 rests inside the edge of the Papoose mountains that lay alongside the dry Papoose Lake. S-4 is located just a few miles southwest of the infamous Groom Lake Naval Air Base, for which Area 51 is most famous. However, S-4 is likely an even more secluded and guarded base than Groom Lake.

This documentary presents the testimonies and circumstantial evidence regarding the highest extreme of classified secret activities of U.S. Navy scientists, engineers, guards, assassins, and certain government leaders and corporate executives that are conducting special ops missions and advanced experiments involving dangerous elements and energy sources out of the view of congressional oversight and public watchdogs.

As well, it appears that a select clique of individuals, organizations, and corporations are profiting handsomely through seeding captured alien technology that has been back-engineered at S-4, then introduced into our society through companies of their choosing, rewarding those "in the know" handsomely, if not illegally, and unethically stunting the spread of this science to the world at large, choosing to keep it secret in order to benefit themselves financially and to promote their aspirations of greater power."

"UFO Hypotheses "S4 Informers" featuring Wendelle Stevens Volume One" (released August 4, 2009)

In the first volume, both Lt. Col Wendelle C. Stevens, USAF (ret.) and Sgt. Maj. Robert O. Dean, Army (ret.) are introduced. In October 1991, Stevens is contacted by a NAVY Seal/CIA assassin claiming to have photos of S-4, a top secret lab complex within Area 51. Volume One explores "Connor O'Ryan," his claims, Stevens, investigation, and this volume also includes testimony by Phil Schneider, a detailed synopsis of Area 51, discussion of Bob Lazar at S-4 by John Lear, and much more.

"UFO Hypotheses "S4 Informers" featuring Wendelle Stevens Volume Two" (released September 4, 2009)

In the second volume, large segments of the "Connor O'Ryan" testimony are presented and examined, focusing on the specific area of Level Two where the S-4 sentry claimed that he spent most of his duty time. Stevens clarifies his hypotheses regarding a U.S. fleet of flying disc spacecraft, supported by an analysis of the STS-48 space shuttle footage by astrophysicist Richard Hoagland, with additional support from cyber-hacker Gary McKinnon's testimony. Then, Stevens shares his insight into S-4 engineer Bill Uhouse, and the ET being who Uhouse claimed he worked with on numerous occasions known as Jarod. This volume concludes with "Connor O'Ryan" testifying on camera that former Vice President Dick Cheney spent time inspecting S-4's Level Two in 1991.

"UFO Hypotheses "S4 Informers" featuring Wendelle Stevens Volume Three" (released September 30, 2009)

In the third volume, Stevens presents Colonel Steve Wilson's evidence and testimony, which confirms key elements of the "Connor O'Ryan" testimony, and also includes evidence gathered about Wilson by Richard Boylan, among others. Following this eye-opening section is a day-by-day breakdown of the time "Connor O'Ryan" spent with Wendelle Stevens, as we follow Stevens through the tense, nervebending days of investigation while the S-4 sentry stayed at Stevens' home, sharing with Stevens all he knew of the S-4 facility. Further into the volume, computer guru Jim Dilettoso, a friend of Stevens, recalls at length how "O'Ryan" came to stay at his ranch in Paradise Valley outside of Phoenix, Arizona for one month, and describes the photos that "O'Ryan" show him during that time. Volume Three wraps up with Stevens, Dean and Dilettoso sharing their current conclusions on these events, followed by an editorial cartoon section by Keefe, and concluding with Schneider's shocking testimony as credits roll.

CIA Hit Letter - image below

Alleged CIA assassination authorization.

On July 13, the New York Times - writers Mark Mazzetti and Scott Shane - ran a story about the CIA running an assassination squad using U.S. military special forces against foreign terrorists without Congressional approval on the orders of former Vice President Dick Cheney. The Times story confirms claims by Seymour Hersh in March 2009 that an assassination squad had been created that reported directly to Cheney using special forces personnel. The covert CIA project was shut down by CIA Director Leon Panetta when he learned of it on June 23. Details of the project were passed on the next day to the U.S. Congress and led to furor over the reports. A statement by seven members of the House Intelligence Committee concerning the CIA misleading Congress was subsequently released. The covert CIA program allegedly began in 2001 soon after the 911 attacks. The unfolding revelations of CIA death squads using U.S. military special forces personnel coincides with the online release of video testimony of a former U.S. Navy SEAL who said he was recruited to perform 18 assassination assignments for the CIA. If true, the SEAL's testimony reveals that covert assassinations predate the 911 attacks, and also targeted U.S. citizens. Curiously, the assassinations were related to covert projects Dick Cheney was allegedly involved in when he was Secretary of Defense for George H.W. Bush from 1989 to 1993.

Connor O'Ryan was a pseudonym used by Derek Hennessy who claims in video testimony recorded in 1991, that he performed covert missions for the CIA in the 1980s assassinating enemies of the United States. After joining the U.S. Navy in the early 1980s, O'Ryan/Hennessy claims he joined the elite SEALs and was eventually tasked to perform his covert assassination missions. He said that targets of the assassination hits even included U.S. citizens. He described his 18th and final mission as a sergeant for the U.S. Army Green Berets stationed at the U.S. Embassy in Budapest, Hungary.

O'Ryan's/Hennessy's extraordinary claims were investigated over a ten year period by a retired Lt Colonel with the U.S. Air Force, Wendelle Stevens. During his investigation, Stevens was able to confirm Hennessy's military I.D. and that he was assigned to the CIA performing covert missions. Concerned that O'Ryan/Hennessy may have been part of an intelligence operation to discredit him, Stevens did not release the initial results of his investigation until 2001. Video testimony of O'Ryan/Hennessy is included in a set of interviews conducted with Stevens currently being released on the internet. In the interviews, Steven's discussed documents he had in his possession verifying Hennessy's covert CIA missions. One document was apparently written on CIA letter head (see above graphic) with instructions for O/Ryan/Hennessy on his last mission.

Steven's read out the document's contents as follows: "You are to report to the American Embassy in Budapest, Hungary. You will be received by S.A. Greywolf. As a unit you will proceed to terminate an ex S.A. David T. Johnson."

According to Stevens, the document was O'Ryan's/Hennessy's final hit order one month before he left his final assignment at a secret facility in Nevada. Another document is O'Ryan's/Hennessy's W-2 salary statement that showed he was earning $74,000 for the CIA. Though only a sergeant he was earning the equivalent of a colonel's salary at the time. Steven's was able to confirm that the serial number and code word on the W-2 were active through an anonymous FBI source. On the video Stevens mistakenly refers to the salary statement as a W-4, but a copy of the W-2 is clearly shown (see slide show) .

Combined with O'Ryan's/Hennessy's recorded video testimony, the documents, if genuine, would be smoking gun evidence that a CIA assassination squad using U.S. military personnel predated 2001 and even targeted U.S. citizens. To date, neither of the documents has been released to the public. Only video images are available. Independent document authentication still has to be conducted.

The confirmation of the W-2 by an anonymous FBI contact of Stevens is powerful support for the legitimacy of O'Brian's/Hennessy's story. There is good reason, however, to be skeptical about the CIA hit order document's legitimacy. It is difficult to accept that the CIA would be so explicit in putting on CIA stationary orders to terminate a serving U.S. military non-commissioned officer. One could reasonably argue that such orders, if put on paper, would be done in a more cryptic manner without the CIA logo. This would be consistent with an Assassination Directive that former CIA Director Allen Dulles allegedly drafted in 1961, and was later authorized by a group responsible for covert operations called Majestic-12. The alleged Dulles' Assassination Directive used the cryptic phrase "it should be wet" as a code word for assassinations designed to protect Majestic-12 operations.

If indeed there has been a CIA assassination program that predates 2001, it may originate from Dulles 1961 draft Assassination Directive. The directive was allegedly received by the chief of CIA counterintelligence, James Jesus Angleton in 1961, and subsequently linked to the President Kennedy Assassination. If O'Connor/Hennessy did eliminate a serving Green Beret in Budapest in 1991 as he claims, then the authority for such an assassination may derive from Dulles' 1961 draft Assassination Directive.

If O'Ryan's/Hennessy's CIA hit order letter is a hoax, that raises an equally perplexing question. Why would Wendelle Stevens, a long time researcher of the UFO phenomenon, be targeted in an elaborate intelligence operation to discredit him with a contrived story about CIA assassins using elite military special forces personnel in 1991? O'Ryan/Hennessy spent an extended period hiding with Stevens and associates while allegedly on the run. During this time, a series of events occurred that persuaded those giving shelter to O'Ryan/Hennessy that he was genuinely being monitored and threatened to return voluntarily to his program. Eventually, O'Ryan/Hennessy disappeared and has never been heard of again.

If O'Ryan's/Hennessy's testimony is even partially correct, as Stevens' confirmation of his W-2 suggests, it would confirm the existence of an assassination team run by the CIA prior to 2001. His testimony reveals that even U.S. citizens were eliminated due to agendas of a highly classified covert operations run out of the CIA. O'Ryan/Hennessy himself apparently become a target when he shared his information with Stevens and this may have been related to his disappearance.

For the last nine months of his military service during his final assassination missions, Hennessy was assigned to a covert facility in Nevada called S-4 to perform sentry duty for a highly classified covert project. It was there that he witnessed Dick Cheney arrive one day for an inspection for a project maintaining the secrecy of which was related to his earlier assassination missions.
