

Solar Warden

Printable View

Show 40 post(s) from this thread on one page

Page 1 of 4 1 4 ▶ Last ►►The One

24th November 2010 10:14

Solar Warden

<http://www.examiner.com/x-2383-Honol...igravity-fleet>

Anybody got any good information on the above topic.I am doing some research

Regards

The One

Bill Ryan

24th November 2010 10:46

Re: Solar Warden

How much time have you got? :)

Michael Salla's article is a good one. His references about Henry Deacon confirming SOLAR WARDEN are correct.

From http://projectcamelot.org/livermore_physicist_3.html:

Transport is by two means: stargates for personnel and small items, spacecraft for larger items of freight. The alternative fleet is codenamed SOLAR WARDEN.

We had first heard of this from another source, and queried Henry about the codename. We sent him two separate messages, each simply of one word: SOLAR, and then WARDEN. We offered no context, or reason for our communication.

The reply came immediately in three e-mails, each from a different address. The first said MARS, the second said ALTERNATIVE, and the third had as its subject "Not listed here" and gave this URL as its only content. We were impressed.

If you listen to this 2 minute extract of Gordon Novel's interview with George Knapp on Coast to Coast on 17 Jan 2010

http://projectavalon.net/Gordon_Nove..._2_extract.mp3

... you'll hear him describe how the nephew of a friend of his - a professional hiker - was deep in the Utah desert, 25 miles from the nearest road in a high inaccessible area.

Suddenly, he saw a arrowhead-shaped craft 600 feet long appear and hover, a giant camouflaged sliding door opened in the desert floor, and the craft disappeared into what was a concealed underground base. The hiker was rubbing his eyes wondering what on earth he just saw.

Kerry Cassidy and I later talked with Gordon about this personally and confirmed the report.

Out of interest, I put together a diagram of how large this craft would be. Something this large might carry about 2,000 people.

http://projectavalon.net/Utah_black_...comparison.gif

The One

24th November 2010 11:38

Re: Solar Warden

Found this document at <http://www.nasa.gov/centers/johnson/...nnj08ta27c.pdf> page 27 of 180

NNJ08TA27C Section C

1.0 INTRODUCTION

On January 14, 2004, the President directed NASA to embark on a spaceexploration program that will advancethe nation's scientific,security and economic interests. In support of this vision the United States (US)will:

- a. Implementa sustained and affordable human and robotic program to explore the solar system and beyond.
- b. Extend human presence across the solar system, starting with a human return to the Moon by the year 2020, in preparation for human exploration of Mars and other destinations.
- c. Developthe innovative technologies, knowledge, and infrastructuresboth to explore and to support decisions about future destinations for humanexploration.

Interesting how they want to extend human presence over the solar system. We have advanced so much for example in mobile technology but space we haven't moved on at all well that's what tptb would like us to think.

Bill Ryan24th November 2010 11:51

Re: Solar Warden

What I understand - and have been told - is that the technology already exists to leave the solar system. Those huge 600 ft (180 m) long craft are not just going to the Moon or Mars.

Gordon Novel made enquiries, and learned that there are eight (8) of them. They probably cost tens (maybe hundreds) of billions of dollars each. And we wonder where all the trillions of dollars have gone.

Answer:

- On operational black technology such as these (and other) craft.
- On the bases on the moon and Mars.
- On the hundreds of deep underground bases - the construction program for which I was told has been increased by 75% over the last four years.

Luke24th November 2010 13:17

Re: Solar Warden

What always interested me in this topic was how much those projects have common with what we call world. You know, countries, economy, wars etc.

Those ships/fleet need serious facilities to operate. Imagine a factory needed to build such giant. And resources. And top notch specialists. And completely different brand of science to what is taught here. These are not endeavours that can be taken on piecemeal basis, you need continuity in training, repairs, developments.

Also- having access to space means access to resources there. "Asteroid belt" itself is said to be rich with rare minerals, that given such technology are easily obtainable.

Logically speaking, only reason for "them" to be concerned with earth matters is having a supply of "fresh blood".. or specialists in exotic fields, if they do not have a "project" in place for them already. Only money they would need are those needed to maintain fronts within our society. After all, do you think they use greenbacks on say, Alpha Centauri?

We are talking about completely breakaway civilization, with scopes, rules and goals far removed from our "world" ramifications.

Also- logically such civilization would be working within framework of other such civilizations out there .. say running missions in some kind of "Cosmic NATO" .. or even waging wars there.

This is completely alien world for somebody using earth's logic.

Also, one can speculate about existence of Earth as such as a "recruiting post" or "training camp" within much larger structure.

Just imagine: how to explain ways our society works to somebody that happened to be raised in village in some wild mountains, with medieval level of technology and knowledge.. but it does not mean such men would not make fine soldiers - like Ghurkhas of British Empire.

Edit: consider this for a moment : in World War Two, Germany alone had about 2 million soldiers "missed in action" .. what if some of them were not "lost" at all? Add to that MIA's from every other conflict here .. through all the ages ... Even at high sublight speeds time is not what we think it is . And with tech advanced enough, body is not a problem. Soul to drive it in appropriate manner is.

Bill Ryan24th November 2010 13:47

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Luke

We are talking about completely breakaway civilization, with scopes, rules and goals far removed from our "world" ramifications.

Exactly right. There's a "Human Civilization" 2.0 being created - and you and I are not part of it. We're still trying to get to grips with 1.0.

Version 2.0 has advanced spacecraft, fast-than-light communications, off-planet bases, access to all of human history, free energy, has enhanced some people physically, mentally and psychically, and is prepared to leave us all behind. No public sector scientist has made the cut.

The One24th November 2010 14:21

Re: Solar Warden

Hey luke just thinking about what happened to them soldiers do you remeber the tale of the eskimo village

THE ESKIMO VILLAGE THAT DISAPPEARED

In November 1930, Joe Labelle, a Canadian fur trapper, snow shoed into a thriving Eskimo fishing village situated on the shores of Lake Anjikuni in Canada. Labelle was greeted with an eerie silence. He thought this was very strange because the fishing village was a noisy settlement with 2,000 Eskimos milling back and forth to their kayaks. But there wasn't a soul about. Labelle visited each of the Eskimo huts and fish storehouses but none of the villagers was anywhere to be seen. Labelle saw a flickering fire in the distance and approached it gingerly, sensing something evil was afoot on this moonlit night. Upon the fire was a smoldering pot of blackened stew. To make matters more mysterious, Labelle saw that not a single human track had left the settlement. Labelle knew something bizarre had happened to the 2,000 people, and so he ran non-stop to the nearest telegraph office and sent a message about his findings to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The Mounties turned up hours later, and they too were baffled by the mass vanishing act. An enormous search party was sent out to look for the missing villagers, but they were never found, and the search party unearthed some strange findings. All the sleigh dogs that had belonged to the Eskimos were found buried 12 feet under a snowdrift at the perimeter of the camp. All of them had starved to death. The search party also established that all the Eskimos' provisions and food had been left in their huts, which didn't make any sense at all. Then came the most chilling surprise of all; the search party discovered that all of the Eskimos' ancestral graves were empty. Whoever or whatever had taken all the living villagers had also dug up the dead as well, even though the icy ground around the graves was as hard as iron. Later, on that unearthly silent night the Mounties watched in awe as a strange blue glow lit up the horizon. The eerie radiance was not the northern lights, but seemed steady and artificial. As the Mounties watched, the light pulsated then faded. All the newspapers of the world reported the baffling disappearance of the 2,000 Eskimos, although many believed that a rational explanation would eventually come to light, but the Anjikuni mass disappearance is still unsolved

Elandiel BernElve

24th November 2010 14:26

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »

Exactly right. There's a "Human Civilization" 2.0 being created - and you and I are not part of it. We're still trying to get to grips with 1.0.

Version 2.0 has advanced spacecraft, fast-than-light communications, off-planet bases, access to all of human history, free energy, has enhanced some people physically, mentally and psychically, and is prepared to leave us all behind. No public sector scientist has made the cut.

Is there an application form you know of? ;)

I've played enough sci-fi video games

I've seen enough sci-fi movies

I've read enough information on this subject to be ready

Operator

24th November 2010 14:26

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »

Exactly right. There's a "Human Civilization" 2.0 being created - and you and I are not part of it. We're still trying to get to grips with 1.0.

Version 2.0 has advanced spacecraft, fast-than-light communications, off-planet bases, access to all of human history, free energy, has enhanced some people physically, mentally and psychically, and is prepared to leave us all behind. No public sector scientist has made the cut.

Nasa is now offering one way trips to Mars ... so they must be ready all of a sudden ;). I think participation in the secret space program was a one way trip too.

Once you're in you left this world's civilization.

Fredkc

24th November 2010 15:22

Re: Solar Warden

Bill;

I hate to seem dense but I followed the link to the "CV" listing at: <http://www.navy.mil/navydata/ships/carriers/cv-list.asp> and didn't see anything that seemed amiss. Is there a hint?

Elandiel;

You might want to think that one over. After all, soldiers and such have always been offered a "nice change of scenery". Rarely did it turn out to resemble a travel poster. ;)

Fred

Bill Ryan

24th November 2010 15:27

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by The One *Hey luke just thinking about what happened to them soldiers do you remeber the tale of the eskimo villageTHE ESKIMO VILLAGE THAT DISAPPEARED

In November 1930, Joe Labelle, a Canadian fur trapper, snow shoed into a thriving Eskimo fishing village situated on the shores of Lake Anjikuni in Canada. Labelle was greeted with an eerie silence. He thought this was very strange because the fishing village was a noisy settlement with 2,000 Eskimos milling back and forth to their kayaks. But there wasn't a soul about. Labelle visited each of the Eskimo huts and fish storehouses but none of the villagers was anywhere to be seen. Labelle saw a flickering fire in the distance and approached it gingerly, sensing something evil was afoot on this moonlit night. Upon the fire was a smoldering pot of blackened stew. To make matters more mysterious, Labelle saw that not a single human track had left the settlement. Labelle knew something bizarre had happened to the 2,000 people, and so he ran non-stop to the nearest telegraph office and sent a message about his findings to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The Mounties turned up hours later, and they too were baffled by the mass vanishing act. An enormous search party was sent out to look for the missing villagers, but they were never found, and the search party unearthed some strange findings. All the sleigh dogs that had belonged to the Eskimos were found buried 12 feet under a snowdrift at the perimeter of the camp. All of them had starved to death. The search party also established that all the Eskimos' provisions and food had been left in their huts, which didn't make any sense at all. Then came the most chilling surprise of all; the search party discovered that all of the Eskimos' ancestral graves were empty. Whoever or whatever had taken all the living villagers had also dug up the dead as well, even though the icy ground around the graves was as hard as iron. Later, on that unearthly silent night the Mounties watched in awe as a strange blue glow lit up the horizon. The eerie radiance was not the northern lights, but seemed steady and artificial. As the Mounties watched, the light pulsed then faded. All the newspapers of the world reported the baffling disappearance of the 2,000 Eskimos, although many believed that a rational explanation would eventually come to light, but the Anjikuni mass disappearance is still unsolved

Here's what seems to be the real story (it took me about 10 mins to find it):

<http://thespiritseekers.wordpress.co...he-fourth-kind>

The story was originally reported by Emmett E. Keller whom the RCMP label, with some justice, as a "journalist of some repute". The picture that was run with the story was a photo taken in 1905, not at the date of the story (however this is a fairly common news practice).

It ran in the Toronto Daily Star on November 23, 1930 but was largely forgotten until it was included in "occult investigator" Frank Edwards' book "Stranger than Science" in 1959. And supporting the "Urban Legend" status the Mounties claim, the tale has grown.

The missing went from 30 to 1200 to 2000; how's that for a bump. So we will use what we found in the older sources, tell the tale and try to keep the personal commentary to as minimum.

On a cold November night in 1930 a fur trapper named Armand Laurent was travelling with his two teenage sons. The trio witnessed a "huge light, for it seemed to be as big as a steamship, changed shape from moment to moment....it was as round as a ball, now like an enormous bullet, now shaped like a star. The light changed course in the sky many times before streaking at a great speed, straight as an arrow, towards the north and out of our sight."

A couple of days later a pair of Mounties were said to stop at Laurent's isolated home. As they partook of a generous standing offer of hot coffee, biscuits and homemade honey Laurent inquired what brought them out his way. They are rumored to have replied "Eskimos disappearing, stuff like that. Nothing important." Now we include this hearsay to show the PERCEPTION (if not the reality) of the disregard towards Natives. Nothing important.

Laurent is said to have related his tale and inform the Mounties that the "light seemed to be heading in the direction of the lake." Laurent was never questioned further, a disappointing but understandable oversight.

Enter French Canadian trapper Joe Labelle (who the Mounties said was "new to the area", i.e. an outsider). Labelle claimed to snowshoe to the remote Eskimo village near Lake Anjikuni (Angkun). Normally greeted by the barking of sled dogs and children begging for hard candy, he was instead met with silence.

The village of approximately 30 people was deserted. It was the manner in which the village was left which has been the source of the long-lived mystery.

Labelle found "pots of stewed caribou with a thick layer of ice.....children's toys were scattered on the floor." He found a sealskin parka with two bone needles still in it. Labelle continued "The boats and the kayaks were tied at the shore. Even the harpoons were still on board, and the half-stripped carcass of a walrus was just as the men left it." Even the rifles were left behind. Some hanging over makeshift fireplaces, others propped next to the caribou flap doors of empty homes.

Labelle informed the Mounties (who acknowledge contact and claim they asked neighbors of Lake Village and decided it was false information) and, as the "story" goes, the Mounties came out and investigated the village. They found the missing sled dogs tied to some trees under a snow drift. (At this point the village men would be without their guns, sleds, kayaks and harpoons not one of these items would have been left behind in the village.)

The Native folk are nomadic, but according to the tale the place seemed abandoned in the middle of a normal day. There were no signs of a struggle and no footprints that lead way from the scene. Supposedly the RCMP employed some of the best trackers in a "search" that spanned all of Canada and even ventured into the northwest United States to no avail. We have been contacted by an individual who claims to have a request from the Canadians in regards to this story but we have not received follow-up information in 6 months.

The most disturbing claim in this case is the apparent exhumation of an Eskimo grave(s). The rocks marking the grave were undisturbed but the grave had been dug up. If this is true it would be quite the feat. The land was in a state of permafrost; one account tells of an unnamed Mountie who said it would have required a jack-hammer and weeks of back-breaking work to empty the grave. A FOIA request regarding this case has been filed with no reply back yet.

The One

24th November 2010 15:35

Re: Solar Warden

Cheers Bill i will remember to put the link in next time i keep forgetting

Elandiel BernElve

24th November 2010 15:52

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Fredkc »

Bill;

I hate to seem dense but I followed the link to the "CV" listing at: <http://www.navy.mil/navydata/ships/carriers/cv-list.asp> and didn't see anything that seemed amiss. Is there a hint?

Elandiel;

You might want to think that one over. After all, soldiers and such have always been offered a "nice change of scenery". Rarely did it turn out to resemble a travel poster. ;)

Fred

The alternative transport (next to stargates) for Mars are huge carriers.

Not listed in the naval carrier section of course but definately of the same size and class (spatial version). Bill, correct me if i'm wrong but that's what I get out of it.

Build secretly, launched secretly, funded secretly, operated secretly.

As to venturing off for a nice change of scenery. It seems the other way around.

Secret humankind 2.0 will have a fresh start. Abandoned mankind 0.7beta is left to fight over worthless remains.

Now what's a better prospect?

No I'm kidding, i wouldn't want to join a faction with everything secret and funded off our backs leaving us abandoned to die like slaves without purpose.

I have a reason to be here, I've already flew the stars once in a previous and i'll do it again when the time is right.

patience:)

Bill Ryan

24th November 2010 16:00

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by The One »

Cheers Bill i will remember to put the link in next time i keep forgetting

Thanks. Please always do. It helps members to research and check things, and also removes any misunderstanding that you (or anyone else posting stuff) wrote it personally.

Bill Ryan

24th November 2010 16:10

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Fredkc »

Bill;

I hate to seem dense but I followed the link to the "CV" listing at: <http://www.navy.mil/navydata/ships/carriers/cv-list.asp> and didn't see anything that seemed amiss. Is there a hint?

Hi, Fred - you missed Henry's subtle point. :)

Before the URL (a public-sector list of US Navy aircraft carriers - i.e. regular warships) Henry had written the subject:

Not listed here.

His two one-word messages immediately prior to that had been

Mars

and alternative.

To spell it out, he was confirming that SOLAR WARDEN was an alternative fleet consisting of aircraft carrier-sized vessels - but not the kind that floated on water.

What was really significant is that we had never once talked with Henry about SOLAR WARDEN. We'd heard the codename as a rumor in an anonymous Open Minds Forum message that came from an insider source that was not Henry. So I decided to run it past him.

My question to Henry was via SMS - just the two words, nothing else. The 3-part reply above came straight back within minutes, from three different e-mail accounts. For us, that was a wrap.

Fredkc

24th November 2010 16:18

Re: Solar Warden

Not listed here.

You know, e'ry once in a while I do something stupid... like ask questions while the coffee is still brewing.

jcocks

24th November 2010 18:30

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »Exactly right. There's a "Human Civilization" 2.0 being created - and you and I are not part of it. We're still trying to get to grips with 1.0.Version 2.0 has advanced spacecraft, fast-than-light communications, off-planet bases, access to all of human history, free energy, has enhanced some people physically, mentally and psychically, and is prepared to leave us all behind. No public sector scientist has made the cut.

I'd still like to know WHY this all exists??? It's never been fully explained, and the whole idea of allowing the uber-rich to escape can't possibly be the full story.... So why? AND why is it that we on Earth have been allowed to languish with polluting internal-combustion engines etc and all these problems, and overpopulation? If we had access to the interplanetary civilisation it wouldn't be such a problem (and I don't even think it's necessarily a problem anyway - it's only a problem if you look at it from only one point of view)....

And the whole idea of "we're not ready yet for the truth, look at all the wars and violence".... WHO creates and funds that violence??? The majority of mankind does not want wars....

Ba-ba-Ra

24th November 2010 18:45

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »Exactly right. There's a "Human Civilization" 2.0 being created - and you and I are not part of it. We're still trying to get to grips with 1.0.Version 2.0 has advanced spacecraft, fast-than-light communications, off-planet bases, access to all of human history, free energy, has enhanced some people physically, mentally and psychically, and is prepared to leave us all behind. No public sector scientist has made the cut.

So.....who has made the cut? and if they have this other world, why don't they just leave here entirely. Is there some reason they still need us or this world 1.0. Somehow that doesn't make sense to me, though I realize this defies logic in terms of what I think logic is.

Luke

24th November 2010 18:51

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by jcocks »I'd still like to know WHY this all exists??? It's never been fully explained, and the whole idea of allowing the uber-rich to escape can't possibly be the full story.... So why? AND why is it that we on Earth have been allowed to languish with polluting internal-combustion engines etc and all these problems, and overpopulation? If we had access to the interplanetary civilisation it wouldn't be such a problem (and I don't even think it's necessarily a problem anyway - it's only a problem if you look at it from only one point of view)....And the whole idea of "we're not ready yet for the truth, look at all the wars and violence".... WHO creates and funds that violence??? The majority of mankind does not want wars....

Who even says it's about uber-rich ?

We're discussing DIFFERENT CIVILIZATION that treats earth as ... resupply point? Manpower source? Training ground? Experimental weapon development facility? Well, something like that.

Very few of current elite even have idea about it - all they have is hints and orders from those ABOVE them in hierarchy .. hierarchy that might span better part of this section of multiverse. Multitude of worlds. Trillions of human-like beings.

They do not need to know about it - compartmentalization uber alles. They do what they are good at: keeping serfs at bay. Sure, some will get their retirement out there .. but more like a CIA-installed banana republic chief is having his retirement in Miami.

Now, they hear rumours. That's why the seed vaults and stuff. The guys from front pages are likely to stay here .. because, what good is software manufacturer for fleet that is not running software way we know it ? Just as corporations cannot exist without shelter of monopoly laws and privileges, those guys are powerful within our framework.

But they are not the ones calling the shots. That is as far as my understanding goes.

Guys out there are beyond our framework! And if we think about breakaways that used third reich as vehicle (Kammler &CO) we are talking about guys with completely alien "morality"

As for violence - Imperial Ghurkhas, again ... or maybe Sardaukar.

What is happening here is but a small fraction of things that are impacting what it is here.

Linear/Earthcentric thinking begone :)

Rocky_Shorz

24th November 2010 20:50

Re: Solar Warden

wow...

The Ubbers worked their whole life to build a mountain of gold...

don't let them find out we have enough Kinetic energy to turn Nibiru from its destructive path... ;)

Page 1 of 4 1 4 ▶ Last ►►

Show 40 post\(s\) from this thread on one page

All times are GMT +1. The time now is 12:09.

Powered by vBulletin™
Copyright © vBulletin Solutions, Inc. All rights reserved.
Extra Tabs by vBulletin Hispano

Comments owned by the poster. Copyright © Project Avalon 2010-2016

Solar Warden
Printable View

Show 40 post(s) from this thread on one page

DawgBone24th November 2010 21:19

Re: Solar Warden

Not to get sappy here, but I love Planet Earth.

I love the trees and the oceans and the animals and the fields and the clouds and the Spring and the Fall and the Winter and even some of the people ... you get the idea. I bet you feel the same way.

Good riddance to the elite and their civilization 2.0! Go! Begone! Vamoose!

We need to make our stand here, on Gaia. We need to create a reality where Gaia survives whatever it is that is coming. We need to visualize a reality where the best of human culture endures and prospers.

The power of 1000 dedicated people visualizing this could move mountains, or perhaps keep mountains from moving. It is time to develop in detail the world that we want to create. What should Gaia be? What should we be?

To hell with the apotheosis of technology. To hell with the arrogance and evil of the elite. It has nothing to do with us. It has nothing to do with this beautiful planet.

Rocky_Shorz25th November 2010 01:11

Re: Solar Warden

could this be affecting our energy levels?

Quote:

During periods of high activity, a single auroral storm can produce one trillion watts of electricity with a current of one million amps.

Beren25th November 2010 01:50

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Rocky_Shorz ▶

wow...

The Ubbers worked their whole life to build a mountain of gold...

don't let them find out we have enough Kinetic energy to turn Nibiru from its destructive path... ;)

The words that are always taken lightly and disbelieved were :

- 1.Love thy neighbor
- 2.Love God with all your heart ,mind,soul,strength.

Sadly for many,it has nothing to do with fairy tales,with religion,with hear say stories.
It`s all about power.

Power to the people-if you will.

I am telling you all now a secret, and it`s actually not a secret because it stands mightily for thousands of years.
It is power that we were given.
Power- unlimited power.

But the only term is for all- to LOVE.
There is no weapon against Love.
The one who didn`t realize that yet is at loose. No matter who you are.

Christ came,liberated us and gave us unlimited power.

But few actually took it. For all others were afraid, of the opportunity given by Creator.

Whom didn't realized yet why Christ came and what he did and why he was demonized while on Earth and why is nowadays still demonized ,accused,hated, and distrusted ...that person missed the whole point of life.
That person is trapped in fear and all its creations.

It was never about religion. Never about beliefs or teachings. It was and is about life.

All technology that has ever existed and do exist now can't compare with the complexity of design and beauty of one single green grass leaf whom you tread upon the ground without even thinking about it.
The inner structure and outer structure and purpose for one single grass leaf is unthinkable greater than all technology ever produced by humans or ET's.

Think about it before you all fall in fear traps...
Contemplate of the power behind the tiny grass leaf.
Think about who's behind the idea of creating it and why?

Unlimited power,friends.UNLIMITED-for all!

The only requirement you will ever have in order to posses unlimited power is:

to love. To be one with LOVE. For God is Love and Love is God.
Love is all there really is.

Who forget that - is making his/her own private hell of their lives.

Remember,wake up,laugh,love.

Bea

25th November 2010 02:11

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Version 2.0 has advanced spacecraft, fast-than-light communications, off-planet bases, access to all of human history, free energy, has enhanced some people physically, mentally and psychically, and is prepared to leave us all behind.

..oh well, even they can't leave their karma behind

Seikou-Kishi

25th November 2010 04:01

Re: Solar Warden

I agree with you DawgBone, I wouldn't feel at home without birch trees XD

I think the phrase "power to the people" is misleading, to me it suggests that power has some origin other than the people, and I would much rather say "power from the people".

Seikou-Kishi

TraineeHuman

25th November 2010 04:21

Re: Solar Warden

Even if "mankind 2.0" manages to leave "mankind1.0" behind in a physical sense, such as maybe moving off-planet, they're still tied to us. Let me try and explain (not easy, but I'll try).

There's a curious thing the late spiritual teacher Barry Long noticed when he was in his twenties and thereafter. This was that all the women he became romantically involved with were basically the one same woman. On careful, aware investigation, he found himself forced to conclude that their differences were superficial compared to their sameness, their interconnectedness. Frustratingly, he found he knew that he was involved with "the same" woman each time. And this was a divinely aware man who was ruthlessly dedicated to finding the truth about life (and love, and the universe).

Similarly, you'll find that all the original Indian gurus – all five of them – similarly concluded from their direct experience that at some deeper level of truth (or maybe at some higher dimension, I guess) "there is only one human being", much as Barry Long had concluded "there is only one woman in the whole world".

I guess another way to put this is that we like to think we are separate and different from one another because we have separate bodies. But in reality, we are much more interconnected and identical than we are separate. That's at certain higher levels of being (dare I say "reality"?) than the physical. Notice, I'm not denying the value and the beauty and the great importance of also being different from one another.

I say that if mankind2.0 is a reality, then that is very good news for mankind1.0. That's because mankind2.0 will no doubt then as a direct result have a higher average level of consciousness. And at the level of consciousness or light and so on, nothing will be able to stop the "bleedthrough" of some of that higher consciousness to mankind1.0.

Seikou-Kishi

25th November 2010 05:19

Re: Solar Warden

I think what you relate, TraineeHuman, about the Indian Gurus is reflected in what Michael Talbot demonstrated in The Holographic Universe; the entirety of the world stems from the 'implicate order', and all of existence is pervaded by consciousness, all human beings being 'tendrils' or extensions of the same universal and integral consciousness. It also matches David Icke's 'infinite consciousness'; we're not all separate instances of infinite consciousness, but the same single instance of infinite consciousness. I wonder if those Indian Gurus ever were of the opinion that they were also the same person as the women with whom they became romantically involved.

Personally, I think the bleedthrough you mentioned is completely accurate; less in the sense of a 'trickle down' economics, and more in the sense of empathy, which I believe is the direct result of us all being one on a higher level; it stands to reason if we are all one, that we have access, 'indirectly', to the experiences and feelings of others.

That's personally what I believe the whole 'judgement' scenario is; when we die and are separated from whatever chains us in this limited existence, we are forced to confront how we have conducted ourselves. We are the only judge in the whole process, when we cause pain, we realise at some later stage that we too suffer from that pain, so the orchestrators of all these designs against mankind 1.0 have much more to fear from physical death and the reunification with the infinite consciousness it brings than we do, and I think (though I am no Christian) that this is what Jesus meant in the beatitudes of Matthew 5:3-12

Quote:

*Blessed are the poor in spirit,
for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.*

*Blessed are they who mourn,
for they shall be comforted.*

*Blessed are the meek,
for they shall possess the earth.*

*Blessed are they who hunger and thirst for justice,
for they shall be satisfied.*

*Blessed are the merciful,
for they shall obtain mercy.*

*Blessed are the pure of heart,
for they shall see God.*

*Blessed are the peacemakers,
for they shall be called sons of God.*

*Blessed are they who suffer persecution for justice sake,
for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.*

The fifth is particularly interesting in this light, which, of course, may be completely untrue, but I'm personally of the conviction that the helpfulness of an idea is more important than the dirty, practical matter of objective truth.

Seikou-Kishi

Luke

25th November 2010 08:48

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by TraineeHuman »

I say that if mankind2.0 is a reality, then that is very good news for mankind1.0. That's because mankind2.0 will no doubt then as a direct result have a higher average level of consciousness. And at the level of consciousness or light and so on, nothing will be able to stop the "bleedthrough" of some of that higher consciousness to mankind1.0.

That is, assuming higher level of technology given to them is equal with higher level of consciousness. Personally I find it a stretch, all the data points to contrary.

It's the story of time traveller from our times visiting medieval serf .. he shows the serf all his "toys" .. and serf is torn between "work of the devil" and "the kingdom has come" .. traveller tries to explain, that these are toys, we have wars and stuff, and nothing really changed .. but in serf's flatland/1D logic, he was just visited by the angel.

That said, there are infinite numbers of mankinds out there, on different levels of consciousnesses and they bleed through constantly. Question is to what "frequency" we tune ourselves by our actions and our worldview.

Bill Ryan

25th November 2010 09:28

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Ba-ba-Ra »

So.....who has made the cut? and if they have this other world, why don't they just leave here entirely. Is there some reason they still need us or this world 1.0. Somehow that doesn't make sense to me, though I realize this defies logic in terms of what I think logic is.

As far as I understand, this topic (Humankind 2.0) is the most important item on the very large table of puzzle pieces that we're all looking at.

I'm going very, very carefully here, but my understanding is that the human race is being engineered to be honed into something that is leaner, meaner, and more 'fit for purpose'.

This is not necessarily anything that anyone reading this would agree with. But (as things stand) we don't get a vote, as we're not 'in charge'. It's all about eugenics and evolution and who created Humankind 1.0 anyway... it's the biggest story.

Seikou-Kishi

25th November 2010 09:43

Re: Solar Warden

Fit for purpose could mean any number of things, and those who are 'selected' aren't necessarily those benefiting. The 'greys' to me look like emaciated humans servile to another authority, and these humans who have been picked seem to have been picked for their intelligence rather than their physical prowess, they've also all got authoritarian personalities to be complicit... I've heard opinions that the greys are a 'potential future us', perhaps they are a potential future for mankind 2.0, bred to be obedient without question but otherwise intelligent.

Of course, I could be completely wrong, but I'm sure that's a feeling we're all familiar with on this forum.

TraineeHuman

25th November 2010 12:14

Re: Solar Warden

Seikou-Kishi, this post is about what I consider a minor point. However, in the world of (Christian) theology it's generally accepted that over 40 years ago certain Lutheran theologians proved quite conclusively that the Beatitudes were originally part of the teachings of Rabbi ben Hillel. And that Hillel wrote all his teachings down some time between 100 BC and 90 BC. Hillel was the High Priest (of the Scribes or the "Sadducees") of Israel. The High Priest around 20 or 30 or 40 AD was his grandson, or great-grandson, and continued to faithfully teach Hillel's doctrines. So we have the irony that today most Christians believe "the Jews" were hostile to Jeshua, when in reality orthodox Judaism recognises him as its second-greatest prophet. Moreover, most Christians don't realise that if the Beatitudes (minus those deliberate mistranslations such as "meek", and "poor" in spirit) were an important part of Jeshua's public teachings, then these would have been virtually indistinguishable from the public teachings of the High Priest and Scribes during those decades.

DawgBone

25th November 2010 14:22

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by TraineeHuman

I say that if mankind2.0 is a reality, then that is very good news for mankind1.0. That's because mankind2.0 will no doubt then as a direct result have a higher average level of consciousness. And at the level of consciousness or light and so on, nothing will be able to stop the "bleedthrough" of some of that higher consciousness to mankind1.0. [/FONT]

Great post!

I was with you up until the last paragraph. Manipulating, exploiting and culling most of mankind does not demonstrate a "higher level of consciousness". If anything, mankind 2.0 will benefit from a connection with mankind 1.0. And we will benefit from moving the elite off world.

But the idea that on some level we are all the same soul resonates with me. I can often look at another person and say, "That's me with different parents, different education, different race ...". I can even look at a squirrel or a cat or a dog and feel the same.

It's Thanksgiving in the US today. I'm pulling for the turkeys.

bashi

25th November 2010 15:49

Re: Solar Warden

..

⌘=[Post Update]=⌘

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan

As far as I understand, this topic (Humankind 2.0) is the most important item on the very large table of puzzle pieces that we're all looking at.

I'm going very, very carefully here, but my understanding is that the human race is being engineered to be honed into something that is leaner, meaner, and more 'fit for purpose'.

This is not necessarily anything that anyone reading this would agree with. But (as things stand) we don't get a vote, as we're not 'in charge'. It's all about eugenics and evolution and who created Humankind 1.0 anyway... it's the biggest story.

Bill: Who is the "TC-Group" ?

The One

25th November 2010 16:02

Re: Solar Warden

I may be way off the mark here

Trilateral Commission was founded in July 1973 at the initiative of David Rockefeller haven't researched this group much

Believe Don't Disbelieve Think

Bill Ryan

25th November 2010 16:45

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by bashi »

Bill: Who is the "TC-Group" ?

Nobody ever found out. (No, not the Trilateral Commission!)

For others' reference, this ('The TC Group') was the self-named source of the original e-mail sent to the Open Minds Forum in end 2006 or early 2007 (I'd need to look up the date to be sure) that first referenced SOLAR WARDEN.

That was the first time the term was ever heard - and was what prompted me to run it past Henry Deacon with no front-loading. (I just SMSed him the two words, in two separate messages, with no other context - and got the astonishing reply by return which [in essence] said "Mars Alternative Carrier Fleet".)

The One

25th November 2010 17:23

Re: Solar Warden

If nobody ever found out about the TC-Group then how can we say it's not referenced to the Trilateral Commission. It probably isn't but you never know because we don't know.

Seikou-Kishi

25th November 2010 17:31

Re: Solar Warden

The fact that it's called the TC-Group however indicates it's not; in "Trilateral Commission", 'trilateral' is an attributive and 'commission' the headword; in 'TC-Group', the T and C both would be attributive in nature, to modify the 'Group'. I think the words hold clues here and indicate that the persuasive weight of likelihood is on the side of the TC-Group and the Trilateral Commission being different bodies.

Seikou-Kishi

The One

25th November 2010 17:56

Re: Solar Warden

mmmmmm maybe Seikou-Kishi and i have already considered your post we will just have to wait and see the probabilities that may come from this in the future

Luke

25th November 2010 18:01

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by The One »

If nobody ever found out about the TC-Group then how can we say it's not referenced to the Trilateral Commission. It probably isn't but you never know because we don't know.

Lemme see, because Trilateral C is fairly low level construct that manages subset of Earth affairs and has ZERO interests OR power in out-of-Earth-political-spectrum matters?
Compartmentalization spans all levels to the very top of pyramid.

Carmody

25th November 2010 18:08

Re: Solar Warden

The hard part for people to see that is that these operations have developed independent energy sources. Thus manufacturing costs drop dramatically.

Thus all the monies (Trillions of missing dollars) are for infrastructure, and human involvement with the outside world.

When put in that context it can then be seen how the entire operation can become so freaking huge, so much bigger seeming than the trillions $ added into it. The trillions of dollars are just the interface with the operation, as the operation itself is financially and resource wise--largely... Independent.

Like starting a raging forest fire with a match. The trillions of dollars are merely the match that starts that fire.

You can then see why they do not want mankind, overall, to achieve such levels in their energy independence.

I know that many don't put any credence in what Benjamin Fulford says, but note that what he constantly speaks on..... is the releasing of 'over-unity' and similar energy extraction techniques, to the public...by this 'Asian faction'.....as a form of retaliation against these western(ish) 'powers that be'.

Personal experience tells me that if one was to speak on achieving an energy device (not specifically true in my case) or achieving understanding on the creation of those types of devices (an even BIGGER threat, ie full knowledge of the mechanism within physics)..they will receive a burrowing burr up their backsides..that is the size and shape of the spearhead organizations of the pentagon/CIA/corporate/Freemasons/Nazi/NASA/Etc. This, within about 48 hours of any public or forum based announcement or subject discussion. As is usual with human beings, they need to see it with their own eyes or experience it directly before they 'get it' (understand) well enough to enact such understandings in their thoughts on how the world actually works. Thus the general public, as aware as they might wish to be, can't see this angle very well.

There used to be a list of suspected and known free energy researchers --at one time. The list was about 300-450 names long and most were either dead or whereabouts unknown. (some names were from 150 years back, etc)

Just last night I bought a small piece of computer electronics from a young man who was finishing his last year in physics at a local university (30k students, world class research). I spoke on some of this a tiny bit to him... as the subject accidentally come up simply through my speech mannerisms, etc. The anger, vitriol, and denial were quite staggering to me, as I have not attempted to debate this subject with those who exist outside of it, for quite some time.

Ultimately I told him that he was going to have to investigate these matters on his own, as I did not have the time in my life to wreck myself attempting to convince one person, I have a life to live and busting myself up and wasting my energies debating and working to show and convince him was not how I wanted to use my energies. I showed hm that the doorway to a level above that of what he knew as the 'cutting edge' does exist.... and investigation was up to him.

Solar Warden

Printable View

Show 40 post\(s\) from this thread on one page

Page 3 of 4 ◀◀ First ◀ 1 3 4 ▶▶ Last ▶▶

jcocks

25th November 2010 18:22

Re: Solar Warden

I wonder if the Nazis are in effect the "breakaway civilisation"?... It's the only option that actually makes any sense, since that's what they always wanted to do with their "master race" talk. The only problem with that is that even the Nazis were funded by the big Bilderberg-like families...

Fredkc

25th November 2010 18:42

Re: Solar Warden

Outside of a few freaks Nazism died a well-deserved death 65 years ago.

What gave birth to it, and used it as a vehicle was the socio-political critter known as Fascism. It has survived, and thrives to this very day.

If you want to loot a country for every nickel you can squeeze out of it, and use it and the populace for private/secret projects, Fascism is the very thing.

Carmody

25th November 2010 18:55

Re: Solar Warden

Yes, I should have hyphenated to 'nazi-fascist', to denote the act of forward carrying/evolving the thought into 'current world structures-groups'.

jcocks

25th November 2010 19:04

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Fredkc »Outside of a few freaks Nazism died a well-deserved death 65 years ago.What gave birth to it, and used it as a vehicle was the socio-political critter known as Fascism. It has survived, and thrives to this very day.If you want to loot a country for every nickel you can squeeze out of it, and use it and the populace for private/secret projects, Fascism is the very thing.

Yes, "nazism" may have died...and with it the "nazi party" - but the powers behind it may not have, and may be the real force behind the so-called "human 2.0" and much of the secret space society.

I mean, "human 2.0" sounds so much like the nazis aryan "master-race" talk that it's not funny....

So nazism may very well have dies, but my point is that the Nazis may very well live on (under a different guise) - in fact, we know that they did - many of them found work in America with NASA.

Luke

25th November 2010 19:13

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by jcocks »Yes, "nazism" may have died...and with it the "nazi party" - but the powers behind it may not have, and may be the real force behind the so-called "human 2.0" and much of the secret space society.I mean, "human 2.0" sounds so much like the nazis aryan "master-race" talk that it's not funny....So nazism may very well have dies, but my point is that the Nazis may very well live on (under a different guise) - in fact, we know that they did - many of them found work in America with NASA.

Way I see it, you are putting cart before a horse.

Developments that happened there were not because of nazi ideology. Nazi ideology was there to facilitate a breeding ground for circumstances, upon which something entirely else was grown and matured. Seeds were planted long before "nazism" started to exist, fruits were reaped some time after it stopped to exist.

When we speak "Nazi" or "Fascism" or "Communism" or "Corporatism", we are talking fertilizer for the parts of the process.

Ahkenaten

25th November 2010 20:16

Re: Solar Warden

Too bad human civilization 2.0 is bound to be, based on current events, even more retrograde than 1.0.....if the so-called civilization invested more in actually developing the individual and collective human animal, we might even have a crack at actually evolving instead, as has been the case for some time now, deliberately devolving. Nothing worse than extremely high technology in the hands of a retrograde, materialistic and it seems, DELIBERATELY AND CONSCIOUSLY DEBASED human animal.

⌘=[Post Update]=⌘

Sorry for being so negative in my last post on a national holiday when we are supposed to be giving thanks.....anyway, thank you indigenous peoples of the world. YOU may be our last hope.

Ahkenaten

25th November 2010 20:19

Re: Solar Warden

Luke by the way many believe Nazism has not, contrary to popular belief, ceased to exist. Many, including myself, believe it to be alive and well existing as an extranational force firmly imbedded in some of the USA's 3-letter agencies and elsewhere. THAT is what accounts for the peculiarly familiar tone and content of current events ----- the US government may well be in part controlled by the very forces the population had been led to believe were vanquished in the 40's.

Luke

25th November 2010 20:33

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Ahkenaten »

the US government may well be in part controlled by the very forces the population had been led to believe were vanquished in the 40's.

Just by searching some posts on this forum, like this one:

<https://projectavalon.net/forum4/show...cial-darwinism>

You would see "nazi" ideas were NOT something new or unique, they were just vulgar/public front for something far older and more sinister, that existed in USofA from at least mid XIX century. So please do not use name of the branch to describe a tree.

Operator

25th November 2010 20:45

Re: Solar Warden

What if there is even more than 1 break away civilization ? Could it be that we see them fighting each other through night goggles ?

At the end of WWII there already was at least one breakaway civilization on the south pole now (an)other(s) is/are trying to get up to speed ...

The One

26th November 2010 09:42

Re: Solar Warden

Originally Posted by Luke

Lemme see, because Trilateral C is fairly low level construct that manages subset of Earth affairs and has ZERO interests OR power in out-of-Earth-political-spectrum matters

1 Attachment(s)

Is that a fact or just your opinion i couldnt disagree more (my opinion)

In the American tradition of disdain for royal titles, he was secretly called "Original Hostage Krill". You should know that the alien flag is known as the "Trilateral Insignia". It is displayed on their craft and worn on their uniforms. Both of these landings and the second meeting were filmed. The films exist today.

<http://www.google.co.uk/url?sa=t&source=...WkvViM591dXC7Q>

Elandiel BernElve

26th November 2010 10:11

Re: Solar Warden

Good morning y'all ;)

The above discussion reminded me of some leads and questions Jordan maxwell put on his site. check them out they are very related to the whole nazi facism topic

The US and Nazi germany have direct links that could signify continuation of the secret nazi agenda.

<http://www.jordanmaxwell.com/article...uestions4.html>
<http://www.jordanmaxwell.com/article...uestions7.html>
<http://www.jordanmaxwell.com/article...uestions8.html>
<http://www.jordanmaxwell.com/article...uestions9.html>

I've got to admit I don't like his style. Jordan never gives a straight answer, just a lead to something i'm supposed to find out myself. The thing is the internet and the world is so saturated with information it's impossible to know what answer is right. He did all the research but kind of keeps the ultimate findings to himself. Or.. you have to buy all his stuff.

Right..

I know the man is honest, he is sincere and a walking encyclopedia but come on, does he want the world to change or not? My feeling is that he's a young soul and a bit afraid perhaps. I hope he's alright though:)

Bill Ryan

26th November 2010 11:05

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Seikou-Kishi »

The fact that it's called the TC-Group however indicates it's not; in "Trilateral Commission", 'trilateral' is an attributive and 'commission' the headword; in 'TC-Group', the T and C both would be attributive in nature, to modify the 'Group'. I think the words hold clues here and indicate that the persuasive weight of likelihood is on the side of the TC-Group and the Trilateral Commision being different bodies.

Seikou-Kishi

This is a translation for The One: :)

S-K is saying that the name would not be used like this. It could be the Trilateral Commission, or maybe the Trilateral Group, but not the Trilateral Commission Group. That's like saying The World Health Organization Group (WHO) or the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization Group (UNESCO). It's not WHOG or UNESCOG.

But: the whole idea of the Trilateral Commission posting to a UFO forum is ridiculous. Like Ban Ki-moon from the UN posting here in response to this thread to clear things up, it's not gonna happen in a zillion years.

Elandiel BernElve

26th November 2010 11:18

Re: Solar Warden

How about Terrestrial Control Group?

At least that would make sens ;p

P.S. kudos to Bill, I was wondering how long it would take for someone to notice that a commission group is two words for almost the same thing:)

And why do I always hear americans say double negatives? for example: " I don't need "no" car. " so in fact you do!

Education:)

"Take what I say in a different way and it's easy to say that this is all confusion"
Jon Anderson - Yes

The One

26th November 2010 11:21

Re: Solar Warden

Thank you for that Bill

I have never stated once that i believe the TC-Group is the Trilateral Commission and i was fully aware of S-K post my IQ isn't that low. And the whole idea of the Trilateral Commission posting to a UFO forum is ridiculous. Just looking into all possibilities that's all.

Like most threads this topic as totally gone off topic and ok i am part to blaime for that

Bill Ryan

26th November 2010 11:37

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Elandiel BernElve »

And why do I always hear americans say double negatives? for example: " I don't need "no" car. " so in fact you do!

Education :)

The problem with the world is that there are too many people of below average intelligence.

(If any Avalonian doesn't get that joke, please leave now!)

Elandiel BernElve

26th November 2010 12:23

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »

If any Avalonian doesn't get that joke, please leave now!

Smiling!

no this ain't no walmart bro :cool:

You should be surprised how many European youths pick up that kind of MTV and gangmovie language and use it here as well. It's a pity..

It definately totally frustrated my English teacher to see language decay at this rate.

(sorry for the off topic posts)

Beren

26th November 2010 13:42

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Elandiel BernElve »

Smiling!

no this ain't no walmart bro :cool:

You should be surprised how many European youths pick up that kind of MTV and gangmovie language and use it here as well. It's a pity..

It definately totally frustrated my English teacher to see language decay at this rate.

(sorry for the off topic posts)

To add more on this off topic here...

When in school long time ago, we were said that if anyone writes "gonna" "wanna" "dunno" your instead of you're or you are " will immediately get 1 (equal as F)...

:doh::becky:

Seikou-Kishi

26th November 2010 19:41

Re: Solar Warden

English used to be perfectly fine with double negatives until one point when prescriptive grammarians said a double negative cancels itself out (originally, a double negative in English was emphatic "I don't need no Walmart" meant "I really don't need Walmart"). Still, I really don't like it either haha Beren: your teachers should have been glad you knew things like 'gonna'. I always say you don't really speak a language until you know it's slang and swear-words lol.

Elandiel: (nice name btw) language changes all the time. That's the only reason that today we speak English and not Anglo-Saxon or Old High German. It changes every time it has to adapt to a new concept. The real death of language was the printing press; frozen spellings, frozen grammar. Stasis is the only death. Technically a commission is a group established by a superior authority and with a goal to consider a single subject, while a group is a very broad word referring to a collection of people or things with something in common, be it a goal or goals or just an identity. Maybe that reveals something about the TC... having to come from a higher authority (all commissions/committees are delegated) and having been established by the Rockefellers.

That's certainly given me something to ponder :)

Seikou-Kishi

Rocky_Shorz

26th November 2010 19:52

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »

As far as I understand, this topic (Humankind 2.0) is the most important item on the very large table of puzzle pieces that we're all looking at.

I'm going very, very carefully here, but my understanding is that the human race is being engineered to be honed into something that is leaner, meaner, and more 'fit for purpose'.

This is not necessarily anything that anyone reading this would agree with. But (as things stand) we don't get a vote, as we're not 'in charge'. It's all about eugenics and evolution and who created Humankind 1.0 anyway... it's the biggest story.

so how does this all tie into the Nazi Supreme Race...

they are taking off with 18000 lvl2 humans to start a colony on a different planet?

lightblue26th November 2010 20:05

Re: Solar Warden

rocky:

Quote:

they are taking off with 18000 lvl2 humans to start a colony on a different planet?

you may wish...if it was about them about to take off, great, i'd help them pack up...i think bill meant something else: that is being cooked up for our planet..that new race would have to overwhelm us first i gather before they took over.. :unsure: l

Solar Warden
Printable View

Show 40 post(s) from this thread on one page

jasontorque 26th November 2010 21:47
Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »

Exactly right. There's a "Human Civilization" 2.0 being created - and you and I are not part of it. We're still trying to get to grips with 1.0.

Version 2.0 has advanced spacecraft, fast-than-light communications, off-planet bases, access to all of human history, free energy, has enhanced some people physically, mentally and psychically, and is prepared to leave us all behind. No public sector scientist has made the cut.

..and the question is why..?

Rocky_Shorz 27th November 2010 01:38
Re: Solar Warden

well 18,000 against 7 Billion... I don't care how evolved they are, that isn't going to overwhelm us...

now the plot that was in the making was over 500 Million planned on sweeping through a stargate, all with the ability of mind control. They would have just stepped into the minds of our top 500,000,000 most powerful people in our world and do what ever they want... Each person in a living hell, awake enough to know what is going on without the strength to stop it... They were not coming to bring us to the 5th dimension, we are a race of spiritual beings and this was going to be the move to crush all of our spirits...

all of the ones on this side of the gate realize now something is wrong, the process should have already started...

They are pushing to start a war but too many are awake and preventing them from reaching their goals...

I think the 18K are hopping into escape pods because the world is turning on them...

Koyaanisqatsi 2nd December 2010 18:28
Proof of "Solar Warden"?? I feel this is amazing footage

<https://youtube.com/watch?v=XevJR7biQE8>
<https://youtube.com/watch?v=XevJR7biQE8>
Thoughts?

⌘=[Post Update]=⌘

This appears to be anti/counter gravity type of propulsion to me, classic TR-3B, apparently filmed with infrared/nightvision lens.

Swami 2nd December 2010 18:36
Re: Proof of "Solar Warden"?? I feel this is amazing footage

Quote:

Posted by Koyaanisqatsi »

https://youtube.com/watch?v=XevJR...layer_embedded

Thoughts?

⌘=[Post Update]=⌘

This appears to be anti/counter gravity type of propulsion to me, classic TR-3B, apparently filmed with infrared/nightvision lens.

Do you know this site...?
<http://www.edgrimsley.com/index.html>

And this thread:
<https://projectavalon.net/forum4/show...t=Solar+warden>

Zook

2nd December 2010 19:24

Re: Proof of "Solar Warden"? I feel this is amazing footage
Hello Koyaanisqatsi,

Quote:

Posted by Koyaanisqatsi »

https://youtube.com/watch?v=XevJR...layer_embedded Thoughts?

⌘=[Post Update]=⌘

This appears to be anti/counter gravity type of propulsion to me, classic TR-3B, apparently filmed with infrared/nightvision lens.

My desktop cursor keeps disappearing on me. Now I know where it goes!

Interesting stuff. ARV? Or the real McCoy?

:typing:

Ironleaf

28th November 2011 07:02

Re: Solar Warden

I just went through all the posts in this thread. Absolutely mindblogging! So I understand that Humanity V.2 is leaving Humanity V.1 on Gaia as it take off for space, destination unknown. Now the last post on this thread is somehow old. Anything new to report? The fleet has departed? This is not intended as a cynic remark!

Nortreb

28th November 2011 08:15

Re: Solar Warden

Quote:

Posted by Bill Ryan »

What I understand - and have been told - is that the technology already exists to leave the solar system. Those huge 600 ft (180 m) long craft are not just going to the Moon or Mars.

Gordon Novel made enquiries, and learned that there are eight (8) of them. They probably cost tens (maybe hundreds) of billions of dollars each. And we wonder where all the trillions of dollars have gone.

Answer:

- On operational black technology such as these (and other) craft.
- On the bases on the moon and Mars.
- On the hundreds of deep underground bases - the construction program for which I was told has been increased by 75% over the last four years.

Wow, Bill! This is really profound.

Thanks for sharing this!

Thanks
Nortreb

An Interview with 'Henry Deacon', a Livermore Physicist

HomeInterviewsOur GoalsRound TableIn TributeThe Big PictureShortsAbout usGet InvolvedQuestionsContact

Klicken Sie hier für eine deutsche Übersetzung

This interview was transcribed from video as the interviewee expressed a wish to remain anonymous ('Henry Deacon' is a pseudonym, prompted by his similarity to the likeable and creative polymath on the Eureka TV series). Certain details have been deleted and/or amended in order to ensure that his identity remains concealed, and the transcript has been "cleaned" of most expressed natural hesitations and the like. Meanwhile, it is most important to note that none of the factual information disclosed has been altered or amended in any way.

Henry's name and employment details are known and verified and we were able to meet with him personally more than once. He was understandably a little nervous but definitely wanted to talk with us. In conversation, he sometimes responded with silence and meaningful glances or enigmatic smiles rather than words. He was entirely disarming, in a very quiet way, and was not always certain about what he should or shouldn't say. At times, however, he took great pleasure in revealing the truth about some key matter in a way that could not be traced back to him. One or two supplementary details were provided by e-mail after the interview.

The most important piece of additional information comes at the very end of the transcript, where Henry confirms Dan Burisch's testimony.

Readers are welcome to distribute this freely with the proviso that no part of it must be altered or deleted. Unaltered extracts can be quoted if the context is made clear. We consider this interview to be extremely important and in our opinion the information revealed should be made widely known.

For further information from Henry, updated in February 2007, please click here. However, it's probably best to familiarize yourself first with the material presented below as an introduction to Henry and his testimony.

Click here for a further update (May 2007)

We have heard nothing from Henry Deacon for the last five weeks. Prior to our last communication, in the last week of March 2007, he had told us he was being 'coerced'. Up to that time he had been in very regular communication with us. We now feel certain he has been forced into silence.

While this newest update contains fascinating further information on a number of topics (including more information on Mars and some details of the inside story of 9/11), we continue to believe that the most important information he has shared is to be found in the second update. However, as stated above, new readers are advised to read Henry's testimony in sequence.

Start of interview

Please tell us a little bit about yourself – as much as you feel you can.

I'm a current employee of one of the three letter agencies [he plays a little word game with us until we guess the right agency, which he then confirms]. I'm probably taking quite a risk by speaking to you like this, though I don't intend to reveal any information that in my judgment is both classified and specific to national security. I've been involved in many projects with many different agencies over many years.

To jump right in at the deep end, I believe I was a walk-in around eighth grade. I have memories of coming from another planet, and these are all mixed up, all mingled with human boyhood memories. It's very weird, and hard to explain what it feels like. I've never had any problems intuitively accessing complex scientific information and I've often found myself understanding complex systems with no detailed briefing or training. I work essentially with systems. I don't mean to be arrogant, but I do know a great deal of advanced information, scientific and otherwise. I just seem to know it. I can't say more than that right now.

Can you give even any clues about which agency you work for?

No, not on public record. I just can't afford that.

What information do you feel you have that's important for the world to know?

There's so much that it's hard to know where to start.

I knew about 9/11 two years before the event, for instance. Not in specific terms, but certainly in general ones. It was talked about, an event like that, something that would change the game, let's say.

I know that there's a planned war between the US and China scheduled for late 2008. This is also geopolitical and not concerned with Black Ops as such. These were both just events that I got to hear about in passing. I have no detailed information about them.

You mean that China and the US are working together to stage a war?

The Pentagon started the planning in 1998. You have to understand that China and the US are hand in glove with everything. This war is a joint op between the US and China. Most wars are set up that way and have been for a while.

You want something else that's just unpleasant to hear? I also heard from someone who was serving in a unit that worked with missiles deployed for testing in the Pacific and the Far East. The missiles were shipped to the test location in very tightly sealed containers, very secure, hermetically sealed. After the tests, the container would be shipped back, sealed the same way, but empty, supposedly empty. On one occasion, this guy was present when a container was opened. It wasn't empty. It was filled with bags of white powder.

Cocaine?

I leave you to draw your own conclusions. I doubt it was sugar. Let me just say that, hypothetically speaking, and let just me say that to protect myself, if such a plan was in operation, it makes perfect logistical sense as it's a totally secure way to get around all security, customs, international boundaries and ports, and all those checks. It's perfect, like the way guns and ammunition used to cross borders in diplomatic bags going between consulates. This happens all the time.

Would you call yourself a physicist?

Yes. I cover other specialties as well, but yes, I'm a physicist. And I specialize in systems. Livermore is a good place to be, everyone's very professional there. They don't, you know, they don't play games there.

What can you say about the current state of physics in the military-industrial complex?

It's dozens of years ahead of mainstream physics which is published in journals in the public domain. There are projects dealing with subjects beyond the belief or experience, beyond the imagination, of many public domain physicists.

Can you give us any examples?

[long pause]

There's a project called Shiva Nova at Livermore which uses arrays of giant lasers. These are huge lasers, huge capacitors, many terawatts of energy, in a building built on giant springs [extends his arms to show the size], all focused on a tiny tiny point. This creates a fusion reaction which replicates certain conditions for nuclear weapons testing. It's like a nuke test in lab conditions, and there's very powerful data collection focused on that point where all the energy is focused.

The problem is that all extremely high-energy events like this create rips in the fabric of spacetime. This was observed back in the early Hiroshima and Nagasaki events, and you can even see it in the old movies. Look for what looks like an expanding energy sphere, and I can send you a link to show you. The problem with creating rips in spacetime, whether they're big or little, is that things get in that you don't want to be there.

Things get in?

Things get in. Things that we all know about that are discussed on the net a lot. Beings, and influences, and all kinds of weird stuff, and I can tell you they've created big problems.

What kind of problems?

[pause]

The problem of their presence and then what happens next. The other problem is that if you're creating rips in spacetime you're messing with time itself, whether you mean to or not. There have been attempts to fix that, and it all results in a complicated overlay of time loops. Some ETs are trying to help, and others, others are not. When predicting futures, we can only talk about probable and possible futures. This is all extremely complex and very highly classified. Basically, it's just a huge mess. We've opened Pandora's Box, starting with the Manhattan Project, and we haven't yet found a way to deal with the consequences.

The problem of multiple timelines sounds like the information reported by Dan Burisch... can you comment on that?

[shakes head] I don't know about any of that.

OK. We'll send you the links so that you can see the interviews. But what you're saying also corroborates the information reported by "Mr X" on the Camelot website. Have you seen or read those interviews?

No, what does he say?

"Mr X" is an archivist who for a six-month period had the opportunity to work with classified documents, films, photos and artifacts back in the mid-80s when he was working on a special project with a defense contractor. He says that he read that the principal reason for the ETs' interest in us was because of nuclear testing and the general threat of nuclear weapons.

That sounds about right. Except only one or two ET groups are concerned about nuclear weapons, not all of them.

OK. What else can you tell us about the timeline problem?

Just that it's unresolved. The risk is, you see, that each time we try to fix it, it adds to the problem. It just gets worse all the time.

Are the aliens – or some of the aliens – time travelers?
Dan Burisch states this.

Yes.

Do you know about the Montauk Project?

That caused a huge problem, and generated a... created a 40-year loop.

I don't know about Al Bielek. I believe some of his information is suspect. But something like that definitely did happen, the Philadelphia Experiment, too. John Neumann was very involved in all of that.

And Tesla, and Einstein?

Don't know. But Neumann... [nods head]

Montauk was real?

Yes. That was a real mess. They created a time split we're still unable to mend. Now, understand this also relates to Project Rainbow, the Stargates... they were also working on that there. But some of the Montauk reports on the net are unconvincing to me. I've seen some of the photos of the equipment they're supposed to have used, and it's junk, just a pile of junk.

[Bill] I've always had a problem with the idea of time portals because I don't see how or why they'd stay with the planet at a certain location as it moves through space. If a portal was created in spacetime, you'd expect it to be left behind somewhere very quickly as the earth rotates, and moves round in its orbit, and the solar system itself is orbiting the galaxy in a huge cycle. I mean, everything's in motion, all the time, and this is well known. Can you explain this?

No, I can't... but I know what you mean, and the portals do stay in specific locations, kind of anchored to this planet. That does happen that way. Why they don't get left behind or just kind of float off somewhere, I have no idea. Maybe they're gravitationally anchored in some way. Your guess is as good as mine.

One of the portals connects to Mars, and it's a stable connection, no matter where Earth and Mars are in their orbits. We have a base there established in the early sixties. Actually, we have a number of bases.

So we've explored Mars already.

Sure, a long time ago. Have you seen Alternative Three?

Yes.

That had some truth to it. The Mars landing video was all a spoof, and other parts of it were as well, but there's truth there.

What else do you know as a physicist working on these projects?

OK. This may interest you if you have a physics background. You know what signal non-locality is, right? When two particles in different parts of the universe can apparently communicate with each other simultaneously, no matter what the distance. Communications devices have been made for communicating across vast distances and also locally using a methodology that's impossible to eavesdrop on, because there's nothing traveling between the two devices that can be intercepted. It's impossible to crack or codebreak or eavesdrop because no signal travels anywhere, so there's no signal to be intercepted or decoded. It just doesn't work like that.

The beauty of it is that the devices are actually so simple to build. You can create two chaotic circuits, on a couple of small breadboards using cheap components which anyone can buy, and they communicate with each other in this way. You can build these if you know how.

Are there any other applications besides communication?

[pause]

Yes.

What else can you tell us about this?

That's it. Oh, I should say that I didn't realize at first that you were also the guy who created the Serpo website. Let me just say that it wasn't called by that name. And I doubt that the travel took nine months. That's not how they traveled there.

Oh, you mean the travel was instantaneous?

[pause]

I don't think they traveled the way they say they did on the Serpo website. Maybe there were other programs. There may have been many. But travel across large distances is best done using portals. Anything else is really... it's just inefficient.

You mean they used Stargates?

I guess you could call them that, yes.

I also suspect the system isn't Zeta Reticuli. It sounds to me like Alpha Centauri. I think you mentioned this on the site.

Do you have a reason for saying that?

Well, Zeta 1 and 2 are a long way apart from one another. Alpha Centauri and Proxima Centauri are close together. Alpha Centauri has a solar system very much like ours, but it's older. The planets are in stable orbits. There are three inhabited planets, the second, third and fourth. No, wait, the fifth, I think. Second, third and fifth.

That's astonishing... you knew this professionally? I mean, you came across this in the course of your work?

Yes. This is known. It's comparatively easy to get there, less than five light years away, and that's, you know, it's right next door to us. The... people... there are very human-like. They're not Grays, they're like us. The human form is very common in the universe.

[Bill] Is one of the planets desert-like? That's what I saw in the photo I described. Two setting suns, over a desert landscape. It really blew me away. [\[See this article on the Serpo website\]](#)

Yes, it is. A desert planet.

Wow.

Are you familiar with Project Looking Glass?

That sounds kind of familiar...

It was a kind of technology that Dan Burisch told us about that involved seeing into the future. Were you involved with it?

OK, that technology wasn't developed by us. We were given it, or it was taken from a craft we acquired. I didn't work on that.

We heard they have a man-made Stargate at Los Alamos. Are you familiar with that?

[looks at us without answering, slight enigmatic smile]

What can you tell us about Los Alamos?

There's a Los Alamos website I'll send you, and then you can search there under "gravity shielding" and things like that. It's all there.

[Note: the website is <https://lanl.arxiv.org>.]

Now, it may have been an error that it's in the public domain. You might want to advise people to archive the pages they find there before they're taken off the web once this gets out, if it does. But right now you can see it with your own eyes.

It's hard to know what else to say.

What can you tell us about the ET presence?

Look up the movie Wavelength. It's based on a totally true story. Have you seen it? It's based on an incident that took place at Hunter Liggett. This is a hot one.

No. Where's Hunter Liggett?

90 miles south-south-east of Monterey, California. My primary station at the time was Fort Ord.

I was working there back in the early 70s, when I was in the military, and I was working under CDCEC, which is Combat Developments Command Experimentation Command. You can go look that up.

We were doing testing of all kinds of devices, and we lived out in the field there. We wore laser protection goggles a lot of the time and we had our eyes dilated routinely to check our retinas for burns. Some of the cattle in the fields even wore modified goggles! This was the most bizarre sight you could ever imagine.

Well, one day something happened while we were testing. A disk came into the area and it was hovering, it hovered right directly in front of us, out in a field. So [pause] we shot the *ing thing down.

You shot down a disk?

[shaking head] We should never have done it. It wasn't me personally, but the group did. Between us we had all this gizmo weaponry and I guess they panicked and thought they were in a movie or something. The disk was disabled and it was captured, and so were the occupants, and I saw these very briefly. They were small child-like humanoids, with no hair. And they had small eyes, not large almond-shaped eyes. I don't think anyone knows about this. As far as I know it's not on the internet.

This is incredible. I've never heard of this incident.

Most of the other witnesses ended up in Vietnam and many were killed. I may be the only living witness to what happened... I don't know.

The rest of the story is in a sci-fi movie called Wavelength, which was released in the early '80s. I'd never heard of it until I ran into it years later, in Arizona. Did I just say this? [laughs, for the first time]

When I saw the video, I was expecting some, you know, light entertainment with a beer or two, but I mean, my mouth just hung wide open. The beginning of the film just completely clearly and accurately describes the incident, and the film is very close to the rest of the story, including the use of an abandoned Nike base in Southern California to store them.

Go find it. It's all basically true. I was just amazed when I saw it. The person who wrote it must have been there, or knew someone who was there. But I don't know who.

I had a genuine alien photo once. I showed it to someone, a woman, a very talented woman, who was a microbiologist working for one of the agencies. It scared the s out of her. I couldn't believe it. She just didn't want to deal with it at all. And I'd say that just suggests that the public, even scientists aren't ready for this information to be released. And this person was really smart. It didn't stop her from freaking out, just not wanting to know. She was just, you know, totally spooked.

Do you still have the photo? Can we see it?

I don't know. I may still have it somewhere, and if I can find it, I'll forward it to you.

Can you describe it?

It showed a small being with dark skin, kind of black and wrinkled. He was a sole survivor of an incident. But he died shortly afterwards. He had a suit that was self-healing, ah... self-repairing. It was a kind of fabric, or something, that would actually repair itself. And he had an artifact with him that was some kind of remote control device, and that was taken away from him.

He was the survivor of a crash?

[pause]

No.

A time traveler?

You know everything, don't you?

No, but you're giving us verification.

I mean, it's just so incredibly complicated. It's so complex it's possible that no one person has all the information. Most of the agencies don't know what the other agencies know and everything is heavily compartmentalized right up the wazoo. No-one talks to anyone else about this stuff. Sometimes entire projects are duplicated at the cost of God knows how many billions because the existence of the other project is unknown, it's kept from them. I mean, I'm a scientist, and scientists sometimes have one arm tied behind their backs because they can't communicate freely. In fact, they can't communicate at all [laughs]. And there are dozens, hundreds of classified projects, I mean major ones. It's just a total mess.

Look, there are many groups of ETs, and besides our own ancestors are mixed in there. There are time loops upon time loops, and it's all a mess. You'd need an IQ of 190 to figure it all out.

Tell us about the time loops. By the way, can we ask you again.... you've not heard of Dan Burisch?

Not that I remember. It's not familiar to me.

We interviewed him last month. He was next to John Lear on the web page.

I did see your interview with John Lear, talking about the moon photos and the way they're airbrushed. NASA does that all the time. He's quite a character, by the way. I'd like to meet him one day.

What few people know is that radar reports for the National Weather Service are also airbrushed, so that certain radar images aren't released. I don't mean airbrushed as in by hand. The radar images are electronically filtered using software. Some of these radar traces are huge. In addition, the weather radar won't record traces that are moving faster than a certain high speed, a couple of thousand miles an hour. But there are still traces which need to be removed.

UFOs?

Sure. They're often optically invisible, but usually show up on radar. They're also visible in ultraviolet... I don't think this is generally known by people.

So what can you tell us about the time loops?

Right. [long pause]

The situation with time loops is that there are a large number of parallel timelines, lots of branches. There are no paradoxes. [draws a diagram] If you go back in time and kill your grandfather, that's the grandfather paradox everyone talks about, there's no paradox. When you go back and change the past, it creates a different timeline, which is a new branch of the original one. On that timeline, you'd not be born and wouldn't exist, so that aspect of the paradox is true. Do you see? But on this timeline, which you're on here and now, you do exist, and continue to do so. There's no paradox. It's simple... do you see? You're dealing with different branches of a kind of time tree. No principles get violated. All future events are possibilities, not certainties. That's kind of pretty important, an important... distinction. That's really all I can say about that.

Do you know anything about chemtrails?

OK. Chemtrails were developed by Edward Teller and are basically the seeding of thousands of tons of microparticles of aluminum on the upper atmosphere to try to increase the albedo of the planet, the reflectivity of the planet, because of global warming. Now, gold microparticles, real gold, were used once in a similar situation on another planet, but I guess they had lots of gold, and we used aluminum instead. Global warming is partly because of the greenhouse effect, and that certainly makes things worse, but most of it is because of increased solar activity. Solar activity is the real problem.

Why isn't this information in the public domain? It seems like people should know and would like to know, and there's no security risk if what you say is true.

Scientifically, it's just a total gamble. Not nearly enough is understood. It may work, or maybe it won't. It could easily make things worse. There may also be health side-effects, weather side-effects, God knows what. It affects the whole planet and here you have a unilateral, non-democratic decision, unconnected with the political or democratic process, to launch a huge technological special project that affects everyone on earth. If that's not controversial, I don't know what is. The solution is to keep it secret. It's the usual kneejerk solution, too.

Will it work?

I don't know.

Is this also connected with weather wars?

[pause]

Yes, there are weather wars. The Air Force will own the weather within two years.

What else can you tell us?

Read The Report from Iron Mountain. Much of that is true. I was working with a group down in [_____]. They called us in and passed out a report. The weird thing is that it wasn't even connected with what we were working on, and it came just right out of the blue, out of nowhere, and none of us were expecting it. The guy said, and I'll never forget it because it struck me as just wrong: "There are the wolves and there are the sheep, and we are the wolves." Then they told us to go and read the report, and that was that.

There wasn't any choice, and there still isn't. The way they see it is there are too many people, and, you know, they're right. That's true. So they figure they need to eliminate them and they're planning solutions to this. I happen to think it doesn't have to be that way. Apart from what I've mentioned so far about the spacetime problems, the problem is overpopulation. It's as simple as that. There are programs to reduce global population for everyone's benefit. Believe it or not, the intent there is positive. It was put together by Kennedy way back then. The RAND Corporation was involved, and one of the Rockefellers, I forget which one, probably Laurance, I think.

By killing people off?

Basically, yes. Artificial viruses that have been deployed using a number of means and are hard to detect or identify and nearly impossible to cure. Medical people in the public domain can't identify what's happening.

How do you feel about this personally?

Very mixed. [pause]

As an individual flesh-and-blood human being, I'm appalled. And as a scientist trained to look at things from a high vantage point, a high overview, I have to say that I can understand the thinking.

You have to understand that I'm not defending or condoning this. It's just a comment from an abstract scientific perspective. But the problems we face on this planet are so huge that very few people have the training or experience to view it all, to see it all in the same field of vision.

My situation was different, and I got a chance to see a lot of things because of the nature of my work. Most people don't see it all. But I've worked with many agencies, and I have the big picture.

Do you know that it's legal to test biological and chemical agents against US citizens? It's legal. You know, all that has to be done is to get the approval of the mayor of the city, or his equivalent in any area. Or some representative official. No-one knows this, but it can be checked out. Go look it up. It's all carefully hidden away in the law somewhere, but it's all in the public domain. It's all there.

You've revealed a whole lot of extraordinary material here in our conversation. What's the most important message you'd like to leave people with?

Look, I don't want to shock anyone, but I'm not optimistic. The problems facing us as a race on this planet are huge. I don't believe most civilians are ready and able to comprehend and deal with the sheer scale and complexity of it all. They have enough trouble managing their everyday lives, and these problems are on a completely different level. Overpopulation is really the biggest issue. Everything else facing us is connected with this.

You see, I can understand the military taking matters into their own hands. If there was full disclosure of all the problems, and all the proposed solutions, do you really think it would help any of us? I suggest the answer is probably not. It would just complicate matters further.

But deep down I do feel that everyone should know these things, or else I would not be talking with you. The essential message I want to leave with is that I do actually hope and want to believe that we as a people can handle all this, but sometimes I wake up in the morning and doubt it, but deep down I want people to know the important things that have been kept from us all. But sometimes I do wonder. You don't know what I haven't told you.

On 27 September, three weeks after the initial meetings, and after we had strongly urged him to view the three part Dan Burisch video interview on the Project Camelot website, we received the following e-mail. It is quoted verbatim and in its entirety.

Dan Burisch is telling the whole truth.

I confirm this.

timelines and all

best wishes

6 October 2006

Updates:

Click here for an update (February 2007)
Click here for a further update (May 2007)

Images of nuclear explosions: rips in spacetime?

For more photos of the expanding energy sphere,
see <https://waynesthisandthat.com/abombs.html>

Support Project Camelot - make a donation:

Make A Donation

Donations are not tax deductible for U.S. citizens

*Thank you for your help.
Your generosity enables us to continue our work.*

Bill Ryan and Kerry
Cassidy

kerry@projectcamelot.org

bill@projectcamelot.org