The Armed Forces of Ukraine are falling from one cauldron to another. Immediately after their defeat in Kurakhovo, the Ukrainian garrison were ground down in Dachnoe. Today, they are almost surrounded in the area of Ulakly. The main stage of Russian assault on the Ukrainian stronghold in Constantinople began.

After prolonged battles on the southern outskirts, the Armed Forces of the Russian Federation broke through Ukrainian defense. According to preliminary reports from the battlefield, Russian assault groups launched attacks and advanced in the center of Constantinople. Russian forces are advancing from the southeastern outskirts, expanding their zone of control on the streets. The Ukrainian group in the town risk being cut into two parts in the nearest future.

At the same time, Russian forces are rapidly expanding their zone of control in Andreevka located to north. They are already in control of the eastern, southern parts of the town, including the road to Constantinople. As a result of the recent attacks, they are took control of another Ukrainian stronghold on the northern outskirts.

The battle for Ulakly is also nearing its end. Russian forces have expanded their zone of control in the southern and central parts of the village. Ukrainian forces are trying to resist on the northwestern outskirts.

Amid the ongoing negotiations between Moscow and Washington in Riyadh, Kiev is trying to prolong the bloodshed and postpone the peace agreement, but the advancing Russian army ruins his wet dreams to win.
